WAR FRAUD WARRANT ISSUED

HUNT FOR GEORGIAN

J. L. Phillips, Millionaire Lumberman and Chairman G. O. P. Committee for Georgia Being Sought On Conspiracy Charge.

WARRANT ISSUED BY U. S. COMMISSIONER

Executes Contracts for Government and Audit Section Alleges Firm Indebted to Government for Sum Above One Million Dollars.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—A warrant for J. L. Phillips, millionaire lumberman and republican state chairman for Georgia, was sworn out here late today before United States Commissioner Isaac R. Hitt. Phillips was being sought tonight.

The warrant was obtained under section 37 of the penal code, covering conspiracy to defraud the government. It is understood the move to take Phillips into custody is the direct outgrowth of the grand jury investigation begun here last week into war contracts.

The firm of Stevens and Phillips executed a number of contracts for the government during the war, and according to the audit section of the war department, was found some months ago to be indebted to the government in the sum of $1,840,076.04.

The case has been under consideration for some months and is understood to have been among the first presented to the grand jury.

Phillips is reputed to be extremely wealthy. He has extensive lumber holdings in Georgia and other southern states, and business interests in Philadelphia. His entry into politics has been comparatively recent. Since the republican administration came into power he has been recognized as the republican leader of Georgia. Whether an indictment has been actually returned against Phillips was not learned tonight. The warrant was returned without the presentation of an indictment if one has actually been found.

UKASE BY FRANCE ON HAGUE PARLEY

PARIS, June 3.—The conditions on which France will participate in the forth coming Russian conference at The Hague are outlined in a note addressed to the powers by Premier Poincare, it was revealed this evening.

The conditions are:

First, that The Hague program be confined to three subjects:

1—The Russian debt.

2—Private property rights in Russia.

3—Credits for the restoration of Russia.

Second—That the powers which were represented at the Genoa economic conference unanimously demand that Russia withdraw her memorandum of conditions handed to the conferring nations at Genoa on May 11.

Quarrel Over Bag Of Oats Leads to Death of a Negro

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 3.—A difference of opinion over a thirty-five cent discrepancy in the price of a bag of oats resulted in the fatal shooting of Thomas Dunn, negro, tonight.

Dunn and William F. Koehler, feed merchant, had the argument.

Dunn, according to the police, threw a scale weight at Koehler, fracturing a frontal bone, whereupon Koehler ran into the store, got a revolver and, failing to frighten the negro with a shot fired into the floor, fired a bullet into the black man's body.

The negro ran a few feet and fell dead.

HOT SHOTS AT HARDING

Senator Stanley, Kentucky, Accuses President of Making Effort to "Stifle If Not to Muzzle, the Press" of America.

WALSH IN DEMANDS HOLLAND BE FIRED

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Steady democratic sniping at Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and his conduct of the department of justice which has featured every session of the senate this week, broke forth anew today into a hot volley of fire directed at President Harding himself.

Senator A. O. Stanley, democrat of Kentucky, who hitherto has taken no part in the general democratic assault on "the Daugherty case," delivered a bitterly caustic speech on the floor, in which he charged that "the president of the United States is using his high office to stifle, if not to muzle, the press."

Stanley's speech marked the first direct and severe condemnation of the president that has been heard on the senatae floor. Coupled with Stanley's criticism of President Harding was the most vitrolic denunciation of Daugherty that has yet been made.

Stanley was followed by Senator Walsh, democrat of Montana, who demanded that President Harding "fire" Assistant Attorney General Rush L. Holland, because of a letter Holland wrote to the republican national committeeman in Hawaii, concerning two federal judgeships. The letter advised going slow in the selection of udges 'utinl wejll the selection of judges until we have been consulted."

TAYLOR BITTERLY ATTACKS SCHEME TO NAME NORTON

Gubernatorial Candidate of Mid-Road Element Delivers Hot Shot.

Scores Sorenson for Retaining Sum as Paper Promotion Expense.

W. J. Taylor of Merna, who is to be the candidate of the mid-road element in the progressive primary for governor, has issued a vitriolic statement to members of the party denouncing the movement to nominate J. N. Norton for that office on a democratic-progressive fusion ticket.

He asks that signatures be withheld from nominating petitions for Norton for governor and Wray for senator. C. A. Sorenson is unbraided in Taylor's statement for retaining $35,000 as promotion expense out of $61,000 collected to establish the New State as a daily paper, then publishing a weekly instead of a daily, and using it to aid orton's candidacy.

The Merna man's rancor also extends to State Chairman Edmisten, Arthur Wray, F. L. Bollen and Edgar Howard, all of whom he accuses of being in a deal to kill the new party. His communiction sent to The Star is as follows:

Frowns on Fusion Candidate.

"The press report is wrong in saying I agreed that the question of fusion or no fusion should be submitted to our progressive primary by all of us signing both fusion and straight party tickets. I will sign petitions for those only who can truthfully, as the law requires, file affidavits with the secretary of state saying that they affiliate with our party and will abide by the results of the primary. This Norton can not do and I will not stultify myself by signing for him a petition which requires him to swear a lie.

"Our convention declared for independent political action, because we wanted to get away from the rule of bosses and big business. Wray has decided to run for senator to effect fusion with the democrats upon Norton for governor. After that, if Howells wins and Hitchcock is the democratic nominee, he proposes to throw us overboard again for fusion with the republicans upon Howell for senator.

"He presumes too much upon our gullibieness and his popularity. He says:

"'Norton, if you wont come to our party we've got to have only you, and we'll all go over to your party even if it does kill ours. What if the convention did unanimously (except Sorenson) declare for a new party and independent action? What do platforms and convention pledges

GOOD SHIP MAUD IS ON HIGH SEA BOUND FOR POLE

Vessel Sails From Seattle On Notable Trip In Great White Wastes.

Captain Amundsen Expects to Be Away Five and Possibly Seven Years.

(International News Service.)

SEATTLE, Wash., June 3.—One of the most notable expeditions in the history of the world got under way here this afternoon when the auxiliary powered schooner Maud, the vessel in which Capt. Roald Amundsen will attempt to drift with the ice pack across the North pole, left the Union Oil company's dock at 3:30 p. m., for Nome, Alaska, on the first leg of a voyage which will take at least seven years.

Hundreds of spectators, including city officials, and Capt. Amundsen himself, lined the shore as the Maud, flying the Norwegian and American flags, was escorted down the harbor by the big naval tug Mahopac and a fleet of big power cruisers of the Seattle Yacht club.

As the Maud passed under the guns of Fort Worden a farewell salute was fired as a recognition on the part of the United States government of the Norwegian's government's expedition.

Capt. Amundsen did not sail on the Maud. He will leave here tomorrow on the steamship Victoria, arriving at Nome in advance of the Maud, where he will complete final details for his dash into the frozen Arctic. He will rejoin the Maud at Nome with additional supplies and twenty-five husky dogs.

The Maud, named for the Queen of Norway, carries a crew of eleven men. Two airplanes are aboard which will be used for scouting purposes in the vicinity of the North pole; a radio outfit with a sending radius of 2,000 miles and scientific material for the most exhaustive research into the mysteries of the far north.

CLAIM BANDIT BROWN SEEN IN SOUTH LINCOLN

Two Posses Conduct Search But Fail to Find Trace of Ex-Convict.

Suspect Said to Have Answered Description of Omaha Man.

Two posses headed by Captain Walter Anderson, and Warden Fenton at 7:50 p. m., Saturday, began a search of the grounds southeast of Gooch's mill, following a report from Dr. D. G. Griffith, superintendent of the state hospital, that Fred Brown, ex-convict, had been seen at the railroad crossing at Sixth and South streets. At least five people saw the bandit and identified him as being Brown, according to the authorities.

The suspect was first spied by Mr. and Mrs. James R. King, attendants at the hospital, who were driving in a car to the city. With them in the car were Mr. and Mrs. Chapman, also employed at the hospital.

Mr. King was driving, and passed a short man at Sitxh and South streets. Although none of the party had been thinking about Brown, the man whom they passed aroused their suspicion, and King slowed down and hailed the stranger. The man turned and faced them, and all four occupants of the car got a square look at him. The man resembled Brown in every respect. According to King, he was dressed in a dark coat, corduroy trousers and had a black felt hat. Instead ow answering King's hail, the stranger, after a moment's scrutiny dashed across the road south, into the yards, and was seen to enter a long shed.

Mr. King drove back to the state hospital and Dr. H. G. Brown, of the hospital staff, got into his car and hurried to the scene, while Dr. Griffith notified Warden Fenton.

Suspect Hides in Shed.

As Dr. Brown approached the long shed from the south, he slowed down and noticed the man, whom King had described, standing by the fence, near the south end of the shed. As soon as the man discovered that Dr.

WOMAN GIVEN A LIFE SENTENCE

Must Spend Rest of Days In Prison For Murder of Her Husband.

(United Press.)

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., June 3.—A crushed and broken woman was led from the court room of Judge Alonzo Blair today.

"Guilty of murder in the second degree."

And then the pronouncement:

"Imprisonment in the woman's prison for life."

Late this afternoon the woman who was branded by the jury as the murderess of Frank Carl, her second husband, was in a state of collapse. Her condition was considered grave.

The verdict was reached after the jury had deliberated throughout the night.

She had testified coolly and unemotionally, looking the jurors squarely in the eye.

Conviction was obtained by the state upon the basis of the evidence introduced to show that Mrs. Carl had fed arsenic to her first husband and his father, as well as to her second husband.

According to her attorney, Ed K. Adams, he and Mrs. Carl's other lawyers will attempt to obtain a new trial on a motion, based on the claims that certain evidence was illegally admitted, which will probably be filed Monday.

The trial had stirred all of Indiana for seven days. She was indicted after the bodies of Frank Carl and his father had been exhumed at Hiawatha, Kas., and arsenic revealed in their intestines. Later, traces of arsenic were found in the bzody of Robert Gibson, the first husband, who was buried at Nelsonville, Ohio.

U. S. Will Join Allies In Probe Of Turk Killings

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The United States will join the allies in investigating reported Kemalist Turkish outrages against the non-combatant Christian population of the Anatolian republic.

In announcing acceptance by this government of Great Britain's invitations to take part in this inquiry, Secretary Hughes made it clear that the United States assumes no obligation beyond that of helping determining the facts about the situation in that portion of Asia Minor.

Bans Shipment of Planes to Chinese

WASHINGTON, June 3.—American airplant companies by an order of the treasury tonight, were stopped from shipping airplanes and airplane equipment to China as long as a state of war continues in the Chinese republic.

American collectors of customs were directed upon advice of Secretary of State Hughes not to allow shipments of the aeronautical material or equipment of any character to leave the ports of the United States for Chinese destination.

CLOSE OF ROUND-UP

NEARLY 2,000 ALUMNI HERE FOR FESTIVITIES

Professor North Tells Graduates If Democracy Is Saved It Will Be By University Men and Women Not Proud of America's Post War Record.

More than fifteen hundred people thronged the university campus Saturday evening for the concluding event of the three big days of the Cornhusker Round-up, the carnival, which with its brilliant lights, its confetti and balloons and its high class entertainment was a typical Madri Gras affair. Every event of the roundup, beginning with Ivy day which was entirely in the hands of this year's graduating class, and including the arts and science pageant, the law barbecue and all the other college and organization events Friday as well as the parade, the circus and the carnival Saturday, went off with a snap.

Harold F. Holtz, alumni secretary, estimates that about sixteen hundred of the alumni were back at least part of the time during the week. The effort this year was not only to royally entertain the homecoming grads but to make all the events informal. In past years the Saturday preceding commencement has been alumni day on which a more or less formal luncheon was held and very few alumni returned from a distance. The first six to register this year were from these places: Chicago Pulman Wash., San Francisco, Niagra Falls, N. Y., Columbia university, N. Y., and El Paso Tex.

Crowds Come Early.

The carnival, which was in charge of J. Wilbur Wolfe of Omaha, junior in the university, was set for 8:30, Saturday evening, but the crowds began to come long before that time. An electric sign "Welcome Alumni" on the tower of University hall flashed on and off repeatedly and a string of brilliant lights extended from the entrance at Twelfth and R streets up to the armory, past the "little green theatre" and over to Art hall. Promptly at 8:30 dancing began in the armory and Art hall with a high class, seven piece orchestra at each place. The floors were immediately crowded. At 9 o'clock the dancing stopped and the crowd assembled on the lawn in front of the "little green theatre" where the University Players presented a clever little comedy. "The Cast Rehearses."

The play was directed by Herbert Yenne, '21, and the cast was as follows.

Phyllis Oliver—Myrtle Carpenter.
Flora Mae Oliver, a younger sister—Foce Cecil.
Miss Violet Van Elsmere—Mrs. Mabel Ranum.
Evelyn—Miss Fleming.
Julie—Marie Mills.

The plot depicted the rehearsal of a home talent play with all the tribulations of Evelyn, the director. The audience was kept in constant merriment, one moment by the shrieking voice of the gayly clad Miss Violet Van Elsmere who wanted to show them all how their parts should be played and another moment by the excitement of the French girl, Julie or the freaks of one of the other amateur actresses. The prospect of presenting the play finally received its death blow by the elopment of one of the leading characters, Phyllis Oliver.

While the play was going on, serpentine, balloons, horns and confetti were passed around, with instructions not to start them going till the play was over. The moment the play closed the squawking of the balloons started and confetti began to fly about in the midst of the general hub-bub to get back to the dancing, and all the while the roulette with its race horses was ging round and round and drawing its patrons, the lucky ones receiving boxes of candy.

The dance halls presented gay scenes. They were decorated in scarlet and cream, and confetti covered the floor and serpentine wound round and round the people as they danced.

W. S. G. A. had charge of the refreshments, and pretty girls wearing clownish caps sold ice cream to the people who thronged past their tables constantly moving from one part of the campus to another so that they would miss nothing.

Circus a Gay Affair.

The circus in the afternoon, though less dignified, was hardly less gay. George Slater, a senior in the college of engineering, had charge of it. This began at 2:15 with a regular circus parade around the campus and the athletis field where it was held. A platform was erected near the north side of the athletic field and the north section of the bleachers was completely filled. One of the features of the parade was Herbert Yenne dressed as a dancing girl, who tried to vamp all the men who had their ladies with them. Mr. Yenne later did his famous tight rope walking stunt, carefully balancing himself on a narrow white ribbon that reached down to the floor of the platform. Both he and Dwight Miriam did clown stunts.

One of the first events of the circus was by a dozen boys under the direction of O. B. Anderson, physical training director at the Y. M. C. A., who put on various acts in tumbling. A dozen girls, with Miss Dorothy Whelpley and diss Verna Bowden in

ANOTHER STEP IN EFFORT TO CHECK GOUGING IN COAL

Hoover Has Second Proposition Ready for Retail Dealers Monday.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover tonight began the second step in his attempt to Hooverize the coal industry and protect the public against impending high prices.

Another "man to man proposition"—similar to the present pledge between Hoover and the producing coal operators—will be submitted to the retail dealers Monday, it was announced.

Under pressure of public opinion, Hoover plans to exact from the retailers the promise to prevent profiteering and enforce reasonably lower sales prices, commensurate with the reductions the operators promised at the mines.

Hoover is confident the proposition will be accepted and that the public will thus be steeled for the crash of present stocks expected in three weeks.

Twenty to twenty-five retailers will comprise the special committee of the National Retail Coal Merchants association which is to meet the secretary at the commerce department at 3 p. m. Monday. The announcement that the meeing had been arranged stated the conference was "for the purpose of discussing the question of co-operation on the part of the retailers in the plans for fair prices during the course of the strike."

It was learned, however, that Hoover has already tacitly communicated his proposition to the leaders of the association and that their acceptance is practically assured.

Homer D. Jones, of Chicago, president of the association, will act as chairman of the committee. It is conceded probable that he will be asked to head the special permanent committee which will deal with Hoover on the price question as long as the present strike continues.

No reports of profiteering in coal by retailers has been received at the department of commerce, it was said. One complaint was received from Chicago that an arrangement had been made by retailers there to jump the price 25 to 50 cents a ton. The commerce department immediately began an investigation and the report was found to be false.

Will Support Move To Lay Aside Tariff For Soldier Bonus

WASHINGTIN, June 3.—Democartic senators favoring the early enactment of ja soldiers' bonus bill tonight assured Senator McCumber, republican of North Dakota, chairman of the senate finance committee that they would support the motion he plans to make next week to replace the tariff bill with the bonus. Democrats made it plain, however, that they would not vote for his revised bonus bill without seeking to amend it materially or to have a substitute of their own passed. They told him they had no intention of engaging in "obstructive tactics," but they proposed "ample" diuscsion of the entire bonus question before the bill was disposed of finally.

Alleged Evader Of Draft Wants To Gain Freedom

TOPEKA, Kas., June 3.—A petition was filed in United States district court heer late today by Edwin Rudolph Bergdoll, brother of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, asking a writ of habeas corpus to obtain release of the former from the federal disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth.

Bergdoll was sentencedto serve four years in the barracks for attempting to evade the draft.

Fail to Locate Body of Boy, 10, Drowned In River

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 3.—All attempts to recover the body of Orville Pate, 10, had proved futile up to a late hour tonight.

Will Carry On An All-Summer Fight

WESTERVILLE, Ohio, June 3.—That an all-summer fight will be waged in congressional districts throughout the nation owing to the wet-dry question and that the political struggle will be as bitter as those which characterized the fighting prior to enactment of the federal prohibition amendment, is indicated in a statement issued here tonight by officials of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Monday are:

State and Defense Complete Their Showing Late Saturday Afternoon.

Two Suits of Dainty Silk Garments Dangled Before Eyes of Court.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 3.—Outcome of the bigamy charge against Rudolph Valentino, favorite of the flappers, will rest uncertain until Justice J. Walter Hanby announces his decision Monday morning.

Arguments, which occupied most of the long session, were concluded shortly after 2 o'clock.

The state represented by Deputy District Attorney Costello, left the case with the contention that mere proof of the marriage and their return to live in this country was sufficent grounds to prove bigamy.

The defense maintained that this is insufficient and declared that any breach of the California law, took place outside the California jurisdiction.

Efforts to locate Madame Alla Nazimova who was to have been an important witness were unavailing.

Dr. Floretta White of Palm Springs was the only witness.

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 3.—The purple and white pajamas, or Chinese suits, worn by Rodolph Valentino and Miss Winifred Hudnut, his bride, while on their honeymoon, were dangled in the faces of the judge and a curious crowd of spectators just before the film star's hearing on a charge of bigamy was completed today.

The suits composed the entire evidence offered by the defense after Deputy District Attorney James P. Costello had announced to Justice J. Walter Hanby that the prosecution had completed its case.

The defense contended garments were Chinese suits worn because of the excessive heat if Imperial Valley, and not pajamas.

LILLIAN RUSSELL IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Attending Physician Holds Hope Former Stage Beauty Will Recover.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 3.—Suffering from a complication of diseases believed to have been caused by a slight injury sustained while on shipboard when she was returning from her late European tour, Mrs. Alexander P. Moore, formerly Lillian Russell, the famous actress, is in a critical condition at her home here.

The illness of Mrs. Moore reached a crisis today, according to Dr. L. W. Swope, the attending physician, who also stated this evening that her condition had slightly improved and that there were strong hopes of her recovery.

Mrs. Moore has been ill for several days, but not until yesterday did her condition become alarming.

While returning from Europe recently, where she had made an extensive investigation for the government of immigration conditions, Mrs. Moore was the victim of an accident which at the time was considered of little importance. With the exception of being slightly inconvenienced for several days, Mrs. Moore suffered little.

However, within the past few days, Mrs. Moore became seriously ill. For a time her recovery was doubtful.

Tonight her condition was pronounced as hopeful.

Fill Jury Box For Trial of 2. On Murder Charge

QUINCY, Ill., June 3.—Judge Wolfe and court officers tonight were investigating charges made by attorneys for the twenty-nine Greeks on trial for the murder last April of Sheriff Lashbrook and two deputies that threats had been made against defense witnesses.

Walter Wright of Jacksonville, the chief counsel for the defense told the court this afternoon of the alleged intimidation and requested that protection be provided for witnesses. Wright declared that threats came from friends and relatives of the slain men.

Selection of a jury was completed this afternoon.

CONGRESS IS RILED

INTERIOR SENATORS READY FOR REVOLT

Believe That As Matter of Political Expediency Harding Should Be Willing to Shelve Measure Until After Coming Campaign.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Congress was in a rebellious mood tonight over President Harding's insistence that the ship subsidy bill be passed at this session, and the assurance given by republican leaders that they will try to carry out his wishes.

Republican senators and congressmen from the interior states were showing signs of open revolt. They are afraid of the subsidy bill—afraid of it for the effect it might have on the fall congressional elections.

Many of the midwest members believe the subsidy should be put through and under ordinary conditions they would stand ready to vote for it. But they point out that the proposition of giving the ocean shippers $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 in aid each year finds few friends in such states as Ohio, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri during a campaign, and for that reason they believe that in "political fairness" the administration should agree to shelving the shipping measure until the next session.

Resent Steps to Jam Bill.

The house is particularly riled over the attempt that will be made to jam the subsidy bill through now. Members of the lower branch openly charge that the senate has no honest intention of acting on the measure until after November, but wants the house to pass it "to encourage the shipping interests." The word house members are sending over to the senate is that "we are up for reelection too."

Besides exposing them to possible unfavorable reaction from over the country, house members point out that taking the ship subsidy bill up at this time would spoil their plans for starting three day recesses about June 15 and would hold them in Washington at least through the month of June when they ought to be back in their districts campaigning.

Following a conference at the white house today, Chairman Greene, Massachusetts of the house merchant and fisheries committee, said his committee would get to work next week to perfect the subsidy bill and get it ready to lay before the house. Republican Leader Mondell, Speake Gillette, and Chairman Campbell of the rules committee also at the conference with the president said they would give the subsidy bill precedence over other legislation as soon as it is ready.

INDICATED BREAK IN STRIKE LOOMS

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—As the country's rapidly dwindling coal supply threatens a serious fuel shortage within the next few weeks, a possible break in the strike situation was seen tonight when it was learned Secretary of Labor Davis would confer on Monday with a delegation of West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

While Davis declined to commem on the conference beyond saying the operators had requested it without disclosing the matters to be discussed those in close touch with the strike situation scented a break in the ranks of the operators.

If such a break has come, the government is expected to take advantage of the opportunity to offer to mediate the differences between the operators and miners.

Cities Flooded When Water Pours Over Large Dam

CARBONDALE, Penn., June 3.—A cloudburst in this vicinity late today caused creeks above the Fernwood dam, which supplies water to this city, to swell, forcing water over the dam.

Forest City, Carbondale, Simpson and other towns and hamlets in Susquehanna county tonight are under four feet of water as a result of the flood. Damages were estimated at $400,000.

Early reports that the dam had burst proved false.

Residence of the valley, however, were warned to prepare to flee from their homes, to high ground.

Letter Expresses Fear Woman After Anderson

Evidence In Note Received From "Dad" Indicates Man Slain at Kansas City Lived In Fear of Person Spoken of As "B."

(International News Service.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 3.—Evidence that Frank Warren Anderson, war aviator, shot and killed here early today by Marie (Peggy) Beal, graduate nurse, was living in fear of death from the hands of some woman, "B," came to light tonight in a letter found among Anderson's effects, and signed "Dad." The letter was dated May 20, 1922 and expressed fears that "B" was trying to locate him.

The writer of the letter said he had on two occasions heard "B" threaten Anderson's life.

"Warren, I am worried," the letter read. "Leona has been visiting us regularly, and I would not be surprised if some of us had mentioned you being in Kansas City, without thinking.

"She let drop the remark that she had heard from 'B' and that 'B' was starting for the middle-west. I did not dare to question her.

Swears Will Find Him.

"There is something I have not told you before, for as you know, we have not even mentioned 'B' since you went away. When 'B' left here she swore that she would find you if it took years and that she would do you all the harm she could.

"She acted like a wild woman then, and had a most peculiar look out of her eyes. You know I heard Ler threaten to kill you on two occasions when you were on your good behavior for things she could not prove afterward.

"I want to warn you. Be on your guard for we all love you, boy, and don't want harm to come to you. If things don't turn out well—I mean if 'B' should happen to locate you and you want to get away from there quick, you are welcome to come back home."

The letter also stated the writer might be able to get back for the younger Anderson his old place at "W's."

Police believe the mysterious "B" referred to in the letter was Anderson's wife, the woman he declared to Miss Beal he could not divorce.

This theory was borne out by another letter, discovered tonight. It was addressed to "Dearest Peg," and written by Anderson, and contained a reference to "B."

Speaking of receiving a trunk from his old home at Collingswood, N. J., Anderson wrote:

"I do not know whether the folks broke it or if 'B' did it."

"B" Anderson's Wife.

Miss Beal, shown copies of the letters in the hospital tonight, declared "B" was Anderson's wife, whose real name she believes is Mrs. Opal Anderson.

"He called her 'Babe'" she said. "But it was a nickname just as he had a nickname for all of us who loved him. The last I knew of Mrs. Anderson she was in Philadelphia, in a hospital where he had deserted her to die."

"He married 'Babe' armistice night," Miss Beal said. "They lived together for a year and then he left her."

The Leona referred to in the letter from "Dad" is a married woman, Miss Beal said, adding:

"He made love to her, too."

"And there was another wife before 'Babe'—Ruth Anderson. He told me he divorced Ruth."

"I have played in hearts, Peg,' he told me on our fatal night," she said. "I am a dealer in hearts. Here is my hand." And he handed me the list of fifty names, with mine—Little Peg—at the very end.

"And 'Peg' his little sunshine, is the last heart his hand ever held," she concluded, sinking back on her cot.

Rugs Are Stolen.—Mrs. Bushnell, 1942 South Seventeenth street, reported to the police Saturday evening, that somebody stole two rugs from her. One was a Navajo 4x6 rug, and the other a tan rug, 8x14. Police are investigating.

Has Fine Potatoes.—All of the potatoes now large enough for table use have not been grown in College View. Mrs. J. H. Creighton, West C and Ricketts streets, reported Saturday to The Star that in her garden she has potatoes, seven to nine to the hill and that they are much larger than hen's eggs. Potatoes have had a very rapid growth since the recent rains.

Two Bears and an Auto.—Berne Pierson, known as "Idaho Bill" and former manager of a wild west show, pulled into Lincoln Saturday night in a Dodge car, in the rear of which were chained two big brown ferocious bears. "Idaho Bill" told the crowd, that surrounded his car at Ninth and P streets, that he had lassoed the bears on the Mexican border. He said that he was on his way to Omaha. A large crowd gathered around the car.

Attempts Robbery.—Police made an emergency run about 9:45 p. m. Saturday to 1045 C street following an exciting call from that vicinity that a robbery had been attempted there The officers found that three men had followed Mrs L C Terry and Mrs Ida Wieden who, live at 1045 C street from a grocery store and that at Tenth and D streets one of the men had stepped on the curb and began to creep up stealthily in the darkness on the two women The women screamed according to the report to the police and the three men made off

Supreme Court's Last Sitting.—On Monday and Tuesday of this week, the Nebraska supreme court will hold its last regular sittings before the summer recess. The court had expected to sit all week, but so many cases tentatively set for hearing were put over at the request of attorneys and litigants that the calendar was greatly shortened. The Benda cattle suit against the state for $23,000, appealed by the plaintiffs from Lancaster county, is one of the cases set for argument Tuesday. Another is an original suit against the state auditor to test the validity of a Pierce county school bond issue.

Two Capitol Entrances Closed. — The west entrance of the old capitol building was shut off Saturday afternoon, on account of the fact that one of the steam dirt diggers is now working near there and will soon have an excavation made right up to where the steps were. The north entrance has been closed for some time, due to the foundation excavation on that side of the building. As the work proceeds, the south and east doorways will have to be abandoned, but before that is done the contractor must bridge the gap on the north or west so people can get into and out of the state house. Office people are wondering whether they will have to get in over a viaduct leading to the second floor.

Jury Unable to Decide—Failing to agree upon a verdict after seven hours deliberation, the jury in George L. Prentiss' $10,000 damage suit in district court here against James M. Austin was excused Saturday at 6 p. m. to return for further reliberation Monday morning. Mr. Prentiss who is 73 years old, claimed Austin's automobile struck him as he was walking across the intersection at Fourteenth and P streets, September 12, 1920. The car hurled him fifty feet, Mr. Prentiss said. Both Prentiss and Austin are machinists working at the Havelock shops and live in Lincoln. Mr. Prentiss was unable to work for eleven weeks following the accident and alleged his injuries are permanent. Austin denies the plaintiff's allegations that he was careless or negligent.

The Lincoln Dramatic Arts club will hold its next regular meeting in the Temple theatre Tuesday evening, June 6, at 8 o'clock Local talent will present the play, "Enter, the Hero." The performance is open to members of the club and to their invited guests.

Brown was watching him, he ran back into the shed.

"The man had on about two weeks' growth of beard," said Dr. Br. Brown. "He appeared eo be a little over five feet tall, and was dressed like Mr. King described him."

Warden Fenton mobilized a posse of about thirty-five armed men and the shed was surrounded and searched.

"The posse heard a peculiar noise in the shed, while they were searching it," said Dr. Brown, "but were unable to account for it. No trace of the bandit, or any suspect was found."

Captain Anderson also reached the scene, and headed another posse which searched the surrounding country.

Armed Woman in Posse.

According to Detective Elza Longstreth, there was a woman in Warden Fenton's posse, who marched along with a rifle, ready to let fly a lead stream if Brown hove into sight. She was Miss Alma Speck. Detective Longstreth said that she handled the rifle with the skill of an old campaigner.

Special Agent Tom Smith, of the Burlington railroad, returned Saturday morning from Inland, Neb., near Hastings, where he had gone Friday to investigate a report that Brown had been seen there.

"I ran down that clue," said Smith, "and found it to be caused by an old foreigner, whom I located. The foreigner was about 5 feet, 6 inches in height and did not resemble Brown at all."

At a late hour Saturday night, Captain Anderson was still inclined to the belief that the bandit was yet in Omaha. State Sheriff Hyers remained in Omaha Saturday night.

Boy Saw Fugitive?

OMAHA, June 3.—Police combed the entire neighborhood in the vicinity of Forty-sixth and Wirt streets here tonight, following the story told by Delmar Campbell. The boy said he had come on a man sleeping in a ravine. He answered Brown's description, but to make sure the lad went home for a paper which had the desperado's picture. The two compared exactly and the police were immediately notified. When they arrived, however. The fugitive was gone. The place was in the same vicinity as Fred Brown's first performances.

amount to anyway? Expediency first, always. Me and Sorenson, Norton and Edmisten, have decided at this last minute to take the whole works into the 'demo.' party. We've got two big political machines with big dailies and lots of money to do it with.'

Slap at Labor Element.

"What if petitions were circulated and secured for Wray for governor, Bigelow for senator, and Ellsberry for lieutenant governor? Hasn't Wray a right to run for senator if he wants to, even if our labor union allies are slapped in the face and their man, Bigelow and Ellsberry, who were with us from the first, thrown to the junk for Howell and Norton, ho never were with us? Has not he a right to run for the senatorship to help along this machine-made fusion deal for the sake of expediency?

"They suavely say to us: 'Let us each sign up the petitions of the other, democrats and progressives alike and put the whole mater up to the primary; what could be farther?' Then to themselves they chuckle: 'We've got the machines of both parties big dailies, lots of money; we've fixed Townley, too, and he is with us; Wray's popularity, that helps.

"But they have another chuckle and it is the fiendish, ghoulish chuckle of hishonor. They say: 'We have Sorensen and he has your paper, the New State, and your money. Sorenson, who always opposed our party and only joined it to kill it or rule it. This last is the worst.'

"A traitor in sheep's clothing uses the money of our friends to pay himself to run their paper, full of fusion poison with which to kill their party and ours—to do the thing which he had in mind when e alone opposed our organizing at Grand Island.

Says Friend Dissipated.

"This last is our worst discouragement, because the story of this paper's founding and purpose is so shocking a story of betrayed confidence and wasted thousands of hard-earned money, $200,000 subscribed by trusting farmers, $61,000 of which was collected in cash and the balance of $139,000 still unpaid but obligated, all for an independent daily; $35,000 absorbed for promotion and all gone. Where and to whom? The courts will have to tell, I suspect, if the promoter and manager refuses. No daily, just a little four-sheet weekly, without an editor, in direct opposition to the unanimous direction of the paper's board of directors.

"In strusting innocence we slept and with our weapons have been stabbed burdened unbearably with taxes, bankrupt with deflation, no relief in sight from either of the old parties, stunned so suddenly with the all but deadly blow to our promising young party, no paper, no money, very little organization, time for filing almost expired, the direction of five hundred people reversed to fit the policy of only one of our original signers and he always opposed to our organizing, with only the insulting excuse that 'conditions have changed and Charley Bryan was going to file on the 'demo' ticket and he would divide our forces.'

"They say: Times have changed since we held forth at Grand Island: hogs and corn are up.' Therefore, their reasoning, we'll join with the demos and lick the republicans. It's a discouraging mess, our people are disgusted and don't know which way to turn or what to do.

Two Parties Won't Mix.

"But we'll have a full ticket of real progressives in the primary, if we can, in so short a time, get from our heart-sore people the required number of petitioners, and the demos and fusionists will not get in if it can be prevented. They are aiming to fool somebody in the primary, and somebody again after the primary. Norton can't ride two horses going in opposite directions. He can't support Hitchcock, Howell, and Wray. He can't favor the open primary for progressives and the closed primary fo remocrats. He can't support two sets of candidates anr ride in upon two opposite platforms.

"Decent democrats can't get anyone to file in opposition to this combination. We real progressives are in the same trouble. White men with clean clothes hate to get into such contaminated mudholes. I admit it is awful discouraging. Only for reason and right being on our side, it would seem foolish to enter into such a one-sided fight.

"Under such discouragements, whoever leads our fight is of the stuff needed for these times, and if with such we can win through the primary then we will have lots of time beteen the primary and the general election, and with right on our side, with true men and a clean party we will fight to win.

"Don't sign Norton's petition for governor or Wray's for senator, but do sign for real progressives whom our committee can persuade to stand boldly for our cause. Save our party—it's needed now and will be needed in 1924.

W. J. TAYLOR."

Says Wray Has "Flopped" Again.

"P. S.: Since this mistake has been made, Wray is out with the following: 'We don't need parties in states, only for the nation, and I am getting out an initiative for such an amendment.' Another one of his flops. Three months ago he was for a party right now and here. Have you seen his petitions for this referendum? Do you think you will? No. This is the excuse of a cheap lawyer with a bad case trying to make black look white.

"Wray addressed a public letter to our recent mid-road conference, saying: 'I'll die in the ditch with Norton for governor but I won't enter a contest for senator.' He reiterated this to me just last Wednesday in his office, when at that very minute his petitions for senator were out—and he knew it.

"And Edgar Howard is running with these 'highbinders' (his own word) for lieutenant governor. (Mr. Printer, please run the words 'edgar howard' and 'lieutenant governor' in very small type.)

"Real progressives: Our petitions will reach you in a very few days. Please fill out and mail promptly, as our time is very short till these must reach the secretary of state. I hope to get this into the dailies and am sending it to the New State."

The greater comfort, pleasure and pride of possession you experience living in a home of your own, far outweighs its cost. You never take any interest in a rented house belonging to another. But a home of your own—what a difference. Every part of it gives an added interest to your life. You enjoy fussing around with the lawn, garden, etc., and have the satisfaction of knowing, that come what may, you have a roof over your head—one that you can sell, if it becomes necessary. Get started on a home of your own, and let the Clark Lumber Company help you with their plans, advice and material.

OVER A THOUSAND CHILDREN FED BY COUNTY PENSIONS

346 Families in Nebraska Receive Support From Local Government.

Total Amount in 1921 Outside Lincoln and Omaha Was $66,940.

Three hundred and forty-six mothers with 1,004 children dependent upon them for support are receiving mothers' pensions in thirty-five counties of Nebraska, outside of Lancaster and Douglas. The total amount of money provided from county funds for the maintenance of these families in 1921 was $66,940, or nearly $200 for each mother thus aided.

A detailed summary of the work being done under the mothers' pension law is in the possession of Mrs. Emig Hornberger, state child welfare director. It was compiled at Washington in the federal child welfare bureau and brought to Lincoln by Miss Emma O. Lundberg, social service secretary in that branch of the government.

Pensions range from a minium of $3.17 per month for each child in Franklin county to $10 per month per child in the following counties: Box Butte, Buffalo, Furnas, Grant, Kimball, Perkins, Pierce, Sioux and Wayne.

The highest average amount paid to each needy family was $50 in Chase county, and the lowest was $12.67 per month in Franklin.

No Reports from 58 Counties.

The government tabulation contains no figures from 59 counties, which either did not report or are not appropriating money to pay mothers' pensions. In practically all counties aid is given to destitute families, but not in the form of regular monthly contributions in cash. Some county boards purchase groceries and other necessaries for those in need of help.

Lancaster county, one of those not included in the federal compilation, had fourteen mothers with forty-four children on its mothers' pension roster on March 1, last, which is the same date as that on which the Washington statistics were reported.

About $6,000 was set aside from the county general fund, out of the 1921 tax levy, to meet the expense of these payments, most of which are being made at the rate of $10 per month for every dependent child. The smallest monthly allowance to any pensioner is $10 and the largest $50.

Among the fourteen Lancaster mothers who draw pensions from the county, all but two are widows. The husband of one of these two deserted his family, and the other household head is in the penitentiary.

Some Have Other Income.

It appears from the federal digest that 205 women, out of the 346 reported as drawing mothers' pensions in thirty-five counties, have other sources of income which help to maintain themselves and their offspring.

Of the total number, 259 were widows; 21 divorced; 29 separated from or deserted by their husbands; 5 have insane spouses; 4 have husbands in prisons; 8 are in other circumstances; and 20 were not classified.

Saunders county aids more mothers and children than any other in the list. It had 26 of the former and 66 of the latter on its list March 1. Platte county, aided 16 families and 47 children. In Scotts Bluff county, 45 children were beneficiaries and in Merrick 40.

The largest amount of money appropriated per capita of population to pay mothers' pensions during the resent fiscal year was 29 cents in Saunders county, the next highest being 27 cents per capita in Knox.

Few Activities at The Local Chamber

With the approach of warm weather the activities at the Chamber of Commerce are slackening up. A number of clubs and committees discontinue regular meeting through the summer months, and the large conventions rarely meet. Following is the program for the week beginning June 5:

Tuesday: Forty Hommes et Eight Chevaux luncheon in the west balcony.

Wednesday, Retail Credit Men's association luncheon in the west balcony. Realtors luncheon in the east balcony.

New Method of Home Lighting Is Demonstrated

A new method of home lighting is demonstrated by Randall and Noll this week. The system is known as the "Homelite" plant and combines features that home owners off of the regular lighting circuits have long been hoping for.

It combines a gasoline engine and electric generator in a machine weighing only 100 pounds, a machine which is air-cooled, portable, quiet and economical. The plant will run 20 to 25 twenty-watt lights at a time and will produce 2,000 watt hours on one gallon of gasoline.

A storage battery is supplied but the plant will run the lights without that attached if necessary. It is especially suited for farm homes, churches, school houses and has been used on boats and pleasure craft. Being air cooled it can not freeze and can consequently be run in the basement, out of doors or in the house. No heat is noticeable from the plant even after it has run for hours and it is absolutely impossible for children to be harmed by it.

The 'Homelite" plant is manufactured by the Simms Magneta company of East Orange, New Jersey and is sold and demonstrated by Randall and Noll.

GIVEN TIME TO MAKE STUDY OF ZONING MEASURE

Ordinance Will Not Be Read The Second Time Monday.

City Improvements Will Be Given Another Shove Forward.

The Monday council meeting should be a quiet business session sandwiched between the stormy gathering last week and a still rougher one that may be expected soon when the zoning ordinance is ready for further official consideration.

Mr. Bryan insists that the zoning ordinance is an orphan because only Mayor Zehrung's name is signed to it and he said he introduced it by request. It will not be read the second time Monday under present plans. The public is to be given several weeks between readings to study its provisions.

Mr. Berg, city clerk, will not be prepared to report on the sufficiency of the petitions for direct election of mayor through an amendment to the city charter on Monday. It is so evident that the petitions contain enough signatures that the council has already accepted the election as a certainty.

City improvements however will be given another shove forward Monday that will keep the engineer's office working at top speed for several weeks. The paving work now being done in the city is considerable, but that planned, petitioned for and found necessary will add many miles to the city's paved thoroughfares.

Consider Widening Street.

The project of widening Thirteenth street will be taken up Monday and the district will be extended to include Thirteenth street from P to J streets. It is said to be probable that the Traction company and Gas company will offer to put their wires underground along this stretch which will eliminate the one drawback to widening plan. This includes a five foot addition on each side of Thirteenth street from P to M streets and a ten foot addition on each side from M to J streets.

The council also plans to order paving on Thirty-fifth street from O street to a point 100 feet north of X street, about a mile and a quarter, the estimated cost of which is to be $41,000. This district was created once before but was held up after petitions were signed because of high prices and is only now after the circulation of another petition, being considered. A large resurfacing district has been added to by ordering resurfaced N street and South Twentieth street to the alley between F and E strets.

The progress made on East O street has apparently ended most opposition to that project, according to the city engineer. The improvement already seen there has added converts to the plan of paving between Thirty-seventh and Forty-fourth streets on O. A new paving district, Thirtieth street from O to Q streets will also be approved Monday. Mr. Bryan will introduce an ordinance vacating the west 60 feet of M street between Sixth and Seventh streets in the wholesale district. This is between railroad tracks and is of no use to the public and is needed in the proposed location of a large distributing plant there.

BURLINGTON MADE HANDSOME PROFIT DURING BAD YEAR

Issued New Stock With Heavy Dividend and Had $6,000,000 Left Over.

As one of the five states in which the Burlington railroad has its principl milege, Nebraska can claim credit for having contributed a large share to the showing made by that system as the best dividend earner in the United States during the past few years.

The Burlington has a greater mileage than any other road in Nebraska, and more mileage here than it owns in any other state. ts earnings, therefore, show that Nebraska is paying handsomely for the service and facilities furnished.

A financial writer in the Chicago Tribune, analyzing the financial report of the Burlington for 1921, places it at the head of American traffic carriers in point of earnings. He calls attention to its gross operating revenue of $168,712,000 in a year when business depression was rampant, or $13,000,000 more than it earned during the flush year of 1920.

The net earnings of $25,600,000 last year exceeded those of the preceding annum by nearly $3,000,000. This sum was sufficient to pay 23.10 per cent dividends on the old capital stock, but the Burlington issued a stock dividend of $60,000,000 and paid 25 per cent dividends thereon, besides 2 per cent on the old issue. To do this, it dipped into the large surplus accumulated from previous years. The total sum paid out as dividends in 1921 was $44,926,000 on a total capitalization of $231,000,000, including the $60,000,000 of new stock.

After paying all operating expenses, fixed charges and dividends, the Burlington had $6,000,000 left over which was added to surplus account. Its total corporate surplus is given as $177,000,000.

Although the Burlington joined with other Nebraska railroads this year and for several years past in asking the state board of equalization to reduce its property assessment and taxes, it has paid the taxes each year as levied without going into court to contest them, as the Northwestern did in 1921.

Crops Prospect In Northwest Are Best In Years, Reports Declare.

Business Failures Throughout Nation Continue to Show a Decrease.

(International News Service.)

NEW YORK, June 3.—A serious cotton shortage is threatened as a result of increased consumption and decreased production and the prediction was made today that the price of cotton may go to 25 cents a pound.

The south reports that the boll wevil menace is growing. General business conditions are improving throughout the country.

The northwest reports the best crop prospect in years.

Although the coal strike continues in effect, it has not seriously interfered with manufacturing. The bigger steel companies report that they still have large reserves of coal on hand. Steel prices are being cut as a result of the freight rate reduction ordere dby the interstate commerce commission.

Money is plentiful and fairly cheap More than $76,898,000 of bonds were issued this week and absorbed by the public. Business failures decreased as compared with the preceding week

Bank clearings fell off.

Bradstreets reported 354 failures this week as compared with 410 the previous week.

The British pound sterling, whose normal value is 4.86 1-2, advanced to 4.48 this week, the highest it has touched since 1914.

Bank clearings of the entire country were estimated this week at $6,871,123,314 against $7,042,373,644 last week and $5,958,224,214 this week last year.

The rate on money for call ranged from 5 to 3 per cent in Wall street. Time loans were made at 4 1-4 per cent.

The average price of twenty representative industrial stocks on the New York exchange was 96.26 against 94.47 last week and 86.43 this week last year.

The copper trade is steadily improving, 80,000,000 pounds being sold abroad in May.

ACCUSE WOMAN OF BURNING CHILDREN

Charged That Mrs. Dering Held Hands Over Red Hot Stove.

OMAHA, Neb., June 3.—Juvenile officers are investigating a complaint against Mrs. Myrtle Dering., following a report that she had burned the hands of her nephew and niece over a red hot stove and that she had chased the neighbors with a butcher knife.

The children, William Hamlin, 7, and Helen Hamlin, 4, have blisters on the palms of their right hands. Mrs. Dering admitted she had burned them, but said she did it to correct their habits of stealing.

She told the investigator, Mrs. Frank Bandle, that William not only stole money, but that he stole two watches belonging to roomers in her house.

These two children and another, Fred, who were left by their mother, Mrs. Dering's sister, who is said to have remarried. Mrs. Dering then took the responsibility of caring for them. The children are clean, well dressed and have plenty of toys to play with. They go to the Pacific school.

A few days ago a crowd gathered near the Dering house and pushed against the fence. Mrs. Dering tried to drive them away by throwing a dishpan full of water over them.

Sanded Street Is Very Satisfactory

(Special to The Star.)

FAIRFIELD, Neb., June 3.—The proposition of paving in Fairfield was turned down a few years ago on account of the high cost. Soon after the adverse decision the people decided with voluntary contributions to sand the main street. This has proven quite satisfactory. During the past two weeks nearly six inches of rain has fallen and this street has not been at all muddy.

Thompson Thinks Democrats Have a Fine Opportunity

OMAHA, Neb., June 3.—W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, democratic national committeeman, while in Omaha today, said he was in favor of a program that will bring a united democracy in the field this fall for the ticket.

"With the right candidates and the proper platform, there is no reason why the democrats should not win all along the line this fall," Mr. Thompson said.

He declared that he hoped the governorship contest would be clarified to this end. He, however, said he had no suggestions to make and was speaking merely in the interest of party welfare.

Mr. Thompson has been in California for several months with Mrs. Thompson who finds the climate of Nebraska too rigorous. Mrs. Thompson will remain on the coast until she is fully recovered.

The visit to Omaha was made to attend a meeting of the state capitol commission. Mr. Thompson said only routine business was transacted.

Wounds Inflicted By Enraged Negro Result In Death

OMAHA, Neb., June 3.—Georgia Harris, negro woman, died in St. Joseph hospital Saturday morning from wounds which police claim she received Friday night when she was shot by Nathan Johnson at their home.

The police report of the case states Johnson and the Harris woman had been living together, and when Johnson returned home and found the woman's legal husband, Pearl Harris, there, he became so enraged that he told her he would fix her so she couldn't go with any other men," shot her twice and then shot at the hsuband, who escaped unwounded.

Northrup Severely Injured When Hit By An Automobile

(Special to The Star.)

M'COOK, Neb., June 3.—While crossing the street about 8 p. m., Friday, Ivan Northrup, a butcher, was struck by a car driven by Archie Greene. Upon striking Northrup, Greene became excited and swerved his car toward the curb pinning Northrup against a light pole, smashing one of Northrup's legs The light pole was broken off and in falling smashed a drinking fountain. little five year old girl had just stepped back from the fountain and spectators declared the heavy iron post missed the child by narrow margin. Northrup was taken to a hospital ant it is thought his leg is broken in several places.

R. Davis Dies of Injuries Received In Car Accident

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., June 3.—R. Davis, eighty years ow age, died here this evening from injuries received when the buggy in which he was riding was struck by an automobile Wednesday evening. He was thrown to the pavement, striking on his read and sustaining a concussion of the brain. He never regained consciousness. The car was being driven by a woman and there is some dispute as to whether it ran against the buggy of the buggy was backed against the car. Mr. Davis was an old resident of Beatrice and was head of the Davis Grain company.

Barn and Contents Destroyed by Fire

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., June 3.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the large barn on the George Poffenbarger place near Armour, just over the line in Pawnee county. Eight hundred bushels of corn, hay and implements were consumed. The loss is placed at $2,000, partially covered by insurance.

Fatally Injured By a Street Car

OMAHA, Neb., June 3.—Walter Charlin, night watchman at Sandy Point Beach, died Saturday morning in Lord Lister hospital as the result of being run over by a street car. The car, driven by C. L. Roberts, passed completely over Charlin severing a leg. Charlin appeared suddenly in the path of the car out of the shadows.

(Special to The Star.)

YORK, Neb., June 3.—The tourist camp in the city park has been repaired and the gas ranges reinstalled. The equipment now consists of two gas ranges, a shower bath, tables, shelter and a wash rack for cars. The York county commercial club has added most of the equipment.

RINGS IN MOUTH TO AVERT THEFT

Woman Saves Diamond by Ruse While She Is Being Robbed.

OMAHA, Neb., June 3.—A safety clasp on her escort's cameo tiepin helped Martha Smith, nurse, save a diamond ring and two less valuable rings when they were held up at 1:30 a. m. Saturday.

Four young men, masked with handkerchiefs, in a touring car, drove up to the automobile occupied by Miss Smith and Martin Johnson.

Two of the bandits poked guns in the faces of Miss Smith and Johnson.

"Stick 'em up," said one. "Come across with all your stuff."

The other grabbed Johnson's cameo. It stuck in his tie. He told Johnson to unfasten the clasp.

While Johnson fumbled with the clasp, Miss Smith lowered one hand, slipped the rings in her mouth, and stuck her hand up again.

Ruling By Osborn Makes Extra Work For the Assessor

(Special to The Star.)

TECUMSEH, Neb., June 3.—Tax Commissioner W. H. Osborne tore up Ned with the county and precinct assessor of Johnson county, when he made a ruling, on May 9, that building and loan stock should be listed as tangible property, when, heretofore, it had been rated as intangible. Under the old plan, building and loan investments were listed as cash and taxed accordingly, but the commissioner's belated ruling calls for a 3 pe rcent tax. The change is causing the assessors' force no end of extra work, in that six erasures are necessary on over schedule where building and loan stock is listed, and two alterations also become necessary on the tax roll, in each instance. Inasmuch as Johnson county is the home of an exceedingly prosperous building and loan association, Mr. Osborne, by his ruling, has placed no light load upon the shoulders of the assessors of this county. Three of the precinct assessors had thought their work completed and others were putting the finishing touches on their returns, but the entire twenty precinct assessors of Johnson county are now doing overtime with an eraser and percentage table.

Johnson County Poultry Breeders Come to Egg Show

(Special to The Star.)

TECUMSEH, Neb., June 3.—Many of the accredited farm flocks of Johnson county, and perhaps others, will be represented at the first annual egg show at Lincoln, on June 15, the purpose of which is to develop an interest in better eggs, to help establish an ideal toward which eggs should be selected for hatching, and to demonstrate the best methods of packing and handling eggs. There will be two classes at the first show. One for the best dozen white eggs and one for the best dozen brown eggs The sweepstakes prize will be a silver cup, and other winners will be awarded ribbons.

Shoots Self While Cleaning Revolver

(Special to The Star.)

M'COOK, Neb., June 3.—While cleaning a .32 automatic pistol, Friday afternoon, Albert Frances an automobile mechanic, accidentally shot himself in the left hand, the bullet smashing the knuckles of the two middle fingers and passing out through the back of the hand. Doctors fear they will have to amputate the two fingers.

NEW PLUMBING FIRM.

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., June 3.—A new firm entered the local business field yesterday when Harry and Charles Gray bought R. F. Stuart's plumbing business. They took charge at once, operating under the name of Graves' plumbing company. Mrs. Stuart retains ownership of the building. The transaction involved only the sale of the fixtures, stock and tools. Harry as manager, will handle the office work, and Charles who is an experienced plumber and steamitter, will look after that end of the business

STOCK BREEDERS TO TOUR COUNTY

Johnson County Purebred Enthusiasts Arousing Interest.

(Special to The Star.)

TECUMSEH, Neb., June 3.—The livestock and poultry breeders of Johnson county will make a two-day tour of the county on Thursday and Friday, June 29-30, driving about 200 miles and visiting twenty of the more preminent breeders of purebred stock. This custom was established last year, when livestock and poultry boosters made five tours on the county, which created a more keen interest in this industry, with the result that several new breeders have appeared, and it was a great asset to the county fair.

On one day of the tour a big basket dinner will be spread at the county fair grounds at Tecumseh, where an informal outdoor meeting will be held and the new show buildings will be inspected.

The predominating breeds in Johnson county are: Swine—Poland China, Duroc Jersey and Chester White. Cattle—Shorthorn, Holstein, Jerse yand Polled Angus, Poultry—Orpington, Leghorn, Rhode Island Red and Plymouth Rock.

If last year's tours are a criterion, the trip scheduled for June 29-30 will be attended by thirty or forty automobile loads of boosters, and "plates will be laid" for a thousand people at the fair ground dinner charge, gave an Irish tiitin Irish costumes. George Turner had charge of the clowns.

ROUNDUP PROVES SPLENDID SUCCESS

A chariot race took place between George Turner and Roscoe Perrin who raced around the track three times with fast teams Mr. Perrin won. Clement Ragan had charge of the clown band which furnished peppy music. Jimmy Schuyler was the spokesman.

Saturday morning was taken up with registration by classes ann informal gatherings at tents arranged in two rows forming the "avenue of years" at Thirteenth and R streets. Shortly after 11 o'clock the alumni began to form by classes for the parade. Forty-nine classes were represented, beginning with 1873. The parade depicted the development of the university. Each class carried banners telling of the things that were accomplished by the university during that class' senior year. Each class carried banners for the organizations that were founded and for the origin of traditions.

Gay floats, special stunts and freakish costumes gave veriety to the parade, which marched from the headquarters at Thirteenth and R streets west on R street to Eleventh, then down to O street and east to Sixteenth street at which point it doubled back, marching to Thirteenth and O streets from which it went north to the starting point on R street

Had the famous characters of the early days of the university been here to witness the parade they would have found their doubles Dr. J. E. Almy of the physics department impersonated Chancellor Canfield. Jack Best, the father of university athletics, appeared in person, wearing his "N" sweater and riding on a float.

Parade Half Mile Long.

The parade, which was a half mile long, was led by Frank Eager, the marshal, and Miss Mary Louise Bryan and Miss Zella Roope, all on horseback, followed by the university band. Coming after the band was Chancellor Samuel Avery, official head of the parade.

The service flag was carried by the class of 1918, and the class of 1917 depicted the patriotism of their year with flags and patriotic attire.

The parade was followed by a luncheon on the campus and then there was the annual business meeting. The class of 1913 announced that it is going to raise $3,000 to help finance the round-up next year. The round-up this year cost about $4,000. The class of 1922 already has a fund of over $1,000 subscribed, the income of which is to be used for the university.

Next year will be the fiftieth anniversary of the university and beginning then the quintennial plan of class reunions will be put ito effect. It is thought that alumni from a distance would not be able to come back often than once in five years. In all probability many who live near Lincoln will be back every year, and entertainment will be provided for them.

The serious note of the three-day Cornhusker Roundup was struck Saturday afternoon when Cecil C. North delivered the alumni address before hundreds of old graduates in the Little Green theatre on the campus. Emphasizing the part the great universities play in the national life, he made a plea for wholehearted support for the alma mater.

Robert G. Simmons of Scottsbluff, presiding for the last time over the Alumni association, introduced the new president, Judge E. B. Perry of Lincoln, who spoke briefly. Chancellor Avery also addressed the former graduates. Mr. Simmons was cheered when he announced that the regents of the university stood ready to purchase the ground on which it is proposed to erect a memorial stadium. He then introduced Mr. North, a member of the class of 1922, now a professor at the Ohio state university.

College People Leaders.

The great institutions of higher education, which in the west and south especially are the state universities have to give that which is most needed by a democracy, declared Professor North. "The university with its free training means more than a chance for the individual to be successful, it means that in America we deliberately choose our leaders from every source of life and every class of society. For college people are leaders, and if the democracy is saved it will be by the university men and women," he said "The university is the most important bulwark we can build around democracy."

He spoke of the great challenge to democracy by military autocracy in 1914, and of the successful meeting of that challenge. "But that did not end it," he said. "The challenge now comes from within. We need, more than anything else, a re-thinking on the fundamentals of American government. The industrial conflict has again awakened. The economic situation must be readjusted. Agricultural interests are awakening to a new consciousness. America has not yet found the answer, but we believe it will come in some democratic manner.

"The race question is another problem which we face, and which demands keen, unselfish leadership. Another burning question is our national place in international relations The Spanish-American war, of the time when we were in college, marked the end of American isolation. We have been forced into world affairs.

Wilson Voiced Soul of People.

"Wilson, given to the nation not by partisan politics but by the higher education, voiced the very soul of the people in those trying days following the war. Idealism, the greatest gift of a nation, is born in the universities. None of use are proud of America's record since the war. We want her to come forward as the strongest nation and take her rightful place of leadership in world affairs."

The universities give to the country men trained to think clearly, enthused, with ideals. Then we can combine loyalty to the alma mater, he said, with patriotic service to the nation by strengthening the university, the bulwark of national life.

Following the address the crowd flocked to the athletic field where it filled the grand stand and overflowed into the bleachers. Here it was treated to a regular old-time circus.

SENATOR CRITIC OF PRES. HARDING

The criticism of President Harding was based upon a talk which the president gave newspaper men at the white house in which he deplored the newspaper space given to 'political blackguarding" and the lack of space given to "worth while accomplishments.'

Who are there political blackguards who are assailing the attorney general?" demanded Stanley in his speech. "They are two members of congress—Woodruff of Michigan; Johnson of South Dakota—who yesterday wore the uniform of their country. They are men representing proud commonwealths.

"Will the president in his desperation, finding no others who dare say a word for this discredited official, denounce senators as blackguards who criticise the nefarious and crooked operations of a political broker who makes it a business—it is so charged—to deceive the chief magistrate of the nation, and if one dares to expreess abhorrence of these unclean and abominable offenses, he is a rascal and blackguard?"

Stanley read from a Philadelphia newspaper which stated that President Harding resented imprecations against executive officers of the government and advised newspapers and newspaper men to put on the brakes.

"Must Consult Us."

"Think of it," continued Stanley, "the president of the United States has powjer to make and make men. The attorney general today in a public statement admonishes those who are seeking high offices they ought to 'consult us.' Twenty-four federal judges are soon to be named and 'you must consult us.'

"Why was a notice to all who seek a pace on the bench 'do not say anything about Daugherty because Daugherty shadows members of congress, and Daugherty is not very apt to give his consent?"

"God of battle and war, is it iposible? It is enough to make the fabled goddess who adorns the dome of this capitol shudder.

'Is the ermine to be besmirched with the filth that now stains and dishonors, the department of ustice? And does the president mean to announce o the world that Daugherty must be consulted before he wil name a judge and that a senator and a representative is a rascal and a blckguard who denounces Daugherty?

"Then we are told the president says: The brakes must be put on the press.' I say to the president this is ont Austria or Prussia. Putting on the brakes is the next thing to putting on a muzzle and the statement is an implied threat to the press."

"The charges against Daugherty," Stanley said, "so serious, so revolting to every sense of honor that it might be said it was language such as no good man would deserve and no brave man endure. "The attorney general has been charged by men of his own party with using his high office as an official ghoul. I do not make these charges. I am refuting them. But is it possible that we, in this day of bureaucracy, have reached the point when, to vest a out of congress, when lesee majeste applies o cabinet officer. Is it not the duty of a presidenjt to demand of his official family that they stand like men and meet aspersion upon their official integrity and their personal honor?

"To my utter amazement—I say it in sorrow rather than in anger—we find the president one hour commending the patience of Lincoln and the amazing moral fortitude of Jefferson and now using his high office to stifle, if not to muzzle, the press.'

While the senate was hearing the denunciation of Daugherty, the attorney general himself was en route to Washington from Chicago preparatory to taking personal charge of the great array of legal talent which on Monday will resume its presentation of war contract frauds presentation of war contract frauds

The magnitude of the probe has aroused official Washington. Out of eranly 150,000 contracts mode by the wor department alone during the war, but 120,000 have been examined—giving some idea of the magnitude of the task that awaits the investigators.

Of the 120,000 contracts examined 268 will be put under the scrutiny of the grand jury.

Two Are Arrested Following Crash; No Charges Filed

Early Saturday morning, police arrested Lawrence Ashford, 21, and William Bristow, 18, colored porters said to be employed by the J. H. Hansen Cadillac company, following the wrecking of a Cole eight roadster at Thirty-third and Vine streets. No charges were filed Saturday against the pair, and Ashford was released Saturday evening to his attorney. Bristow is still being held.

According to the police, Bristow entered the Hansen company's through a window, opened the door and drove out the Cole roadster. He drove around a while and then picked up Ashford with a girl friend. They were traveling about forty miles an hour, at Thirty-third and Vine streets, according to the police when the machine upset.

According to Harry Williams, manager of the Hansen company, the Cole roadster has been damaged to the extent of about $800.

ALLEGE STRANGER IS CATTLE THIEF

Fails to Profit By Deal and Is Now Fugitive From Justice.

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., June 3.—Officers of Box Butte and Dawes counties are scouring the country in a search of a man giving the name of Floyd Kirkendall, prominent rancher of near Big Muddy, Wyo, who is alleged to have stolen twenty-six head of cattle bearing the Iba Brothers' brand and who sold them to the McIntyre meat market at Chadron.

The identity of the man has not been established, although he has narrowly escaped captors several times. Several days ago the man visited the Kirkendall ranch in Wyoming, stating he wanted to sell some horses. He next appeared in Casper with about eighty head of cattle which he said he wanted to ship to Omaha in three cars. He was able to obtain only one car at that time and shipped twenty-six head, saying he would return in two days and ship the remainder He claimed to have bought the cattle from a man named Cliff Merrill, near Douglas, Wyo., but no such man is known there, officers say. When the shipment of cattle reached Chadron he unloaded them and sold the entire load to the McIntyre market, receiving a check for $1,200 on a Hay Springs bank. He tried to cash the check, but it was after banking hours and he was given a deposit slip and a check book. He then bought a saddle horse and gave a check in payment. In the meantime, Chadron officials, in doubt as to whether the cattle had been inspected before shipment, communicated with Casper officials and learned that they had been stolen. Payment was stopped on the $1,200 check, but in the meantime the man apparently became aware that his game was discovered and hastily departed on the saddle horse he had bought.

Soon after he left he was overtaken by the officers who commanded him to surrender. He refused to heed their commands and, slipping off the horse, made his getaway in the darkness. A short time later he stole another horse and made good his escape. This time a posse of ranchers took up the trail and almost succeeded in capturing him, but he again eluded his pursuers.

The man is described as being about 35, about five feet ten inches tall and of ruddy complexion, with prominent cheek bones. It is reported here that a reward of $1,000 has been offered for his capture and conviction.

Cattle Die From Eating Poisonous Wild Onion Plant

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., June 3.—Dr. J. M. Simpson, government veterinarian of Alliance, has been called to Morrill county to investigate the cause of death of a number of cattle there recently. He found that the animals had been eating sygademus, or death camas, a very poisonous plant, sometimes mistaken for wild onions and, which, when eaten, causes certain death. The root of the plant closely resembles an onion, with a bright yellow flower at the top of a single stem, surrounded by four or five similar stems. Thousands of sheep are poisoned annually in the western states by eating this plant.

Declares Skaggs Is Babe's Father

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., June 3.—Clifford Skaggs, young farmer living near Chadron, is in the Box Butte county jail in default of $1,500 bond under which he was placed at a hearing in county court on a charge of being the father of an illegitimate child born to a young woman in this county. The child is now more than a year old. Skaggs indicated his willingness to marry the young woman but she refused to halt court proceedings against him and demands $2,000 for the support of the child. His trial is scheduled to be held at the September term of district court.

WESTERN BANKERS TO HOLD MEETING

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., June 3.—More than 100 bankers of western Nebraska have accepted invitations to attend the annual meeting of Group 7, comprising practically all of the banks in the western part of the state, to be held in Alliance June 20. An elaborate program of entertainment has been arranged by the committee in charge and it is expected that this will be the biggest meeting since the group plan of annual meetings was adopted.

Registration will be held at the Alliance hotel during the forenoon, followed by an automobile sightseeing trip through the county. The afternoon session will be held at the Alliance Country club, with an address of welcome by City Attorney W. R. Metz, a response by Hon. Jomes T. Whitehead, president of the First National bank at Mitchell, and addresses by R. M. Hampton of Alliance Charles H. Randall of Randolph, president of the Nebraska Bankers' association; O. T. Eastman, president of the Merchants' National bank, Omaha. The program will be followed by golf, boating and swimming. The evening session will be held at the Alliance hotel and will include a banquet and addresses by R. M. Hampton, Attorney General Clarence A. Davis, State Tax Commissioner W. H. Osborn and others.

Steal Sixty Hogs From Feed Lots

(Special to The Star.)

SEWARD, Neb., June 3.—About sixty head of spring hogs were stolen from Byron Brigham of Tamora on Wednesday night of this week. Mr. Brigham resides in the village of Tamora and the feed yards where he kept his hogs were some distance from wheer anyone was living. Officers have been investigating the case, but so far have been unable to get any trace of the thieves. It is thought that the hogs were hauled away in auto trucks.

Charge Machinist With Removal of Mortgaged Goods

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., June 3.—Joe Baker, railroad machinist, was arrested by Alliance officers following receipt of a message from the authorities at Cheyenne, Wyo., stating that he was wanted in that city on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the shipping of his household goods from Cheyenne to Alliance and which are said to have been mortgaged.

Baker and his wife, according to the officers, told conflicting stories about the household goods. Baker claims to have bought an electric washing machine in Denver, while his wife said she bought it in Cheyenne. Baker claimed he did not know anything about the purchase of the household goods, all of which were new, and refused to answer certain questions of the officers Baker is said to have been a roundhouse foreman in several different towns and had taken a job here when he was arrested. He was taken back to Cheyenne by Deputy Sheriff Wilcox of that city.

Home Missionary Convention Meets at Blue Springs

(Special to The Star.)

BLUE SPRINGS, Neb., June 3.—The home missionary convention of the Beatrice district met here June 1 and 2. Mrs. F. A. Cormany at Crete, president of the district, presiding. The convention was address by Ms. Andrews of Table Rock, a conference officer, and Miss Jun Wright, a national worker. Friday morning Mrs. J. F. McAnally, assistant superintendent of the Mothers Jewels home at York, addressed the convention followed by Mrs. I. C. Wood of the Omaha city mission. Mrs. E. E. Hosman, another conference officer, also gave an address.

The Mothers Jewels of Crete and those of Fairbury tied on points for the pennant. The Crete auxiliary also received the district flag as also did the Queen Esthers from the place. Forty-one delegates from over the district were present.

Youth Is Sent to Industrial School

(Special to The Star.)

SEWARD, Neb., June 3.—Theodore Lessmeier of Goehner, a young man a little more than sixteen years of age, was sentenced to the state industrial school at Kearney by County Judge Paul Bek, Thursday afternoon, for stealing. Young Lessmeier was brought before the court several years ago and at that time was paroled to a banker in Goehner. A complaint was filed against him, charging him with stealing.

Trial of Wentz Is Rather Expensive

YORK, Neb., June 3.—The cost of the Charles W. Wentz cases totaled, according to Clerk R. O. Allen's statement, $556.99 of which Hamilton county has paid $207.44. Sheriff J. E. Howard of Hamilton, who brought Jack Wentz from Michigan only three weeks ago, incurred a debt of $244.05 and the supreme court of Nebraska costs amounted to $22 which leaves a balance for Hamilton county of $266.55.

A bill has been forwarded by Clerk R. O. Allen to Hamilton county Wentz, convicted of making false returns to the state banking board in York county was granted a change of venue on the ground that a jury would be prejudiced in Hamilton county where the alleged act was committed

CHEVROLET IS STILL GAINING

Period of Depression Proved Real Value of Chevrolet Product.

Production of complete motor cars by Chevrolet factories was greater during March and April than in any corresponding months in Chevrolet history. March and April, 1920, have been regarded throughout the automobile industry as representing a peak in volume of production which never would again be reached. Not only has Chevrolet exceeded its previous production records, but the number of Chevrolets shipped from factories in the United States during March and April shows a substantial increase over the corresponding months of 1920. There can only be one answer as to the reasons for Chevrolet's popularity during a period of partial business depression. That answer is the Chevrolet product itself. It is the right car at the right price at the right time.

For the new superior Chevrolet to have found great public favor during the past six months is a tribute to the sound policies behind this car. Popularity proves better than any other thing the existence of a need. How well the new superior Chevrolet supplies the need for economical transportation is graphically demonstrated by the great tide of public favor which Chevrolet has drawn to itself. And the new superior Chevrolet has not only attracted public favor as the world's lowest-priced fully-equipped quality car, but has held this favor through sheer merit of it spreformance. There could be no better proof than this of the saundness of Chevrolet engineering, the thoroughness of Chevrolet quality, or the measure of Chevrolet value in a competetive field.

Such times as the past eighteen months are a test of the fitness of any article of merchandise to survive. Careful buying is the rule everywhere. To get the most for the least is the universal aim. That under these conditions, forged ahead of the past that Chevrolet sales, in the face of any previous record, is the most conclusive devidence that can be offered that Chevrolet is becoming the most popular motor car in America, because this splendid progress can be traced more to the enthusiasm of Chevrolet owners, past and present, and their recommendations to other purchers, than to any other exterior force.

New GMC Truck to Make Quick Trips

A one-ton GMC truck was delivered this week to Armour and Company in Lincoln, by the Nebraska Buick Auto company. This truck is a model K-16 of the latest series which is equipped with the latest GMC features such as the removable cylinder walls, removable volve lifter assembly, pump and thermosyphon cooling systems, pressure lubrication, and instantaneous governor.

It is equipped with cab and express body, and is painted a bright primary yellow trimmed in black.

The truck went into service early last week, and is used in making quick deliveries throughout the city.

MOTORS AND THEIR CARE

Use Sealing Wax on Terminals.

A good compound for use on terminals, connecting bars and other battery fixings is made by melting small pieces of sealing wax in alcohol. The wax should be covered with the liquid and be left for a day or two, when it will be found to have become about the consistency of varnish.

Overloading Tires.

It is bad for the tires to force them to carry more weight than they are intended to bear. When it becomes necessary to carry extra weight, the car should be driven slowly, with all due care to avoid unusual bumps, and the temporary overload will probably result in no damage to the tires.

Warm Carburetor for Adjustment.

A carburetor should not be adjusted until the engine is run until it has attained the heat it would normally develop on the road. Adjustments to a carburetor made while the engine is cold would be faulty when the engine became heated, and a readjustment would be necessary.

To Stop Engine Misfiring.

A mysterious cause of an engine misfiring is water getting into the carburetor. Simply drain the carburetor to remedy the trouble and as a precaution open the drain cock at the gasoline tank a few seconds to draw off any water which may be in the tank. As water goes to the bottom, it will drain immediately the cock is opened.

Operating a Car Over Bad Roads.

Throw out the clutch when about to go over a bump in the road. It is surprising how much easier the car rides when this is done. The car merely coasts over it instead of being driven, and so the shock is reduced. If there is room, it is well to approach such obstructions at an angle; then only one wheel strikes it at a time, and the shock is still further reduced.

The Cooling System.

The function of the automobile engine's cooling system is not to cool the gases, which explode in the cylinders, as is often supposed, but to keep the walls of the cylinders from overheating. The energy of the engine is derived from these burning and expanding gases. They should not be cooled, but it is necessary to cool the cylinders to prevent seizing of the pistons within.

Poor Excuses.

"I was in a hurry."
"The wife had the car."
"Couldn't see your signal."
"I was gone only a minute."
"The horn wasn't working."
"I'm a friend of the officer."
"The starter wouldn't work."
"My car was going less than twenty."
"I didn't knok I wasn't supposed to park there."

Locating Missing Cylinders.

Every driver should learn how to locate a missing cylinder. The screw-driver method is the best. Run the engine throttled down, and short-circuit each plug in turn by resting the end of the screw driver on the cylinder and leaning the side of the blade against the head of the plug. If the engine slows down that is a live cylinder. If it does not affect the running of the enine, it is a dead cylinder. The test works best on a four-cylinder engine.

Proper Pressure of Brakes.

Brakes must be so adjusted that with a moderate pressure on the foot pedal they will stop the car but will not lock the wheels, but should operate so that with additional pressure they will grip sufficiently to lock the wheels when required. Brakes which act too quickly will cause premature wear of the rear tires, and if they are not quick enough of action, the car and its passengers will be in danger whenever the brakes are called upon to stop the car. Great pressure should not be necessary to operate them efficienctly.

Before replacing a battery in a car, be sure it is fully charged and otherwise in good condition.

New-Owners Third Of Overland Sales

The increase in volume in Overland and Willys-Knight sales continues to grow, according to the reports of the Willys-Overland company issued for the month of April.

One of the interesting facts which the analysis of Willys-Overland figures shows is the distribution of the purchases of Overland cars.

More than one-third of all Overland cars purchased this spring, according to their figures, are by buyers who never owned a car before. Approximately another third are made up of former Overland owners and the other third are made up of owners of other cars.

SIX MILLION FORDS FOURTEEN YEARS

Most of Them In the United States and Still in Use.

The six millionth model "T" Ford motor was produced May 18, in the Ford factory at Detroit. In other words, from the time back in 1908 when the Ford Motor company began marketing the now famous model "T" motor car until May 18,1922, t total of six million Ford cars and trucks have been produced. Out of this 5,517,956 were delivered to purchasers in the United States alone, and according to the latest statistics, 4,478,248 of these Ford Cars and Trucks are still in daily service.

Thus, it will be seen that out of every five Ford cars and trucks sold to retail purchasers in the United States alone during the past fourteen years, four are still in actual daily use, which is really remarkable when the hard service of commercial cars is taken into consideration. This seems to forcibly confirm the popular knowledge of the longevity of Ford cars.

That Ford products have been quite evenly distributed throughout the United States is borne out by the fact that through the sparsely settled communities in the West to the densely populated cities in the East, practically the same ratio of Ford cars and trucks to population exists.

Ohio leads with a total of 290,769 Ford cars and trucks in daily use; Illinois comes second; Pennsylvania third; Texas fourth and Michigan fifth, with a total of 234,081. New York and California follow in the order named, each having more than 200,000.

An idea of the important part played by Ford cars and trucks in the daily transportation of goods and persons in the United States can be gained by realization of the fact that with the Ford cars now in operation, averaging a minimum of 5,000 miles per year each, they would pile up a total of Twenty-five Billion miles—equivalent to more than a million trips around the world.

PAIGE BUILDING DOUBLED IN YEAR

New Records Show Improvement in Conditions and in Sales.

A day's production record more than twice that attained in any previous year was made by the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company resently. 212 cars were built on May 22. This reflects not alone the vigor of Paige and Jewett sales but also the steady improvement in business conditions generally.

"Up to this year our biggest day's production was a day in May 1919 when we built 103 cars," says Mr. Harry M, Jewett, President of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company. "One day in March of 1920, generally considered the peak period in the industry we built 102 cars.

"But those old records are now being left far behind. On April 27 of this year we built 155 cars, on May 18, we set a new record with 190. On May 19 we smashed that again with a production of 209, and on May 22, we reached 212 as our production figure.

"The widespread demand for Paige and Jewett cars is such that we are extending our uroduction capacity to care for it and we expect to maintain our output steadily at a rate well above 200 a day. We expect to set production records of over 300 cars a day before the summer is over."

Auto Notes.

Loose electric connectors will cause the engine to fire in the muffler with a loud explosion.

Rims should be cleaned well with sandpaper and a coating of graphite applied about twice a year.

The engine should never be allowed to run when one or more of the cylinders are missing explosions.

Automobile engineers are planning to use fewer sizes of tires and rims as original equipment on passenger cars in the future.

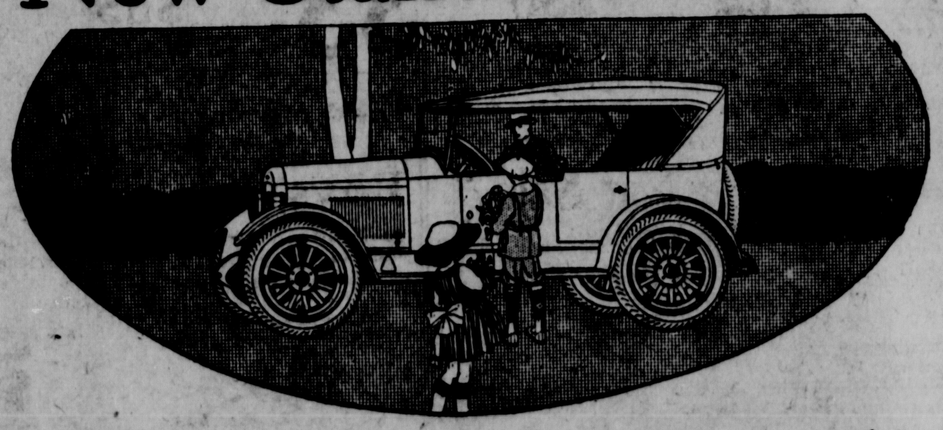
A New Standard of Value



6 cylinders—50 horsepower—$1065
If you spend more than $1000 for a motor car you are entitled to a six of full fifty horsepower. If you accept fewer cylinders or less horsepower per dollar of investment, you have only yourself to blame.
Such is the new standard of automobile value—established by the Jewett and endorsed by a volume of public opinion which has broken every sales record of this factory. See the Jewett today and you will have more respect for your pocketbook.

Nebraska Road Conditions

Nebraska roads are in fair condition after the recent heavy rains, according to the weekly report issued by the Lincoln Automobile club, Saturday afternoon. The D. L. D. highway to Omaha is reported to be in fair condition with only a few rough places.

Following is the report.

The D. L. D. to Omaha from Lincoln is somewhat rough in places after leaving Ashland, but balance of the road is good. Lincoln to Hastings and west to the state line, roads reported in fine condition, slightly rough. Graveling is being done on the D. L. D. in Colorado, but roads are unusually good.

The Cornhusker highway Manhattan to Lincoln is rough in stretches, and good in stretches. Lincoln to Sioux City, somewhat choppy in Lancaster county where recent work has been completed, but balance of the road to Fremont is good. Fremont to Sioux City, rough in places.

The Overland trail to Nebraska City is in good condition. The S. Y. A. to Grand Island is good, excepting short stretch between Hampton and Aurora.

The Lincoln highway from Omaha to Central City is reported fair. Rough in places to Grand Island, and west to Cheyenne, some graveling being done at Gothenburg and road is a litle choppy.

The K. T. trail is good through Nebraska, very rough through Kansas to Kansas City.

Omaha east to Chicago, Lincoln highway fair to good. To Des Moines over the Chicago to Omaha Airline and D. L. D. roads good. Detour from Victor, Iowa to Iowa City, over L. W. V.

Yellowstone park will officially open June 20. Roads through Wyoming and Montana in poor condition.

Preferable route to Los Angeles is via the National trail, through Santa Fe. This route is in very good condition for early tourists.

Cadillac Co. Has Blazed the Way for All Motor Changes

In addition to being one of the pioneer automobile companies of the world, the Cadillac Motor Car company has the distinction of being the pioneer in the successful introduction and development of the V-type, high speed, eight cylinder engine, of electrical starting lighting and ignition systems on automobiles, thermostatically controlled carburetors and numerous other engineering achievements.

After years of intensive research the famous eight-cylinder engine was resigned and built in 1914. This power plant was put to the severest test in service with the American Expeditionary Forces in the world war and how it gained prestige in that service is now history.

Two years before this power unit was designed—in 1912—Cadillac was the first automobile to adopt an electric starting, lighting and ignition system as standard equipment. The public has demanded it ever since.

In addition this company was the first to develop and inaugurate thermostatic control of engine temperatures, perfected in the present type 61 models.

Likewise the Cadillac company was the first to produce a car in which all parts of a kind are like all other parts of the same kind. Three times the Cadillac Motor Car company has won the famous Dewar trophy in England, due to remarkable engineering progress.

Little Needed to Put Old Hudson in Finest Condition

The Hudson mentioned in this letter is one of the first Super-sixes put out and well illustrates the long life of Hudson Super-Six cars. The letter was written to the factory by Mr. F. L. Norris, of Peoria, Ill., and follows:

On April first, I purchased Hudson Super-Six H182. This car has now "rolled" 50,000 miles and last week we tore it down to see what was necessary to rebuild and thought perhaps you would be interested in knowing what we found.

The clutch, transmission, differential and starting gears were practically as good as new. No sign of wear was evident, no replacements are necessary.

To put the car in first class shape, four connecting rod oil dippers, two connecting rod bearings and two bushings for brakes on the back wheel were all that were required. The block was worn and we had that reground. The front fenders were badly rusted, hence the attached telegram ordering a new pair.

The Hudson engineers who designed this care are surely to be complimented on thought and material used. Ordinarily a car is ready to junk at the end of six years. We are just beginning to wonder how long this car will last. Very Sincerely.

(Signed) F. L. NORRIS

CITY PLAYGROUND TO OPEN JUNE 10

Supervisor Mayme Hancock Will Sponsor Picnic at Antelope Park.

Games and Stories Arranged for Every Week Day During the Summer.

Mayme Hancock, playground supervisor, has written the following letter to the Lincoln children, advising them of the opening of the playgrounds on June 10.

"Dear boys and girls: Wouldn't you like to have a picnic? Nearly everybody begins to think about picnics and being out of doors when it gets so green and nice with flowers and birds everywhere.

"On Saturday, June 10, I want every boy and girl between the ages of 3-14 to come to Antelope park at 11 o'clock and bring lunch. Perhaps your father and mother would enjoy coming, but no matter, I hope you will come.

"Have you a place where it is shady and grassy and pleasant to play and some one to help you? We are planning so many good times out at the park. Every day except Sunday, when it is pleasant from 3 to 5, I will be out there. We will play the old games we all enjoy, and learn a number of new ones.

"We are going to play in three groups. We will learn to make kites and perhaps have an animal show. Would you like to bring your dog, your cat or your rabbits or birds out some day for the other children to see. Perhaps your dog can do so many clever things that you and he can perform in the big circus we will have.

"The tournaments will be pleasant. How the boats will sail on the pools! Perhaps the girls can give their dolls a ride on some of the larger boats. Did I tell you we are going to have a doll show? Of course we are. We will make some new things for them, and then ask some one to come out and see them. Some will be new and some will be old, but you will want to see them all. While we are sewing we will make some aprons for ourselves.

"I hope you can plan to spend a lot of time with me for I shall miss you when you can't come. I believe you will enjoy it very much out where it is cool and pleasant. When we are tired we shall all rest while we hear stories of things that happened in other days.

"I want you to tell all the boys and girls whom you think would like to come with you. Please say Mr. Zehrung, your mayor, has helped to plan these good times for us. Perhaps some days he will be out to see how we are getting along. He may bring some of his busy friends out and we will have them play some games with us. He may wish he were a little boy again, so he could come every day.

"I hope you will be sure to come to the picnic. Bring some friends so I can meet you and we can plan for the other things we want to do. Every day we shall find something new.

"Be sure to start your vacation right by coming to the picnic. Come in at the Twenty-seventh street entrance at 11 o'clock. I will be there and we shall plan the other good times next week.

"I will write you again to remind you,—but perhaps boys and girls do not need to be reminded about a good time. Let us all come to have a good time. Your friend, Mayme Hancock, playground supervisor."

Will Be Another Special Bank Tax

State Trade and Commerce Secretary Hart thinks it will be necessary to make another special assessment on banks during this month to bring the guaranty fund back up to the minimum legal requirement of 1 per cent on average deposits for the preceding half year. The fund is now almost $200,000 below that figure and contains something over $2,000,000.

It is possible that one or two further withdrawals may be ordered before July 1 to pay depositors in failed banks. The regular semi-annual assessment on that date will add $115,000, more or less, to the guaranty fund. The special assessment will probably amount to $150,000 or $200,000.

During the past two years, three special assessments have been made aggregating $2,325,000. The forthcoming one will increase the total contributions of solvent state banks over and above their regular guaranty fund assessments, to two and a half millions, for the payment of deposit obligations in failed institutions.

Three Lincoln Men To Attend Annual Credit Convention

The National association of wholesale credit men will hold their annual convention in Indianapolis on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. Three delegates have been chosen from Lincoln and will leave Sunday for the convention. They are: J. S. Tupper of the Cornell Supply company; G. E. Brocks of the Korsmeyer company and W. L. McKinney of the Henkle and Joyce company.

The national association of wholesale credit men is one of the largest organization of business men in the country. It has a membership of 36,000 and includes representatives in every city of the nation.

Annual Bulletin of High School Debate League Is Sent Out

The fifteenth annual bulletin of the Nebraska High School debating league was published June 1. Copies were sent by the president, Prof. M. M. Fogg, to the eighty-seven league schools for distribution to the 281 team members. The thirty-two page pamphlet contains succinct accounts of the 111 debates held this year—nearly twice as many as last year—on the closed-open shop question; the pictures of the eleven district-championship teams; the roster of members and names of superintendents and principals; a bibliography on the question; and the revised constitution. The preface by President Fogg notes that nearly 1000 students competed for appointment to the teams; and announces that the question for the sixteenth year will be selected early in the fall.

High School Band In Free Concert At Antelope Park

The first band concert of the season will be given Sunday afternoon in Antelope park by the high school band. The concert is given to the public without charge by that organization which will close its season with this concert. Other concerts will be arranged for the summer months by a professional band.

Closing Meeting Of Civic League

The Elliott school boys' civic league held the last meeting of the year Friday afternoon. There are forty-eight boys graduating from the Eighth A class of Elliott school this semester, and each one of them gave a short talk concerning the league. A number of teachers who were present also spoke.

Saturday, May 24, the league held its regular meeting at which time Miss Mary Ellen Inglin read a one-act play, "Joint Owners in Spain."

At the present time there are one hundred and twenty members in the league, at the last meeting, a gilded gavel tied with purple ribbon, carrying out the colors of the league, gold and purple, was presented to Ernest Eindall, president of the league. The gavel was made by Bernhard Walin, a civic leaguer from the Seventh A.

The sponsor, Mrs. L. E. Emerson, and the boys voted that the league had had a prosperous year.

The Elliot girls also have a civic league, and the meetings are held at the same time as the boys' league, but they are not held together. There are thirty girls graduating from the Eighth A this semester, and each of these gave a one minute talk about the league. Miss Ruth Hilton is the president of the girls' civic league. The meetings are held every two weeks and many times extra meetings are called. Mrs. G. A. Grubb is sponsor of the Girls' Civic league.

SHADOW OF NEW WORLD WAR FALLS ATHWART EUROPE

Lloyd-George Sounds Warning and Foreign Diplomats Are Alarmed.

(United Press.)

LONDON, June 3.—The shadow of a new world war fell across the European political horizon today

Lloyd-George sounded the warning in his recent address to the house of commons and many British and foreign diplomats here profess serious alarm over the prospect.

Premier Poincare's note to the powers today regarding the Hague conference has not served to lessen the afarm. The British government is known to base much of its hopes for peaceful reconstruction of Europe upon success of this gathering Evidence that France may again prove a stumbling block brought expressions of regret here

It is pointed out that, as in 1914, all the elements necessary for war are contained in the present complicated political situation.

In 1914, suspicion and greed combined to cause the Austro-German belligerency, the Russian mobolization and other factors that led to the world war.

Today the elements are distrust of Germany and Russia, distrust of Russia by Europe and the belligerency of bankruptcy, in several cases both —of several European nations.

Tension between France and Germtny over reparations, heightened by France's latest note and Poincare's speech in the chamber yesterday in which an overwhelming vote of confidence was won, added to the Russo-German agreements might diplomats said, start a new war, for which French occupation of the Ruhr might prove the starting gun.

Formation of a Russo-German military alliance would necessitate closest allied friendship and unity of action. Neither Great Britain nor Italy could afford to leave France isolated. Rumania and Poland would be in grave danger, as would Greece through Turkey and Bulgaria.

"Germany and Russia were to answer French occupation of Ruhr with a declaration of war," a prominent official said today, "Europe would be aflame within a week. England would be compelled to aid France and Belgium.

Russian troops would smother Poland in their march through to Germany. Czecho-Slovakia, Rumania, Hungary and eventually Jugo-Slavia and Austria would be overrun with troops. There would be no question this time, of huge loans by belligerents. It would be a war of death."

Military men have declined to comment upon the possibilities of anew world war, beyond pointing out its terrors from hundreds of inventions involving gas, fire and new engines of destruction.

Europe is in a belligerent mood, but mostly in an effort to prevent this threatened conflagration. This was true in 1914. France recognizezs the danger to herself in a Russo-Germany military alliance and protests, befriending Poland and Rumania the while.

Economically Britain feels reconstruction of Russia the pathway of peace in Europe. From a political point of view, however, it is admitted allied unity is the one great bulwark against war.

LINCOLN BUSINESS COLLEGE.

Miss Alma Perrine called this week. Miss Perrine is fiscal agent in the government reclamation service at Mitchell, Neb. She began her work there as stenographer and has received very gratifying advances.

Miss Hazel Peterson of Geneva, Neb., has accepted the position as principal of the commercial department of the Geneva high school for the coming year.

Walter Heine is leaving for Regina Saskatchewan. Mr. Heine has had land interests in that vicinity for some time and is now planning to enter business in Regina.

W. E. Jones of Wymore left the Lincoln Business college this week for Alliance, Neb., to accept a stenographic position with Division Superintendent F. G. Curley, superintendent of the Alliance division, Burlington.

Miss Gertrude Lear, doing stenographic work in the office of the county attorney of Keya Paha county, at Springview, was a welcome caller at the college recently.

Miss Helen Smith of Overton, Neb. has accepted a stenographic and bookkeeping position at Hay Springs, Nebraska.

George Boardman, of Imperial, left Wednesday for Halsey, Neb. He has been employed as stenographer at the government forestry experimental station.

Miss Christena Fraser came this week from Deadwood, S. D. to enter the stenographic department. She brings greetings from Misses Helen and Wanda Spindler, former students, who are satisfactorily employed in Deadwood.

Miss Opal Dettman returns to Oxford in September for her second year as principal of the commercial department of the Oxford high school.

Miss Alice Winsor, class of 1917, has been in charge of the commercial department of Fairbury high school for the past four years and is planning to return to her work there in the fall.

Miss Helen Edgecombe of Geneva has contracted with McCook high school for a third year as head of the commercial department.

Frank Dixon has accepted a position as bookkeeper with a Superior Neb., cement company at a very attractive salary.

EIGHTH GRADERS OF COUNTY ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

Promotional Exercises Held at the College of Agriculture.

Promotional exercises for the 333 eighth grade Lancaster village and rural school graduates of 1922 were held at the state university college of agriculture, Saturday afternoon. This was the largest class in this division in the history of the county.

More than 1,000 persons attended the exercises, which began with a program in the engineering hall. A field meet was held on the college of agriculture athletic field following the program and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served at the close.

The first number on the program was music by the Firth high school band, composed of twenty-seven pieces. Invocation was pronounced by Rev. P. C. Johnson, followed by a piano solo by Grace Linderman.

The address of the afternoon was delivered by former District Judge P. James Cosgrave on "Character. He emphasized character as the chief thing in life. The Firth high school band played more selections, following the presentations of diplomas to the graduates by County Superintendent Miss Maud Berry. Lancaster county has 130 village and rural schools and pupils from 101 were graduates this year.

Bell Rate Experts Offer Tabulations In Hearing Tuesday

When the state railway commission next Tuesday resumes its hearing on the Northwestern Bell Telephone company's application for increased rates, tabulation prepared by its own experts will be offered in evidence These will deal with several phases of the telephone business.

One of the commissioners will go to Cortland on the same day to conduct a hearing on the complaint of F. A. Sowers against the Union Pacific railroad, demanding a private farm crossing under the terms of a new state law.

On Monday, at its office, the commission will listen to the request of Malmo citizens for a reduction of rates now being charged by the Malmo Telephone Co.

BELTZER CLAN BUMPS BLUES; TWO GAMES ON SUNDAY BILL

LINKS RAP BALL; WIN FROM BLUES

Buck's Warriors Cop First Game of Series at the Beatrice Park.

Zink's Homer and Gibson's Three-Sacker Factors in Lincoln Victory.

LINKS AND BLUES MIX TODAY IN DOUBLE BILL

Lincoln and Beatrice State league ball clubs will collide this afternoon in a doubleheader at the Beatrice park. First game at 2 p. m. The Cornhusker highway connecting Lincoln and Beatrice, is in fine condition and numerous Lincoln fans probably will make the drive to Beatrice for the two games. Hook Bailey is scheduled to pitch the curtain-raiser for the Links, with Norris or Williams going onto the mound in the second game.

(Special to The Star.

BEATRICE, Neb., June 3.—Lincoln's State league ball club took a tighter grasp on first place in the pennant chase by trimming the Blues today, 4 to 2.

Heavy stickwork by the Links was the deciding factor. Zink hit the ball for a circuit trip and Gibson and Wood crashed their bats against the Wilson pill for three-base hits.

Zink's four-base wallop was delivered in the second inning, when the Links counted two runs. Gibson poled his three-bagger in the sixth, scoring McCoy and Gibson also crossed the plate when Dye landed for a single.

Pickett pitched a strong game for Lincoln and after the fourth inning shut out the Blues to the end of the game. The score:

Lincoln Club Signs Pitcher.

Pitcher Tom McCarty, former twirler in Oklahoma and Texas league territory, was signed to a Lincoln contract last night and will head for Beatrice Sunday morning, possibly to go into action against the Blues in one game of the double-header scheduled for this afternoon. McCarty was in overseas service and first attained fame when he pitched five innings of hitless ball against the Chicago Cubs, then enroute east from a spring training trip to California. Irish Carrig, left fielder for the Links, recommended McCarty to Manager Beltzer.

Hope of getting Pitcher Stokes from Omaha's Western league team went bump when Stokes declined to step down from a class A to a class D league. Secretary Moon of the Lincoln club, who was in Omaha Friday night after pitching talent, was informed Saturday night by Barney Burch, prexy of the Omaha club, that Stokes refused to join the Links.

Lawyer John Pickett pitched his last game for the Links Saturday, winning it handily, 4 to 2, and hanging up a record of three victories in four starts for the Beltzer clan. Pickett will get his degree from the law college at the University of Nebraska this week, departing in a few days for Cheyenne, Wyo. where he will pitch in semi-pro circles and enter into a law partnership.

Grandstand Burns In Texas League

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., June 3.—Fire late today destroyed the Texas league grandstand at the ball park and eighty-two automobiles.

Spectators were forced to evacuate the stands quickly in order to save themselves from the blaze.

FLOSSY BILL BY AMATEUR LEAGUE

Amateur Players Planning to Entertain Crowd of Diamond Fans.

1:15 p. m.—Commercial league, Lincoln Barbers vs. Lincoln Telephones.
3:15 p. m.—Capital City league, Knights of Columbus vs. Lawler Sporting Goods.

Fans who journey to Rock Island park today should be treated to one of the best amateur baseball program on the city league schedules to date. With the State league club out of town, the amateur leaguers are preparing for a bumper gathering and have arranged an attractive program.

The Lincoln Telephones and Lincoln Barbers have been slated to fight it out in the curtain raiser. The Barbers played a good brand of ball in their opening game and planning to give the Telephones a walloping. The Hello-boys have been staging some stiff practice workouts the past week and are in readiness to make it interesting for the tonsorial artists.

The Capital City league game between the Lawler Sports and Knights of Columbus is slated for the feature contest and is scheduled to get under way at 3:15 p. m.

Lawlors vs. Knights.

The Lawlors copped the bunting in the city league pennant chase last summer and dropped a game in the opening encounter this year. Manager Portsche has been sending the Sports through some heavy practice sessions in preparation for the Sunday tangle with the Knights.

Manager Don O'Connor's athletes won their first game of the season and look like one of the leading aggregations in the Capital City circuit. Manager O'Connor requests the Knights of Columbus players to gather at the club rooms not later than 2 p. m. today. Lineups for the games follow:

Elkhorns Pile Up Big Run Total On Third City Team

(Special to The Star.)

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., June 3.—The wildness of Zlomke and ineffectiveness of McKinney, coupled with several errors, gave Norfolk a humiliating victory over the Third City team today, the score at the end standing 18 to 3 in favor of the Elkhorns. Marr, Hegarty and Rouse of Norfolk each hit the pill out of the park, the former with the bases loaded. The score.

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA TRACK TEAM.

Upper row—F. Bieser, middle distance; W. Lear, hurdles; Henry F. Schulte, head track coach; D. Brown, pole vault; Fred T. Dawson, director of athletics; Ted Smith, quarter-mile; W. Riddlesberger, pole vault.

Second row—A. Wenke, javelin; E. Beckord, relay; T. Slemmons, two-mile; O. Hatch, broad jump; A. Schoeppel, javelin; I. Lukens, sprints; G. Baldwin, sprints.

Third row—R. Weller, discus; C. Hartman, shot put; N. Coats, middle distance; D. Deering, sprints and broad jump; C. Bowman, middle distance; L. Davidson, relay; R. Weir, distance; M. Gardner, middle distance; M. Layton, relay.

Lower row—H. Turner, high jump; C. Moulton, shot put and discus; K. Hawkins, captain-elect, quarter-mile; E. Allen, mile; Ed Smith, captain, sprints; H. Gish, hurdles; G. Fischer, discus; Jack Best, trainer; D. Noble, sprints and shot put.

Coach Schulte's track squad at the University of Nebraska has just rounded out a golden season in the cinder sport. Schulte's Nebraska team of 1921 won the Missouri Valley conference championship at St. Louis and his '22 aggregation repeated the St. Louis triumph in the recent Valley meet at Lawrence. The Cornhuskers piled up 49 points, scoring in every event on the program with the exception of three. Kansas, the second team, was 15 points back of the Cornhuskers. Captain Smith, in winning the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, equalled the Valley conference record of 9 4-5 seconds in the century and lowered the Valley record to 21 3-10 seconds in the 220. Nebraska's half-mile relay team also broke the previous Valley record.

KRIEGER TO CLASH WITH SIDNEY BOY

Lincoln Athlete Books Mat Bout With Chick On Fourth of July.

(Special to The Star.)

SIDNEY, Neb., June 3.—Ray Chick's challenge to Adam Kreiger, published a week ago in The Lincoln Star, has brought results. Announcement has been made by Sidney's American Legion post that it will pit Chick the undefeated Sidney boy, against the crack Lincoln middle weight wrestler in a finish match dated for July 4.

Kreiger's terms, wired to the local Legionnaires a few days ago, have been accepted. Krieger is to receives guarantee of $250, with a privilege of 25 per cent of the gross receipts. Followers of Chick have offered to back the Sidney grappler for any amount up to $2,500 a side.

Chick has flopped every middleweight of prominence in western Nebraska and Wyoming, and plans to take Kreiger's measure, after which he will go after the biggest game in the middle-weight division.

Woolfolk Baffles Cubs; Coyotes Cop Ball Game, 6 to 3

(Special to The Star.)

FAIRBURY, Neb., June 3. — Babe Wolfolk won another game today by keeping Hastings' hits scattered, Hastings' three scores weer all made on errors. The Coyotes bunched their hits in the first and seventh innings, which netted them five earned runs. Wigington was wild at times. The score:

ILLINOIS U. WINS "BIG TEN" MEET

Urbana Team Far in Front of the Pack; Ames Ags Cop Three Events.

IOWA CITY, Ia., June 3.—Illinois was an easy victor in the "Big Ten" conference track meet here this afternoon, winning more than twice as many points as Iowa university, her nearest competitor.

Saturday's hot sun baked the ground, following showers Friday and the track was lightning fast, four records being broken and one tied. Hayes of Notre Dame set a new conference record and tied the eastern intercollegiate when he made the century in the fast time of nine and seven-tenths seconds. In the two-run run, Rathburn of Ames set a new conference mark with nine minutes and 27 seconds.

Angier of Illinois threw his javelin far enough to smash the old conference record when the tape showed 196 feet and 11 inches, while Osborne of Illinois and Murphy of Notre Dame tied for the high jump at six feet 5 1-6 inches, another new record.

Illinois Disqualified.

In the two-mile relay, Illinois sprinters finished ahead, but were disqualified for pushing at the turn. Iowa, which finished second, was given first honors. A crowd of 5,000 filled the stands to overflowing.

Illinois took some bitter with the sweet, however. In addition to being disqualified in the relay, three of the Illinois star middle distance men were trimed. Wolters of Ames beat out Fessenden in the quarter and then came back and ran Yates off the track in the half. In the two mile, Rathburn defeated Wharton in a heartbreaking race.

The team score by points follows: Illinois, 59 6-14; Iowa, 24 1-35; Minnesota, 23 1-10; Notre Dame, 22 13-14; Ames, 22; Wisconsin, 21 16-35; Michigan, 20 3-5; Ohio State, 10; Chicago, 9 3-7; Purdue, 6.

JAYHAWK TEAM DRUBS NEBRASKA

Kansas Ball Tossers Take Huskers to Trimming; Score 8 to 2.

THREE LEADING TEAMS AT END OF VALLEY RACE

	G.	W.	L.	Pct.
Washington	12	9	3	.750
Kansas	16	21	4	.750
Nebraska	14	10	4	.714

The University of Nebraska lost a chance at the Missouri Valley diamond championship Saturday afternoon when the Kansas Jayhawkers, supposedly properly subdued at Lawrence the preceding afternoon, blossomed out in full war regalia and trounced the Huskers, 8 to 2, in a diamond combat staged on Nebraska field.

The game, while costing Nebraska the title, does not give the title belt to the Jayhawks. The Kansans are in a tie with the Washington Pikers for first place and as the Valley directors recently went on record as against post-season games, the 1922 race will go on the books as a "no-championship" affair.

Bloomer Balks the Huskers.

Kansas put over a clean-cut victory. Captain Bloomer, who was on the mound for the southern nine, had the Nebraska batsmen at his mercy, allowing but five scattered ingles, striking out seven and confining most of the blows to the infield.

Glen Munger, Nebraska twirler, was wilder than a March hare. He let two Kansas batsmen, walked four and allowed six hits in the half dozen innings he performed. Carmen, who relieved him, had trouble getting started, but once under way handled the situation in a great fashion.

Kansas counted two at the start. After two men were tucked away, Munger walked enough to fill the bases and when Lonborg crashed a fine single to center, two Kansas runners dug their spikes into the home dish.

Nebraska Scores on Squeeze

Nebraska brezed along until the last slice of the third, when Smaha drew a walk, took second on a passed ball, arrived at third on Pizer's single and slid across the home pan on a "squeeze play" with Anderson placing the willow against the pellet in such a fashion as to send it rolling toward first station.

Nebraska counted another in the seventh on a single by Thomsen, an error by Murphy and Lewellen's infield out.

Kansas, meanwhile, was scoring with steady regularity. Munger's wild pitch let in two in the fifth. Smaha's boo! made possible a pair in the sixth and Lewellen's error cost a couple in the seventh. The score:

METHODISTS WIN TRIO OF TITLES

McCandless Pilots Wesleyan to Three Championships in State Conference.

1921-22 CHAMPIONS IN STATE CONFERENCE

Football—Nebraska Wesleyan.
Basketball—Peru Normal.
Track—Nebraska Wesleyan.
Tennis—Nebraska Wesleyan.

BY GREGG M'BRIDE.

The Nebraska intercollegiate conference score sheet for 1921-22 season reads somewhat like a one-team league. When the books were closed late last month the records showed Nebraska Wesleyan had walked off with honors in three of the four championships, Peru Normal with the basketball laurels, being the only one to break in on the Methodist sweep of victories.

The Methodists grabbed first honors in football, track and tennis and came close to duplicating the stunt during the basketball season.

Next year Wesleyan will take a whirl at bigger game. Director of Athletics Ray B. McCandless announced last week that the Methodists had been admitted to the North Central conference and will take their initial fling at the large circuit next fall with the opening of football season.

Bigger Athletic Plant.

The board of trustees had previously sanctioned the move on the part of the athletic board. The result of the recent endowment campaign assures a larger athletic plant for Wesleyan and it was felt best to join the North Central conference while the chance was open.

The new circuit will bring the Methodists into competition with Creighton university, Morningside college, University of South Dakota, University of North Dakota, South Dakota State college, St. Thomas college, Des Moines university and North Dakota State college.

Nebraska Wesleyan was perhaps never in better shape to join the faster conference. There is an abundance of athletic material at the suburban institution and the prospects for a larger number of veterans back in the McCandless camp are excellent.

Wesleyan Grid Champ.

The football season last fall was a close battle from start to finish. A post-season game between Wesleyan and Wayne was required to decide the championship, the Methodists winning in a somewhat handy fashion. The football standing follows:

	G.	W.	L.	T.	Pct.	Pts.	Op.
Wayne	5	4	1	0	.800	63	29
Peru	5	2	2	0	.500	106	19
Doane	7	4	3	1	.643	83	38
Hastings	8	4	3	2	.667	56	67
Kearney	6	2	3	1	.500	14	23
Midland	6	2	3	0	.500	45	27
Cotner	6	2	4	0	.500	21	81
Grand Island	8	1	4	1	.250	21	70
York	7	0	3	0	.000	15	61
Chadron	3	0	3	0	.000	28	61
Central	4	0	4	0	.000	13	87

Peru Cage Champion.

Peru Normal, with a clean slate of victories, copped the basketball laurels. Wesleyan dropped a game to Cotner and came in second, the Methodists and Bobcats failed to meet during the season. The basketball score sheet follows:

	G.	W.	L.	Pct.	Pts.	Op.
Peru Normal	11	11	0	1.000	324	122
Wesleyan	15	12	3	.857	476	260
Doane	10	7	3	.700	242	184
Midland	12	8	4	.615	381	293
Kearney	13	8	5	.615	362	279
Cotner	16	8	8	.500	447	418
Hastings	12	6	6	.462	354	378
Chadron	11	5	6	.455	311	322
York	11	1	10	.091	145	408
Grand Island	17	1	16	.083	183	589
Wayne	9	0	9	.000	64	294

Break Five Records.

Nebraska Wesleyan won track honors by winning the annual meet which was held on the Hastings college oval. The Hastings team was a close second.

Five state conference records were smashed in the annual meet.

Scherrick of Hastings college bettered the state mark in the 440-yard dash when he made the circuit in 50

JOHNSON POSTS FORFEIT MONEY

Dusky Jack Puts Up $2,000 to Bind Scrap With Ohio Negro.

COLUMBUS, O., June 3.—That Jack Johnson, former world's heavyweight champion, this afternoon posted $2,000 with the New Athletic club at Washington courthouse, Ohio, to be forfeited if he fails to meet Tut Jackson, Washington courthouse negro fighter, on July 4 in a 12-round fight to a decision, is the announcement made in sporting circles here tonight.

The place of the bout has not definitely been determined upon.

Landis Willing to Hear Plea of Portland Club

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, will give consideration to the legal briefs to be submitted in behalf of the Portland club hearing on the question of whether Landis exceeded his authority in ordering the disbarment of W. H. Klepper and James Brester from connection with the Portland club for a long period.

President William H. McCarthi of the Pacific Coast league, today received a telegram from Landis which read:

"Thanks for your telegram. Of course, will give consideration to anything the parties may desire to present."

Australian Wiz Favorite to Win British Tourney

NEW YORK, June 3.—Joe Kirkwood, the Australian golfer, is a favorite to win the British open championship, according to word received here today from England, where Kirkwood has been participating in open competition for a number of weeks.

Odds against the Australian dropped with a crash fter he completely outclassed the field in the 800 pounds open tournament at Llussmouth, Scotland, leading the same players entered in the open championship by 13 strikes.

Kirkwood will return to America following the British open championship June 22 and 23.

Big Ten Conference Borrows Plan From Organized Ball

IOWA CITY, Ia., June 3.—The Landis of the Big Ten conference emerged tonight.

An athletic commissioner, to try all cases of protest and charges of professionalism among athletes in the Big Ten, is to be selected in the near future by a committee of which Fielding H. Yost, athletic director of the University of Michigan, is chairman.

LINCOLN AUTO AND TRACTOR SCHOOL.

The automobile clinic is meeting with popular favor on the part of a number of car owners who wanted their cars overhauled. Several overhaul jobs were turned away on account of a rush of work already on hand.

Word received from Paul J. Morton, who left school several months ago, says he is working on a road gang at Denison, Iowa. At present the road gang has three ten ton and two five ton tractors. Morton is running the new ten ton, pulling an elevating grader.

George C. Novotny, of Clarkson, Neb., returned to his home Wednesday after spending six weeks in the ignition, starting, lighting and battery course.

Capt. Alcock Wins Suburban Handicap

TRAVERS ISLAND, N. J., June 3.—Larry Brown of the University of Pennsylvania, intercollegiate half-mile champion, today failed in his attempt to break the world's record for 600 yards at the annual games of the New York Athletic club here.

Brown finished second to George Nolan of the New York A. C., who had a handicap of 18 yards. Brown's time for the distance was 1:14. The record, held by Mel Sheppard, is 1:10 2-5.

Johnny Merchant of the University of California finished second in the sixteen-pound put. Merchant had an actual throw of 44 feet, 6 1-2 inches.

BARRETT BOBS UP AS TENDLER FOE

Philly Phenom Scheduled to Pit His Punch Against Southpaw Lew.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Copyright, 1922, by King Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—Every one around these parts with sportive inclinations is "steamed up" more than at any time within a decade. It's all because of that fist wiggling jamboree scheduled for Monday night in the National league ball park.

In one corner will be Lew Tendler, of southpaw nature, who is generally acclaimed as the most terrific body punches the 135-pound division ever has produced; in the other will be Bobby Barrett, termed by critics as "the kid with TNT at the end of his right hnd." Tendler has come close to murdering nearly every foeman with his vicious midship assalts. Barrett has hammered 50 of his 60 foeman upon the chin—and they never got up until after "ten" had been chanted.

Because both are local prides, and because each can hit hard enough to drop the other with a well-timed smacker, the bout carries with it's lure beyond anything Philadelphia has known in many, many years.

Cocksure Barrett Will Win.

"Along on the morning of June 3, "comments Jim Dougherty, famous referee, fight manager and the discoverer and handler of Barrett, "all the newspaper boys will have something to write about. They'll be using the words 'spectacular' and 'wonderful' and all of it will be hitched onto Bobby. And then they can go on and romance about how a caddy boy of five years ago, and an almost unknown ringman of four months ago, knocked over the man regarded as the fit foeman for a world's champion.

"For that's eactly what Barrett is going to do to Tendler. In thirty years' connection with the ring in one way or another, I've never seen any man below the middleweight limit who can hit with the power of Barrett. Every time he gets his punch home, the result on the other fellow is the same as if he had been hit by a crowbar, kicked by two mules and struck by the Twentieth Certury Limited, all at the same time."

Tendler Has His Say.

"Yes, yes," comments Tendler, "—if he hits me maybe all that will happen. But hitting me is going to be something else again. And while Barrett is doing all the missing that I know he's going to do, those maulies of mine will be kept busy teaching the youngster that he aimed too high in his ambitions; that he should have picked out softer ones than little me."

The wagering favors Tendler—but there is plenty of backing for his younger foeman. For in Philadelphia, those who have followed the career of the once time boy of the golf links, are certain that it'll take but one of his punches to flatten Tendler—and put Barrett, an unsung unheralded and unknown of the late winter right on Benny Leonard's doorstep.

ROOKIE'S SCHEME TO NAIL TY COBB

Threw Out Peach at Third Base When He Started Steal of Second.

Paul Kritchell has gone from the fields of major league play—but his memory hasn't. For Paul always will be recalled as the only catcher who ever figured out a "sure" way to kill off Ty Cobb as a base stealer.

Soon after Kritchell joined the Browns one of the older backstops took him in tow and began to point out the hows and the whys of success in the majors. The veteran carefully explained the weaknesses and the strength of some of the players on the bases. And then he brought up the name of Cobb.

"The only way to stop that bird from stealing is to shoot him with a rifle right after he gets to first," said the old timer. "You gotta do it right after he gets there, for once he's on his way to second, no rifle bullet can travel fast enough to catch up to him."

A few days later the Browns opened up a series with the Tigers. Kritchell sat on the bench during the first three days and was mainly engrossed in watching Cobb. The Georgian, ever wild on the sacks, was wilder than ever during that series and stole bases with the ease of a negro stealing chickens from a hen coop.

On the fourth day Kritchell was assigned to catch. As he donned his mask and chest protector, he turned to the veteran backstop and said:

"Say, this guy Cobb ain't going to do any stealing offa me. Watch my scheme."

"What is it?" asked the grizzled backstop.

MARKETS

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

OMAHA, Neb., June 3.

CATTLE—Receipts, 300. All the cattle that came in today were stockers and feeders, billed direct to yard traders and in absence of supplies all classes were nominally steady. On the largest run in three weeks near 31,000 head, steers, yearlings and light heifers, are fully steady with a week ago, while cows and heifers show losses of 25c or more. Top on steers for the week was $8.90, a new high mark for the year, and bulk of the week's supply sold up from $8.00. Stocker and feeder supplies were light all week, and while demand was quiet, prices held steady.

HOGS—Receipts, 7,500. The market was active Saturday at prices generally steady, good demand being noted from shippers and packers. Early sales were reported as weak, to a shade lower, but strength was gained later with bulk of hogs moving fully steady, with some strength noted on occasional sales. Light hogs sold at $10.30@10.35, with a top of $10.35; mixed loads and butcher weights, $9.85@10.25; packing grades, $9.50@10.00, with extreme heavies, $9.00@9.25; bulk of sales was $9.90@10.25. The market is closing the week 10 to 15c lower than a week ago.

NEW, YORK STOCK LIST.

NEW YORK, June 3.

Simultaneous gains and losses in the prominent oil issues caused much confusion of prices during today's brief stock market session. Reactions of 1 to 3 points in California Petroleum, Associated Oil, Pacific Oil, Producers and Refiners, and Standards Oils of New Jersey and California, were offset by gains of 1 to 2¼ points in Royal Dutch, Mexican Petroleum, Mariland, Houston, Cosden and Shell Transport. Independent Steels were heavy, as were also some of the equipments, tobaccos and food specialties. United States Steel, Great Northern Ore, Iron Products, Pacific Mail and International Paper were strong. DuPont again featured the miscellaneous stocks at a 6-point rise. New York, Chicago & St. Louis and New York Central were moderately heavy, but strength was shown by Wheeling & Lake Erie and Lake & Western issues. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 800,000 shares.

Oils continued to lead the stock market to higher levels in today's early dealings. Mexican Petroleum made an opening gain of 1⅞ and Royal Dutch advanced 2¾ points. Standard Oil of California and Pan-American Petroleum also were strong, but California Petroleum, yesterday's sensational feature, forfeited 2 day's sensational feature, forfeited 2 points. Dupont, another of yesterday's strong specialties, registered a 4-point gain. U. S. Steel came within a small fraction of its high record but independent 2¾ points. Republic and steels were reactionary. Sugars Midvale showing selling pressure. Sugars and food specialties were strong with shippings and textiles. Movements in the railway group were confined to junior shares, Lake Erie & Western common and preferred displaying pronounced strength.

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 3.

WHEAT—Wheat prices averaged slightly lower here today during the early dealings. The local element was extremely bearish and the pit element have been on the selling side since the start. Execution of stop loss orders under $1.17 for July was responsible for the sharp break soon after the opening. Support was lacking except from shorts and the market has been showing a heavy undertone. After starting at unchanged figures to ⅛c lower with July $1.17⅜@1.17½, $1.18 and September $1.17¼@1.17¾, the market declined rapidly, the July getting under $1.16, the lowest of the week, on the present downturn.

The market continued its downward trend with July and September selling at practically the same figure, what little new trade there was going into September. What little support there was came from shorts who were evening up for the week. The close was weak with prices showing a net loss of 1⅝ to 3½c, with July $1.14⅞@1.15, and September $1.15⅝@1.15½.

CORN—The trade in corn was almost entirely local in character, the market is the main following wheat. After opening at unchanged figures to ⅛ to ¼c off, July 61⅜@61¾c, the corn market underwent a slight sag all around.

Corn followed in the wake of wheat and close weak, prices showing at net loss of ⅛ to 1¼c, with July 60⅝@60¾c.

OATS—Oats started ¼c lower with July 38¼c, and held close to the initial figures.

PROVISIONS—Provisions were steady.

121 Families to Every 100 Homes

That is the situation in this country today. A shortage of five million homes—two families living in every fourth house. Rents are high and will continue so until the housing shortage is ended.

A period during and shortly following the war made building impractical for the average man. But that time is over.

ENGLISH HALF TIMBER DESIGN

Constructed of "half timbers" and stucco and picturesquely gabled the house shown today is in many respects a striking design. Built on a suburban lot and surrounded by a velvety lawn and tall, stately trees this home is one that the most fastidious could justly be proud of. The plan is simple in arrangement and construction and is the last word in being economical. It is best suited for east frontage or south, and for west or north the plans should be reversed.

Through the glazed porch one enters the attractive living room which is well lighted with grouped windows in front; French windows opening onto the porch, add light and charm to this room. There is also a fireplace with one central chimney for both it and the heating plant. In the rear are the dining room, kitchen and screened porch on which there is space for the refrigerator.

Upstairs are three bed rooms and bath room. Each room has a nice sized closet and each is well lighted. The interior woodwork downstairs is of birch with floors of white maple. Upstairs the woodwork is enameled white with floors of birch.

The total size of this house is 28 feet by 27 feet and it is estimated that it would cost between $4,500 and $6,000 to build it, this estimate being exclusive of the plumbing and heating.

June, the Month of Brides, Finds Modern Girl Handicapped by Lack of Old-Fashioned Training for Home Duties--Much More Is Expected of Her.

BY JESSIE WATSON

The June bride!

How appropriate that June, the month when spring with its promise and its hope and its courage blossoms into lovely, luxuriant summer, should belong especially to brides! In those happy, luxuriant days of the bride-to-be the girl rapidly blossoms into the flower of womanhood. The little girl who has been playing along and having a jolly good time, perhaps vaguely feeling about to find her place in life, has suddenly come to the realization that all the world is very closely akin to her. In her joy she wants to make everybody else happy. In those delightful days, when she and mother plans the trousseau together and talk over the plans for the new home with its daintily curtained windows and cheerful rining room she understands mother beter than ever before.

Strong, courageous, active, radiating joy, dreaming dreams—this is the bride. It matters not if seated in the little sitting room with mended curtains and a threadbare carpet to cover the rough board floor, she painstakingly makes a few simple garments and hems towels, or if she hurriedly snatches a moment now and then to consult the dressmaker or go shopping in the midst of bridge, golf and daintily appointed pre-nuptial parties—the spirit of the bride is one.

Never a Romance Like This

At first it may seem that never before was there romance like this one. Then, as her sympathy broadens, the bride-to-be realizes that never before has she had so much in common with girls in all ranks of life. Not only does she have much in common with the brides of today but with the brides of many generations back.

From the time way back when man first wooed maiden, through the long centuries up to the present, the spirit of the bride has been one—a pioneering spirit of courage and love ever adjusting herself to changing conditions. Like the valkyrie of Norse legends who, a beautiful, strong, courageous spiritual being, always hovered near the Norse heroes to protect and encourage them, the bride has lived through many centuries in the lives of the women who have been founders of homes.

As the centuries have passed the bride's undertaking has grown more and more complex.

Required Courage

In the early colonial days of America when life was harsh and relentless and the hardships were such that only a fearless people would brave them it took an immmense amount of coruage for the bride to found a home and rear a family. She always had to figure on the uncertainties of Indian uprisings and crop failures. Even without these misfortunes it was a hard struggle to keep the house tidy, to keep the family clothed against the fierce winter winds, to make the most frugal use of the limited food supply so that no one should hunger and to regulate her household according to the requirements of a stern religion. However, the bride of those days was well prepared for all these things.

From the time she was very small she was taught to take responsibility. In caring for the younger children, to keep the andirons bright, to polish the pewterware to mold candles and to spin and weave.

She had just one aim in life—to be a homemaker.

She expected to be married, but in case she did not marry she would live with one of her sisters and mother her children and make the household duties lighter for her. This was only remote possibility and the little girl dreamed her dream and planned her home. When she had learned to spin and weave and to do needlework dexterously she began filling her hopechest. By the time she was old enough to be married she was amply prepared to start a home of her own.

The things she had made with her own hands were her greatest pride, as Longfellow expressed it in "Evangeline:

"Ample and high on whose spacious shelves were carefully folded
Linen and foolen stuffs, by the hand of Evangeline woven.

This was the precious dower she would bring toi her husband in marriage,

Better than flocks and herds, being proofs of her skill as a housewife."

A Change has Come

But the bride, the spirit of all ages, has witnessed great changes since that time. Three great giants have come—steam, electricity and chemistry—and these giants have wrought changes that the bride in the colonial days could not have prophesied in her wildest dreams. They have taken the spinning, the weaving and a large part of the sewing, and the preparation of food out of the home. They have established great factories in the city and have extended out their long arms and, drawn thousands upon thousands of people into the factories to work. They have taken the litle homes in the villages and piled them up, home upon home, in dusky tenement districts in the great cities where the factories are located. They have driven men, yes, and large numbers of women and children to toil day after day at monotonous mechanical duties where personality is steadily ground out of them.

At the same time these three giants have made some men masters of thousands of others and have placed almost unlimited power in their hands. They have placed the wives and daughters of many men in a position where they do not need to work and where unless they have an inherent ambition to serve the world it is very easy to live only for their own amusement.

The industrial giants have created thousands of kinds of specialized work, and each individual is expected to be a specialist in his own work and in addition to know a little about everybody else's work. To offset the grinding, narrowing effect of specialized work and of homes crowded up in a city have come the movies and the jazz. But more broadening than these are the newspaper, the magazines, the telephones the telegraphs and the quick modes of travel.

The bride, who so faithfully followed the stern path of duty in Puritan times, now finds things more perplexing. The problem is to know where the path of duty lies. She did not spend her girlhood growing up among a class of people that she knew she would always live among and learning the household duties which she would be expected to perform. The girl of today spends her time going to school trying to crowd all the general information possible into her mind. The ideal that is held up before her is to become well educated. She is supposed to know the history of the world, to know the geography of the world, to be able to discuss art intelligently, to know the fundamentals of science, to keep up with current events, above all to have a comprehensive knowledge of moviedom and an up-to-date vocabulary of slang. She must be a good entertainer and know something about all the things her friends are interested in. It is an added accomplishment if she specialize in music or some other form of art. Then in the majority of instances she is expected either to make her living from the time she leaves school until she marries or to be able to earn her living if occasion should arise at any time during her life. While the girl of colonial times expected to marry, the modern girl wonders if she will marry. It is safe to say that the girls who do not plan what they will do in case they do not marry are in the minority.

The bride—who has struggled throughout centuries ever adjusting herself to canging conditions—is co herself to changing conditions—is confronted by a more difficult situation now than ever before. She has grown up among rapidly changing conditions when not even standards of right and wrong have been fixed. She has not definitely prepared for marriage and so much is expected of her.

In the golden days of the bride-to-be, when her love goes out to all the world, she comes to a definite realization of her place in the world. First of all she wants to be a real companion to the man she marries. She wants to share his joys and sorrows, to share his ambitions and to work with him toward their attainment. She wants to make a real home for him—a place where he can come for refuge when he is tired and worried. She wants to keep a neat and cheerful house and to serve wholesome, well-cooked food so that she can send him out to work each morning strong and capable. She wants her home to be an asset to him in a social way and to be a place where he will be proud to invite his friends. She wants to be his playmate as well as to share the more serious part of his life.

She wants her home to be a real home in every sense of the word. She wants to be the best mother there ever was.

She wants her children to have every advantage that a home can possibly offer. She wants them to have the very best training that science can offer and all the love that a mother can give. She wants them to live wholesome, well balanced lives so that they will be healthy and strong. She wants them to develop character and have every intellectual and social asset possible.

So Much Expected

Never before has so much been expected of the bride. She needs to have a thorough knowledge of home economics. Even if she does not intend to do her own housework she must know how to supervise it. She should have a knowledge of scientific hygiene and should know a great deal about the psychology of children. She should be a competent business woman so that she can manage her home economically. She should be thoroughly up-to-date make a good appearance socially and be congenial to her husband. In addition to all this she has to remember that she is a citizen of the United States with civic responsibilities that very directly affect the home. Above all she must be sympathetic and tolerant, always ready to see things from the other person's point of view, ready to live her husband's life with him and to live the children's lives with them.

The home has long been the foundation of civilization and now, when people are declaring that the home

A Lost Bit of the Long Grass Prairie is Like a Picture of Nebraska 70 Years Ago

No Plow Has Turned It. No Cattle Have Grazed It. It Stands Now As It Has Stood for Ages.

JUNE IS THE HIGH TIDE FOR NATURE

Within Sight of the City Is Found a Remnant of the Once Boundless Prairie With Its Own Flowers and Grasses.

BY ELEANOR HINMAN.

To most of the present generation this is a thing to dream of, a thing out of old tales as vanished as the buffalo that used to feed upon it, or the Indian riders that hung upon their flanks. In fact, the long-grass prairie that once carpeted the Mississippi-Missouri valleys is practically extinct. To the west still exist wild tracts of virgin soil; but they bear only the short forage grasses of the drouth-stricken high plains, not the thigh-deep meadows that once filled our river valleys. Except in one place, all the meadow land around Lincoln for a distance of twenty miles has either been tamed by the plow or shaved by the grazing of cattle until little besides vervain, snow-on-the-mountain, Joe-Pye weed, thistles and similar weeds that they reject, can send up their heads above the close-cropped mat of indistinguishable grasses.

What grew on the prairie anyhow? To many of us this has been an unanswered riddle. Buffalo grass, say the old-timers; but their descriptions of this valuable self-curing grass are various and contradictory. Flowers, they say, too; quantities of flowers, drifted down in little islands of bloom quivering among the billowy seas of grass. But of what the flowers were, they can seldom give any idea.

Unbroken Prairie.

There is, however, a tract of unbroken prairie not far from Lincoln where one may discover some of these things for ones self. Not quite three miles from the terminus of the Havelock car line, just across the creek and to the east side of the road, begins a tract of meadow, continuing east for a couple of miles along the creek, that is particularly unique in this part of the country. It is as near what the virgin prairie was like that covered all this territory in 1850 as can be found in southeastern Nebraska. Similar tracts are to be found in spots along the Blue river, but no other, so far as is known to the botany department of the state university, within a radius of twenty miles of Lincoln.

This bit of land has never known the plow, and has never been used as grazing land. It is not a perfect example of the vanished prairie, because it is mowed twice a year. However, the grass is self-sown, and one crop is allowed to go to seed. This prairie is also burned over every spring as soon as the snow is off it. But such treatment is no more than original prairie had to undergo at the hands of the Indians, who burned off the weeds and old grass in the neighborhood of their villages in order to get better forage, and in this way often started fires that raged for miles down the wind. Also, since it is surrounded by cultivated land, it is inevitable that occasional examples of imported plants have crept into it here and there; lone wind-sown specimens of sweet clover and alfalfa; an isolated colony of bromus tectorum, the downy bromegrass that springs up in plowed fields. Yet for the most part it is as it has always been.

Early June has always been the high tide of nature on the grassy seas of the prairie. Spring, to be sure, has its wonders, with the little prairie lily, near relative of the dog-tooth violet of the woods and the sand lily of the sand hills and bad lands, but now almost extinct in this region except in this one spot where it covers the ground in April; spring with its violets and bluets and blue-eyed grass; but this is only the promise of the glory of the first of summer. Then the grass is at its longest and greenest, its varied heads, tasselled, spiked, combed and so forth, scatter their perishable dust-like atoms of flowers in the waving wind.

The High Tide of Nature.

On the first of June, then, I sallied forth to this bit of prairie, determined to piece out the tales that had held me breathless during my childhood with a little observation of my own. Surely never was the prairie more inviting than at this time of year. The huge old cottonwoods along the old channel of the creek, now almost dry since the restless moderns had deflected the current into a ditch where it could not overflow every spring, held up their ragged, furroughed limbs proudly, as no doubt they had done when the Otoe chieftains rested their ponies by those sluggish waters. From among their rustling, twinkling leaves came forth a gentle and incessant drifting of gossamers, vague fairy balloons that rose and eddied and sank again, dubious wheher to aim for heaven or earth. The breeze that bore them carried another freightage, a fragrance that made all the bumblebees and flies come flocking toward its source, the delicious odor of wild grape blossoms on the vines that tangled the wood.

Glimpses from a bit of virgin prairie that has never known either the plow or grazing. Above, bands of different kinds of grasses and flowers surrounding a moist swale down the center of the meadow. Center, a drift of wild flowers. Below, a view across the meadow showing the tall marsh grass in the foreground. To the left, a huge old cottonwood on the edge of the nearby channel wheer the creek used to run which is probably also a survivor of old days. This prairie is not quite three miles north of the end of the Havelock car line, on the Corroll farm.

But the prairie as well had perfumes of its own. Not only the scent of the wild roses from the road-bank, but the odor of all its varied grasses, changing slightly with every rod I walked, called to me. I skirted the edge of the road looking for an opening to break over into the meadow.

The road was bordered by a ditch whose depth and wetness were camouflaged by a rank jungle of dock and ragweed. I approached it hesitatingly, and my skirt brushed against the weeds. A rustle and a slither—and suddenly my heart leapt into my mouth.

What Was It?

What was it? What? Something long and sinuous was gliding away through the stalks. One at my feet, and a second not far away. Oh, what could it be? Had the big rattlesnakes of the old days returned to give me a sample of the old-time prairie in good earnest?

I waited, panting, until my heart had somewhat ceased its wild thumping and the mysterious slitherers had been given ample time to make good their retreat. Then, lest my courage fail me, I plunged into the thicket. I slid down a clay bank to a mud bottom and scrambled up again onto the level of the meadow.

I was in deep broad-bladed swamp grass that, stretched out, would reach to my waist. The tops of it were bent over by the gentle wind so that it came only to my thighs. Looking windward, I saw a deep, intense green; leeward, and I saw a glittering metallic sheen on these bent blades. The wide leaves formed a thatch to a warm little temple in which the tough, jointed grass stalks would serve well enough for pillars. Sinking down flat on it, I saw the thatch close over me and was lost to the world.

Then I realized that the prairie had spread a feast for me inside her thatched house. All over the ground were the dainty brown caps of some early mushrooms newly sprung out of the ground and of a most tempting youngness and succulence. New as they were, delicate nibblings here and there showed me that something had been before me to the feast. Looking at the mushrooms closely, I decided that they were the delicious agaricus campestris with which at one time I had a speaking—and an eating—acquaintance in another part of the world. Out came a paper bag and in went a quantity of the supposed agaricus campestris, although the picking of it required much groping about among the tough grass stalks. One or two of the latter I tried to pluck for my specimen box. Such a tug of war! I thought the whole meadow would come with it when suddenly, the sturdy joint gave, with a violence that nearly sent me sprawling on my back again.

But alas for my dreams of mush-room sauce! For when submitted my find to an assistant of the botany department, the sad verdict was that, whatever it might be, it was not agaricus Campestris, and that I would experiment at my own peril. The prairie, after all, is not to be trusted.

I began to explore the region about me. In the midst of the swamp grass were unexpected patches of bare clay that had once been puddles. The scorched, blackened surface was curled and cracked into innumerable curved tile-like flakes beneath which one could see the whitish clay. Where the water had been dried a little longer a mob of weeds were forcing their way through the cracks. The black, tile-like fragments could be picked up and some of them formed crumbling bowls from nature's pottery. Was it from something of this sort, one wonders, that the Indian squaw got her idea of molding the clay into bowls and leaving them for sun and fire to dry?

Suddenly I stepped out of the swamp grass into an entirely different region. The rise is imperceptible, yet here the grasses were short, the flowers abundant, the turf not moist and yielding but firm and ringing. Drifts of a small delicate flower raised lavender crown-shaped heads about me. I picked one—and instantly recognize by the odor its humble position. Phew! Wild onion.

This plebeian plant boasts one of the prettiest of all the wild flowers, and oddly enough, the odor of its flower is very delicate and fragrant, if one beware not to disturb the leaves and stems. However, I was yet more interested in the possible addition to my lunch; for while the odor is strong enough to give even an Italian pause, the bulb is quite as good as any other onion, and was a favorite dish with the Indians, whose squaws harvested it from the prairie at about this time of year. Yet it is unwillingly that the prairie parts with its treasure; I pull many, and am rewarded by only one full-size bulb. I decide to bring a big knife the next time I visit the prairie, and in the meantime leave the feast for the moles whose excavations run about and the other mysterious wanderers of the night whose burrows I come upon here and there.

Another Interest.

Another curious plant of this meadow is the big clumps of the compass plant, whose big, tough, leathery, decorative leaves stand endwise and tend to point north and south. This peculiar weed has proved the salvation of many a lost wanderer in the old prairie days.

Flowers are abundant everywhere. Most beautiful of all, excepting only the familiar wild rose, is the spiderwort, whose three-petaled cup of gorgeous blue laughs up superbly into the sky from the midst of its grass-like leaves. One wonders why this charming flower has not been taken up for cultivation. I have seen it growing in a few Lincoln gardens, where it responds immediately to cultivation by producing larger flowers of an even deeper and more heavenly color. But for the most part, now that the prairies are so nearly gone, it is left to the railroad tracks, which it carpets with glory, although its color fades into purple and is never quite so beautiful in the poor soil and the unprotected glare as in the home from which it is so nearly banished, the deep grass of the meadow and the edge of the woods.

Most marked, however, is the wealth of grasses. It is impossible to more than touch the wealth of this meadow in a single afternoon, but in the course of the three hours I spent in it, I found fourteen kinds of grasses and distinguished several others that could not be identified because they had not yet headed out. These grasses were the tall swamp grass (partina), the "little barley" and the familiar, beautiful, but pestiferous squirrel-tail (both species of hordium); two species of sedges (caryx); the short buffalo grass with its comb-like reddish heads and its red blossoms so much more prominent than in most grasses; the tiny panic grass with its big grains; the reed grass, calimagratus, as tall as a man's head; the false bulrush, scirpa, with its triangular stems; the wheat-grass, agropyron, with bluish stems; two species of erigrastus or love-grass that looks very much like blue-grass, and the canary grass or phalaris, the only grass in the meadow whose head was already dry. In several places were colonies of bromus tectorum, which unlike the others is not a native but a weed introduced from other parts and strayed into this bit of old prairie.

Flowering Plants.

Flowering plants, while not so numerous as the grasses, showed a much greater variety. In blossom were found, very plentifully, the yellow Platte daisy, wild onion, spiderwort, the tiny spotted skull-cap (scutelaria), the familiar yarrow, the yellow-and-brown ground cherry whose puffy mebranes later inclose small green berries are familiar to children; the pretty little redwood sorrel; the blue vetch, blue-eyed grass, and the pale pink-and-white mallow with its sweet, heavy fragrance. Common weeds also found in blossom were the spurge (euphorbia), the goose-grass (gulium), pepper-grass, shepherd's purse, and peach-leaved dock. A number of prominent plants not yet in blossom were the big thistles, the compass plant or rosin weed, a second kind of rosin weed, wild lettuce, several kinds of sunflower and goldenrod, ragweed, pretty silver-leaved artemisia, a relative of the sage family, another silver-leaved plant known as psoralea; the lead-plant or shoestring, no friend of the farmer but very pretty to look at with its fine leaflets (amorpha canense), and any number of goldenrods. In places the scouring rush or horsetail, which is not a flowering plant at all nor a grass, but a relative of the ferns, was very plentiful.

Miss Gertrude E. Moore will spend some time in New York city working in the various art galleries. She will also spend some time in other art centers in the vicinity of New York.

The American Magazine of Art for June first contains a statement of the exhibition activities in the Nebraska Art association for the present season.

University Notes

W. E. Bruner, who has been an assistant in the botany department for the past two years, has been elected to an instructorship in botany in the University of Oklahoma to which position he will report September 1 Mr. Bruner took his master's degree at Nebraska this year.

Word has been received that F. F. Weinard, who took his master's degree in botany in 1917, has passed all requirements including the examination for the degree of doctor of philosophy in botany at the University of Illinois.

S. V. Fullaway, '12, was calling upon friends in the university last week. Mr. Fullaway graduated from the forestry course in the university. He is now chief of the office of forest products of the United States forest service at Missoula, Mon.

The walls of the main gallery of the art hall are covered with work of various departments in the school of fine arts. The work was largely done under the direction of Miss Mundy, Mrs. Brock and Miss Rush and Mr. Haugseth. Work in charcoal and life occupies the greater part of the wall surface, and is interesting especially from the point of view that the individuality of the student has been allowed a much greater freedom than is customary in schools of art. A great deal of favorable comment is being made on the water colors and the case of interesting work in applied art. It is probably the best exhibit the school has ever held. A large amount of work in ceramics is on display in a number of the cases.

Miss Alice H. Howell, head of the department of dramatics, is spending the summer at Laramie, Wyo. Miss Howell is recuperating from a recent illness and expects to return to the university in the fall to resume her duties.

Dr. Edwin B. Powers, who has been here two years as instructor in zoology, has accepted an associate professorship in zoology in the University of Tennessee. Dr. Powers left Tuesday of last week and expects to spend the summer at Edinburgh, Scotland, working in the university there.

Star Reporter Tries 13th Experiment and Finds That Clerks in a Ten Cent Store Must Keep Alert

BY JESSIE WATSON

That much dreaded number, thirteen, most certainly did not hoodoo me last Monday when I sold candy and lace at Kresge's, the thirteenth place I have worked in the series of other girl's jobs that I am trying out, out, for out of all the jobs I have undertaken there is not one I enjoyed more than the thirteenth.

I walked into the ten cent store all ready to go to work and went back to the office to see Mr. A. H. Ashley, the manager. I told him about my plan of going some place each week and working for about a half day and then writing up my experiences, and applied for a job there that afternoon.

Mr. Ashley told me to go into the office and write out my application Opening the door labeled "Employees Only" I mounted the stairs in that queer little office marked "Transfer." The girl in the office gave me an application card and had me sit down at the table to fill it out. At first I thought that the girl was probably in on my little game and I started to fill out the card in a serious way. But when she began to explain about references I realized that she thought I was looking for a permanent job. So I decided that I might as well play my part of the game, and I filled out the blank accordingly. Flattering my youthfulness by several years I stated that I graduated from high school in February, 1922. The lower half of the card was taken up with blanks for me to fill out giving my previous experience in any kind of work. The first place that I had worked in my series of jobs was Roberts' Dairy lunch; so I stated that I entered that firm's employment in March, 1922, and left in March, 1922. Cause of leaving—Got better job. Taking another of my series of jobs I wrote below this that I began working in the traffic department of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company in March, 1922, and left in March, 1922.

Cause of leaving. It would not do to again say, "Got a better job." So I wrote, "Called home by illness of my mother." Perhaps it would have been better to say, "Had to go to my grandmother's funeral."

When my application was completed the girl told me that "6" would be my number. I was instructed to walk past the transfer desk each morning when I came to work and call out my number and do so again before I left at noon, when I came again in the afternoon and before I left in the evening.

With all the preliminaries finally completed I went down on the floor and Mr. Ashley took me to the chocolate and lace counter to work. Two girls regularly work in this department and as one of them was absent that afternoon I had a splendid opportunity to get the real experience. Mr. Ashley instructed me very carefully in the details of the work. I was told always to approach a customer by saying, "May I wait on you, please?" I had already had experience in using cash registers in several of my jobs, and the scales used for weighing candy were just like those I used in my grocery store experience. Everyone, of course, is more or less familiar with the business method of counting back change, but to make sure that I would do this correctly Mr. Ashley gave me a demonstration.

He also gave me this bit of advice "If a customer buys, say 35 cents worth of candy, and hands you a $1 bill, as you take the bill say, '35 out of $1.' Then when you give him his change he cannot come back with 'I gave you a $5 bill.' Or if a customer gives you a $5 bill do the same so that he cannot claim he gave you a $10 bill. There are people who regularly try to do that."

The instant my instructions were completed I had a customer to wait on and I was busy almost every moment until I left shortly before closing time. There was no time to watch the people who thronged the aisles, but I came in contact with a variety of types of people, for everybody likes chocolates and most women buy lace. The joy of working in a ten cent store is that you make sales rapidly. People who come to your department in a ten cent store usually intend to buy something. At the candy counter they merely tell you what they want, once in a while inquiring about the flavor or the freshness of the candy, and you weigh it out and make the change. Men and women were about equally represented among my candy customers, and there were a few children.

At the lace counter a great many of the women depended upon me to help them make their selection.

One woman selected an imitation of crocheted lace and was about to have me cut it when she began to wonder whether her daughter would like it. "If I were getting it for myself," she said, "I would know what I wanted, but I don't know whether my daughter would like this or not. Maybe she would think it is too coarse."

She asked my advice. I didn't want to advise her because I didn't know what would please her daughter, but I pointed out a piece of lace that I thought was a great deal prettier and suggested, "Maybe your daughter would like this better." She took that piece.

Other customers came in who very plainly had no sewing on hand that required lace, but on seeing lace that they considered especially pretty would think up some use for it and buy piece after piece.

A number of bargain hunters were were looking for 25 cent grade lace at the 5 cent counter. They didn't really expect to find it there, but they just stopped to take a peep, for who knows but that they might some day find the sack of gold at the end of the rainbow.

The girl who clerks in a ten cent store has to keep alert mentally and physically. She is usually happy, because she doesn't have time to worry. At least, this was my experience, even though I was on my thirteenth job and didn't keep my fingers crossed.

FROM HAGUE TO HAGUE.

It is not an inspiring cycle that results from tracing world events between May 18, 1899, to June 15, 1922. It was on the former date that the first world delegates met at The Hague for a conference to establish international principles of peace. On the latter date begins the European conference at The Hague to take up the work left undone at the recent Genoa conference.

Under bright skies there met at the first Hague conference one hundred delegates, representing the United States, Mexico, China, Japan, Persia, Siam and twenty-one European powers. The Hague conference to be held the middle of this month will meet with black clouds hanging low. The delegates will come together hoping against hope that something but little short of a miracle will result.

The pre-war Hague conferences went off smoothly enough so long as the nations met, talked cheerfully of peace and made many promises. But there was the trouble—everything, as the war emperor of Germany later stated, was but a scrap of paper. The promissory notes issued at The Hague were nothing more than promises. The kaiser proved this conclusively in the summer and autumn of 1914.

The Hague conferences prior to 1914 were cast into oblivion. The peace which had been established upon promissory notes became trampled under foot and for more than four years Europe became a blood-soaked battlefield. And then what happened? At the close of the war, under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, a better structure for the insurance of peace was designed. The league of nations, which embodied all the virtues of The Hague conferences, also included the machinery for making the promises binding instead of "mere scraps of paper." Europe, having witnessed at close hand the weaknesses of The Hague tribunal, accepted whole-heartedly the league of nations. But the United States, which had sent delegates to The Hague, refused to send delegates to Geneva and by virtue of her position among the world powers, lessened the world-wide effectiveness of the league. The league still exists, but its work is limited because it fails to include the three powerful nations which are needed to make it international. These three nations are Germany, Russia and the United States.

Next we find, in the cycle of international events, the spectacle of the president of the United States summoning the world powersto Washington, although he had told these same nations that this country did not care to mix in their affairs. Out of the Washington conference came a series of treaties, some of which are inocuous and some beneficial. But to date, the United States and China are the only two powers to ratify them and so they are as yet meaningless.

But Europe's problem since the war has not been so much how to prevent the next war, but how to settle her topsy-turvy economic problems and pay her debts. The Washington conference did not treat of this question and the Genoa conference was the logical conclusion. Mr. Harding and his political advisers were in some mysterious way capable of seeing a momentous difference between the summoning of European representatives to Washington and sending American representatives to Genoa, although America's interest in the economics of Europe amounts to eleven billion dollars.

The Genoa conference met and to a large degree failed. It lacked the very leadership which this country would have supplied if American delegates had taken the initiative as they did at the Washington conference. And now comes The Hague conference, called for June 15. Great Britain and Italy will come to the conference arm in arm. France intimates that she may not attend, but if she does she will come as a partner of the lesser states of central Europe. Germany and Russia will come even more closely allied than Britain and Italy. Save Great Britain and Italy, none of the nations will arrive in a happy mood. The conference will differ sadly from that first happy gathering in 1899.

The lessons which we may learn from this cycle are obvious. Soon or late we must accept them. The tragedy of it is that we have so long delayed.

THE MOVIE AND THE PUBLIC.

It is fascinating to write about the wickedness of the movies and the demands by the people for better pictures. Hollywood and all that is ungodly have become synonymous. We cry to the producers to [illegible] more uplifting and cleaner pictures. It is so very easy to shift responsibility.

Two picture plays which were shown in Lincoln last week were "Disraeli," featuring the great actor, George Arliss, and the other was "Fascination," featuring Mae Murray. The movie editor of The Star says "Disraeli" is the finest picture she has seen in the past year. It is a powerful play and Mr. Arliss is one of the few great actors living today. The verdict of the play, "Fascination," is about the same one would suspect by reading the advertisements. It is virtually plotless and relies almost solely upon the sensuous phases of the different scenes. "Where masked beauty and masked danger reveal themselves," reads the advertisement. Such is the snare to attract patrons.

So much for the character of the two plays, one high class and classical, the other tawdry and suggestive. What of the crowds which saw these pictures? The manager of the two theatres where the films showed says he had very, very scant crowds to see George Arliss in "Disraeli," while the theatre was jammed with patrons to see Mae Murray in "Fascination."

After all, are the people really clamoring for better films? At any rate, the producer and the theatre manager have their viewpoints as well as the public.

A DOG'S LIFE.

A certain gentleman who chronicles the unusual happenings in New York city life announces that dogs are now freely admitted in the city's big hotels. He attributes this change of policy to the fact that liberal spenders frequently have one or more dogs and the hotel managers want the patronage of good spenders.

Of course, a dog must be fashionable if he is to get in society, and his popularity is not based on mere whim. He must be an aristocrat of dogdom, a cocker spaniel, a Boston terrier, a Russian wolf-hound, a Great Dane or, more likely, a fluffy lap-dog.

But what poor creatures they are and what sadly restricted lives they lead! What do they know of the open fields and the freedom of life. They are restrained by barriers quite as insuperable as those which restrict their masters and mistresses.

A dog on the farm or in a small town is a happy friend. He can run and play at will, he can make dog friendships and play with his boy companions. He always wants a home and a master, but he wants the great outdoors as well. As some one once wrote, "Child life and dog life have a natural affinity." They love each other and in the open spaces under the blue sky is found their only perfect existence. Gee, but it must be tough to be an aristocrat in dogdom!

The disadvantage of Attorney General Daugherty personally directing the government's case in prosecuting fraudulent war contractors, as he has announced as his intention, is that it is first necessary for him to clear his own skirts.

It is reported that several women in Kentucky erected a tombstone for a cat. They ought to put a fence around it so when the cat's ghost comes back it will seem home-like.

After all, the worst shock which the June-bride has in store for her is the fact that men sometimes wear socks with holes in them.

A lot of Americans would be more interested in The Hague conference if it had been called Haig & Haig.

There are a lot of beautiful philosophies, but none of them disprove the fact that our grapes are sour.

Just because bobbed-hair ruined Samson is no sign that it will ruin a 1922-model flapper.

The popular phrase of Europe was once, God save the King. Now it is, God save the pieces.

Some people think they are serious just because they worry about everything.

The modern girl may not be meticulous, but she is certain cosmeticulous.

When a statesman is up in the air he is usually down in the mouth.

THE SEAWAY NEARS ITS DAY IN COURT.

Secretary of State Hughes has notified the British ambassador that the United States would like to negotiate a treaty with Canada looking to the construction of the great lakes-St. Lawrence seaway unanimously recommended by the international joint commission. That is an important step toward the realization of this great work for the development of the American continent, and one for which Americans in general have been waiting hopefully for several months.

It brings the issue to a head. It is virtually certain that Britain will authorize negotiation. President Harding has already instigated it. The next step will be up to Canada. Whatever the sentiment of Canadians may be on the issue, and the majority should favor it, the dominion government cannot well refuse to discuss a treaty under which the international waterway could be built. Such a treaty would not pledge either country to any expenditure. It would merely set up the necessary machinery for construction and operation of canals, locks and waterworks. It would clear the way for congressional action in this country and parliamentary action in Canada to authorize and finance the necessary construction.

Neither the dominion nor the United States should be hesitant in the matter of such negotiations. The treaty is essential to further progress on the improvement. Until it is negotiated further international action is impossible. But when it is signed and ratified the two governments can proceed with consideration of the actual problem of financing, building and operation on its merits.

Friends of the seaway project have no doubt of their ability to prove conclusively the value of the seaway to both countries. They are willing and eager to let the case go to trial on its merits before the governmental authorities of both countries. Any opposition to negotiation of a treaty under which it can thus be brought to trial will be considered much in the light of technicalities advanced by criminal lawyers to delay a hearing of the evidence and so unjustly assist the release of their clients.—Chicago Tribune.

EPICTETUS AND THE FLAPPER.

Every time somebody puts the flapper under his microscope and dissects her he announces the result as though he had discovered a new kind of bug. Fact is he is just discovering the same old bug with a comparatively new name.

Epictetus, a Greek slave, who became a philosopher with quite a following of disciples about the year 60, made an examination of this same bug which he called, "woman forthwith from the age of fourteen." His observation was brief, but pointed. He said:

"Therefore, since they see that there is nothing else that they can obtain * * * they begin to decorate themselves, and to place all their hopes in this. It is worth our while then to take care that they may know that they are valued for nothing else than appearing decent and modest and discreet."

No doubt similar observations were being made about a similar subject nineteen hundred years before Epictetus lived.—Omaha World-Herald.

More Truth than Poetry

BY S.E. KISER

THE PREVAILING AMBITION.

Her eyes have lost the lustre that years ago they had;
Her look is often pensive, perhaps a little sad;
She haunts a beauty parlor where miracles are done,
Still hoping and imploring that they may show her one;
But, though her chin, once rounded, begins to overlap,
She wants to be a flapper, and with the flappers flap.

Her ankles once were slender, but that was years ago,
With many little wrinkles appearing on her map,
She wants to be a flapper, and with the flappers flap.

She dolls up with precision that never is relaxed;
The darlings never cuddle serenely in her lap;
She wants to be a flapper, and with the flappers flap.

She always is in training to dance the latest dance;
She smokes in public, never omitting any chance;
Sometimes her hubby worries, as well he may, poor chap!
She wants to be a flapper, and with the flappers flap.

BY SIR PHILIP GIBBS.

LONDON, June 3.—The most notable event last week in regard to European settlements has been a clear indication from France that it is ready to drop the threat of immediate invasion of Germany in case that country defaults on indemnities. France still desires to use that menace as an ultimate right, but only as a last resort. It has taken a long time to persuade the French government that seizure of the German industrial cities would create a new chaos and more imminent dangers in Europe. What has finally persuaded them is not only Lloyd George's straight talks at Genoa, but the direct message to the conservative party through Bonar Law as its mouthpiece that France's warmest friend, England, would act support her if she put new military pressure on Germany to extract indemnities beyond German means to pay.

Besides a warning it was like an electric shock to Poincare's administration. It made them realize sharply that if they gave orders for a march into the Ruhr after May 31 it would isolate France from Britain. That thought of isolation, thought often envisaged calmly in the French press, became intolerable when shown as the inevitable result of the present policy. Wise counsels prevailed that the enormous importance of British friendship to France is not to be risked at a time when the German-Russian alliance raises a new bogy in the French imagination. It is possible that Germany will be given more breathing space by important concessions in methods and amounts of payments, and a loan will be made her on her industrial securities under secret guarantees if she checks the use of the printing press for paper money, stabilizes the mark, balances her budget by more drastic taxation.

This will be a compromise, postponing struggles that cannot be averted more than a few years. I do not mean necessarily a military struggle, though Europe is still a powder magazine, but a tremendous struggle that one day must be decided between ideals of European unity based on a real permanent pact peace and the old international balance of power in which groups of nations face other groups with such equal strength of arms that they hesitate to violate each other's rights.

Lloyd George with usual dramatic instinct touched for a moment with the searchlight of his vision Europe's darkest problem. "Will a hungry Russia," hesitated, "sit quietly whilst its children are dying? That is not the experience of the past.

Cannot Restrain the Hungry.

He meant the experience of past history outside of Russia, as for instance, when Napoleon broke the blockade of France and led his hungry legions to loot many cities, ravage many countries, overthrow many thrones.

Lloyd George has not been to Russia. He speaks only through the gift of imagination and knowledge of human nature. I have been to Russia and seen its ruin and agony; I support his view by saying I cannot imagine those hundred and fifty million people sitting down quietly to die as so many are now doing in spite of world-wide efforts of charity on behalf of the children. God knows if there will be another drought this year. If that were to happen, as it is prophesized there will be famine from one end of Russia to another, and those people would get on the move as sure as hungry locusts gather over harvest fields in search of food. Any kind of world is preferable to such lingering death and Trotsky could rally up his ill-fed legions for any desperate adventure.

There are some who hope and think Chicherine's failure to obtain loans or credits from the pacifist elements at the Genoa conference will overthrow the bolshevist government. I am not one who thinks so. I did not get a single man or woman in Russia, including those of the old regime, who believed the bolsheviks were menaced by international revolution. The time is gone past for that. Even the young aristocrats, serving as Red officers or soviet officials, first for a means of life but secondly because they are willing to support any government which holds Russia together and prevents anarchy. The future's hardening spirit among the Russian leaders will defeat the moderate pacifist element. That will assuredly happen if the Hague conference does not lead to more definite results for Russia than Genoa. In that case, I am convinced that Lenin and Trotsky, the inner circle of soviet wire pullers, will conspire for a world war as one means of escape for the Russian people. It will be a conspiracy with German militarists—by which I do not mean the German people—who would accept aid from the devil himself for the joy of vengeance. I have enormous pity for the Russian people. They are just as good a people as any one; they are brave, patient, kindly, simple folk. They are just victims of a tragic fate beyond their power, to alter or control. They are peasants who love their land, their women folk and children, and desire enough to eat. But like all people of human kind, they may be turned into savage beasts by fear, hunger and desperate misery.

Need International Aid.

It is because I know that these people, governed by a little minority of fanatical men, are threatened by increasing famine that I see the urgent need of international aid, not only for their sake, but for Europe's sake. Their leaders have made for a few months a pact of peace. What is going to happen after that? It would be real immortality to buy off the bolsheviks, as King Alfred tried to buy off the Danes. On the other hand, an attempt to destroy them by force would dead only to new fruitless agonies to the Russian people.

Now that France is ready to work in closer union with Great Britain there might still possibly come an arrangement with Germany regarding Russia. Germany, outside the small military clique, would as I know welcome such a proposal. She is the most anti-bolshevik nation outside of England and the United States. She only leans toward Russia to avoid French aggression. Her treaty of Rapallo was just a warning to France if she decided to invade the German industrial cities. A grim alternative. But now France, held up by the threat from Germany (at least the present German government, is willing to come into some co-opertive scheme for Russian reconstruction. Here is the way that might be taken, as it should have been taken before. They soviet delegates could be faced at The Hague, as elsewhere, with a united front, including Germany, and in return for credits would have to accept conditions which they now evade. France, which opposed a discussion of Red army demobilization offered by Chicherlin, because it opened general discussion which might weaken the French strength in armed force, could be persuaded to support that condition now she has drawn closer to Great Britain to avoid isolation. With backing from the United States this scheme could still go through as a good business policy. It would save the Russian people, for the bolshevik government would come into line with the ordinary code of international honor. It would also break the sinister meaning of that German treaty of Rappalo, by which at present Germany is left alone in the field with the Russian government. These things are worth thinking about by all men and women. They are the only things that matter, not to our present generation but to children yet unborn who would be the victims of the next Armageddon, unless we try to save them now.

THE NINTH COMMANDMENT.

(Milwaukee Jornal.)

She was a very young girl, and all her life she had lived where people were nice people or else you knew they weren't nice or you didn't know them at all. Then she went to college and people there liked her. She was the kind of girl young folk like and older folk, too. She was popular; she had a good time. More than one man used to wait on her nod.

And then things changed. Her friends, her new friends who had made her so happy, chilled, that kind of stiffening which the one who suffers it knows but cannot give a name to or demand an explanation. A good many people know how this destroys happiness, how one wears a brave face in public and, if one is a girl and a young girl, cries into her pillow the moment she reaches he rroom.

What was it all about? She had sense enough one day to ask an older girl, who told her that people just couldn't trust anyone who went out with such and such a man. The little freshman hadn't known about that. She hadn't even known that friends put a wrong construction upon such things instead of asking an explanation. She hadn't been used to that kind of friend. Things brightened up after that, but one girl was older and wiser—and sadder. She had to learn that as between two interpretations people who know you will not always choose the better. How many others have to suffer because when we talk about the commandments we seldom mean more than the two or three most obvious ones, or stop to think about the ways there are of bearing false witness against a neighbor.

IMPORTANT QUESTION.

(Philadelphia Ledger.)

Associate Justice William R. Day of the supreme court of the United States, sometimes introduces an amusing story into the solemn precincts of that weighty deliberative body. There was this one, for example, of the lawyer who kept objecting to his witness answering a certain question.

"Where were you between 9 and 9:30 on the morning of the 14th of January?" asked the prosecuting attorney.

"I object," interjected the lawyer for the defense.

"Let him ask me," cried the witness excitedly.

They wrangled awhile over the relevancy of the question and the case droned on. Presently the prosecution got back to that same question and the defense objected.

"Let him ask me! Let him ask me!" cried the witness wildly, pounding the rail in front of him.

Finally the 9 to 9:30 question appeared for the third time and was objected to. Whereupon the witness went into a frenzy in his insistence that he be allowed to answer.

The court stepped into the breach and ruled that the question was material.

"Where were you between 9 and 9:30 on the morning of Jan. 14?" said the prosecutor.

"I don't remember," lisped the witness.

A DISEASE CONQUERED.

(New York Times.)

Science has completed her victory over Malta fever. Since that malady has never troubled us in the United States we are only mildly interested in the pathological fact, but many will be glad to give credit to a medical investigation that definitely has found the means of preventing human infection by a most efficient serum.

Malta fever, alias Cyrprus fever, alias Mediterranean fever, alias undulating fever, alias also a variety of other local names has long been one of the most annoying inflictions among the populations surrounding the Mediterranean, and has been observed in Cuba, Brazil, India, China, and elsewhere. For long a complete mystery as to its origin the illuminating fact finally appeared to Sir David Bruce that without goats there was no Malta fever or rather where goat's milk products were not partaken of the disease remained unknown. It was a short step thereafter to the discovery of the specific germ that, though harmless to the goat itself, causes serious disarrangement in the human system. The goats on the island of Malta were accused, rightly or wrongly, as being the real source of trouble and this belief was strengthened when it was found that outbreaks of the fever that had been rather frequent on the rock of Gibraltar ceased when the importation thereto of Malta goat's milk and meat was suspended.

However, that is an old story and even the attempt to find a curative serum is not entirely new since "a certain success" has attended such efforts in the past decade. But at last, through studies made by French Pathologists in North Africa the desired antitoxin for the goat disease has been discovered and defeat of the fever has been formally announced. What is more, the new medicament is one that does not require the painful intravenous injection that must of necessity require care in the giving, but is one that can be absorbed through the digestive organs, in short a mere pill.

Only about 10 per cent of Malta fever cases were fatal, but it is a long, slow, disagreeable disease frequently having serious after-effects and with symptoms near enough to those of typhoid to cause mistakes of diagnosis. Smallpox, diphtheria, typhus, yellow fever, hookworm etc., and now Malta fever have been checked off as met and conquered, and the victorious march of science continues.

MAXIM GORKY'S JOKE.

(St. Louis Post Dispatch.)

"You are the drama critic," Dr. Gregory Zilboorg identified a visitor to his hoom at Hotel Statler yesterday afternoon, and then continued with the accent of genuine compassion:

"How sorry I am for a critic in the Middle West. Never to see any good plays—nothing but 'commercial successes' maintained at financial loss on Broadway, for the sake of the prestige of a 'long New York run' when they go on the road; nothing but plays like 'The Woman in Bronze,' with Margaret Anglin—how can an actress appear in plays like that?"

"The Russian treatre under the Bolshviki?" he went on, in reply to a question. "Let me say first that I lived two years under the Bolshevik regime, and that I wish to divorce any political bitterness I may feel from the statements I will make. The facts are trenchant enough in themselves.

"The situation is this: the Russian treatre under the Bolsheviki has ceased to exist. It's in a peculiar state of martyrdom. Imagine actors at the Art theatre in Moscow with no food, no clothes, no shoes. There have been cases in which actors, a few moments before they had to go on the stage, fainted from starvation and exhaustion.

"The censorship which exists in every walk of life also includes art, I will mention two instances. Maxim Gorky, who can scarcely be suspected of being a counter-revolutionist, wrote a comedy, a cheerful piece, not about politics at all, but about provincial life in Russia. He represented the people as talking all the time, and as being so overorganized in committees, subcommittees and groups, that they could do nothing. The comic point came at the end, when one of the characters said: 'What we nueed is organization.' This play had one performance, and was suppressed."

"Greatest Liar" First Told of Wonders of Yellowstone

(Kansas City Star.)

Back in the "fifties" a lone rider arrived at a spot in Northwestern Wyoming, slipped from his horse, and gazed upon a strange sight. He saw boiling water shooting up out of the earth to great heights. When he got back to the other side of the Teton range and told the folks about it he established for his lifetime a reputation of being "the greatest liar west of St. Joe."

The man was Jim Bridger and he had discovered the Yellowstone park.

Few believed his tales of sky mounting smokes and egg-boiling geysers. "Loco" was the term applied to Jim. That was long ago. Yellowstone in June will celebrate its semi-centennial as a national park, for May 1, 1872, congress passed the bill creating it.

In 1869 Bridger's stories had resulted in C. W. Cook and David Folsom making the trip. They saw all that Bridger had seen and more. They were followed by the Washburn expedition. These army men got the idea of a national park. In this party were Gen. H. D. Washburn, Licut. G. C. Doane and several civilians.

"The sky over Yellowstone National park is not shell pink," says a monograph of the American forestry association; "the trees are not blue, the waters of the great lake in no wis resembles red ink and the geysers do not spout streams of molten metal, as some have been led to believe. It is possible to traverse the woodland trails and pass many trees without seeing a grizzly bear. The buffaloes and antelopes do not crowd the tourists and stages from the highways. It is quite possible to spend a week in the park without being molested by 'denizens.'

"There are more natural phenomena to be seen in Yellowstone National Park than in any other equal area in the United States. Add to this the fact that there is a great lake fifteen miles wide at its widest point, and twenty miles long, the placid surface of which is seventy-eight hundred feet above the sea level, a great gorge of rainbow hues through which a mighty river roars on its way to the sea, hundreds of square miles of great forests and broken, sawtoothed crests and you have a combination which will inspire even a cowboy. Everything is on a giant scale. Distances are great—canyons are of terrifying depth, mountain peaks raise their lofty crests to inconceivable heights.

"From Yellowstone the road follows the Madison river to its junction with the Firehole river, where it branches. One road follows the Gibbon river to the north, while the other follows up the valley of the Firehole. The road along the Firehole is particularly beautiful, as it clings for miles to the edge of the river until it reaches what is known as the lower geyser basin. In this basin are the famous mammoth paint pots, which are really nothing but mud geysers, the contents of which look and act like nothing so much as vividly colored mush that is being boiled and tossed by escaping steam.

"Old Faithful geyser may be seen to spout, with its never interrupted regularity, at intervals of one hour and five minutes. On the road along the eastern border of the basin also may be seen many of the geysers, and the entire surrounding has the appearance of a manufacturing town with the innumerable jets of steam rising from unseen escapes.

"The falls of the Yellowstone river in the canyon are among the finest in the world. At the upper falls the entire river passes over a drop of 109 feet. The lower falls is a drop of 308 feet. The canyon is approximately one thousand feet deep, and its walls and sloping sides are of the most varied hues.

"Fort Yellowstone has a distinct air of romance surrounding it. It has housed one of the most distinguished soldiers in the army, many of whom received their medals of distinction in the Indian fights in the northwest. Now, the soldiers, like the real cowboys, are gone. One of the most interesting natural phenomena in the park is the mammoth hot spring, which is built of a number of terraces formed by the depositing of salts from solution in the hot waters of the springs. The colors of these terraces change from day to day, and offer a never ending source of interest and wonderment to the visitors.

"The park is the largest of the national system and contains 2 million acres. There are hundreds of miles of trails, innumerable lakes, stream and mountain peaks, together with an infinite variety of natural phenomena, all of which offer sufficient interest to entertain the most exacting for a period of several months.

THE RENT DOESN'T COME DOWN

(Paul Clay in Forbe's Magazzine.)

Why have not rents declined with the unemployment and the falling wages? The answer is that rents always move readily as compared with the rise and fall of prices, wages, and general prosperity. Throughout known commercial history they have been slow in moving upward, and always slow in coming down again. It was the same in the Napoleonic period, and in the Civil ar inlration and deflation.

Or, if one wishes to look at the definite practical causes which are operating right now, the answer is that tens of thousands of new landlords throughout the United States cannot afford to reduce rants, while most o the others do not want to. During tht years of 1918 to 1920, both inclusive there was a craze for buying in real estate. Millons of dwellings, farms, and business properties changed hands at prices anywhere from 50 to 200 per cent above the pre war values. These new owners paid so much for their properties that if they reduce rents they cannot get a fair return on their investment. Of course, they paid too much and ultimately they may have to sacrifice a fair return as a penalty for their mistake; but the point is that they will not do so until they are compelled.

There is another practical reason why rents are slow in falling, and this is that even now they are only a little above incomes. Statistical indications are that wages and incomes are now about 59.2 per cent higher than in 1914, while rents are 60 to 61 per cent higher. Therefore, people in average circumstances are still able to pay the average increase in rents; and this condition, together with the unwillingness of the landlord to cut and the unwillingness of the tenant to go back to the kind of quarters he used to live in, keeps rents up.

Tiny Maids in Ruffles and Fluffles Danced at the May Pole for the Queen of the May —Picture by MacDonald.

Here are the ten little girls, who assisted in the Ivy day exercises at the University campus Thursday morning. Just when the picture was snapped the little dancers had just begun the unwinding of the ribbons from around the pole. They all certainly all look as if they enjoyed the dance as much as the spectators.

We can't tell how little Marion Edgren feels about it, for she has turned her back to the camera, although she was standing almost directly in front of it.

BY LYNNELLE GREER

Ten little fairies that looked as if they might have stepped right out of the 'once upon a time' book, tripped out on the University campus, Thursday morning, and gave a charming little May pole dance in honor of the May queen.

Ten little maids in ruffly, fluffy dresses, whose tiny little feet, topped with half-sox, kept perfect rhythm with the music went round and round and in and out between the ribbons of the May pole.

All were happy and all were smiling with the exception of one little maid, upon whose shoulders the burden of having the dance just right seemed to rest none too lightly. Her eyes were fastened on the twining of the ribbons around the pole and she watched every move of the other little girls, to see that there wasn't a mistake.

With the exception of two, all of the kiddies had been in the May pole dance the year previous, these two little girls were Marion Edgren and Harriett Worrell, but no one would have suspected but that the Maypole dance was a daily occurrence with them.

There was a long wait but the children watched delightedly the events that preceded their dance, and clapped their little hands with glee as the pretty co-eds marched around the circle with the daisy chain.

When the music began, that meant it was time for them to go on, there was a scramble for partners. During the visiting before-hand things had been mixed up a little, but soon all was ready and away they went.

Now a bow to their partners, now another to the audience, and the dance was on.

Dark hair and blonde hair, side by side, all bobbed, and some heads adorned with huge ribbon bows went whirling round the pole; not a mistake, not even a hesitation on the part of any little foot, they all knew what they should do, where they should go and they went.

Worried Parents.

And in the audience were worried mothers and fathers. Each one was afraid that it was to be her little girl that would make the mistake; or perhaps the hair bow was a trifle awry at the end of the first dance, or the dampness had taken some of the curl out of the little tot's hair, or the half-sock had slipped a little, any one or several of innumerable things, and all around were smiles for the little dancers, and comments as to the ability of all of them.

If the little girls heard any of these things they gave no sign, but went right on with their dance until it was ended and they tripped off of the campus as lightly as they went on.

For several weeks they had been planning and practicing for this one event, they were to help in the crowning of the May queen, one of the traditional exercises of the University of Nebraska, and they were no unimportant factor in making the affair a memorable one to all those who witnessed it.

Some of the tots were kindergartners and some of them were in the first and second grades but none of them were over seven or eight years of age. They were chosen from various schools in the city and were directed by Miss Judkins.

One tiny little girl who was to have been in the dance was Flora Goldstein, but fate was against Flora, for she came down with the measles just a day or so before Ivy day.

DOANE COLLEGE HOLDS JUBILEE

Combines Fiftieth Anniversary and Commencement in One Week.

Program Beginning Saturday Includes Prominent Speakers.

The jubilee celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Doane college at Crete is being held. it began Saturday with class day, filled with events of the afinual commencement and will end Wednesday, June 7 with the "All Doane" dinner on the campus at noon.

The days between are filled with a program that vovers every activity of the school and that reviews its fifty years of history and progress. Three special days are provided: Saturday, Class day; Monday, Education day and Wednesday, Commencement day.

The Saturday program included: ivy program and recapitulation and presentation of class gift at 9:30 a. m.; Dawes oratorical contest at 2 p. m., and the reception to seniors and their friends at the home of President and Mrs. Bennett.

Sunday the baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Pres. John N. Barnett at the First Congregational church and a sacred concert was given in the evening at the Lee memorial chapel. Monday opens with the Doane association chapel, an address by A. D. Harmon, president of Cotner college and one by I. B. Schreckengast of Nebraska Wesleyan. Representative educators are to speak briefly and Dr. E. B. Dean of Carleton college is to deliver an address. Others on the Monday program are Dr. Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary council of church boards of education; Dr. George W. Nash, president Congregational educational foundation, President Henry C King of Oberlin college. Following these will be a picnic lunch, business meetings of mens' societies and the annual meeting of the board of trustees at the Whitin library.

On Tuesday is the breakfast of the women's societies, the Doane College pageant at the Lee Memorial chapel at 9:30 a. m. and the honor "D" banquet at noon. The second part of the pageant is to be given in the afternoon followed by a general reception in the evening.

The commencement exercises are to be held Wednesday, at 9:30 a. m. and the all Doane dinner following completes the week.

COTNER NOTES.

The public reception for President and Mrs. A. D. Harmon was held in the basement of the Christian church May 27. Nearly five hundred people were present, including students, faculty, members of the board of trustees and friends of the Harmon family. Greetings were brought by E. F. Snavely, president-elect of Cotner college, and chairman of the board of trustees, Dr. W. P. Aylsworth, Rev. C. F. Stevens, O. L. Smith, secretary of the Nebraska tChristian Missionary society, and Charles E. Stanton, '22. The friends of President and Mrs. Harmon presented them with a beautiful painting taken from Estes park.

Prof. J. K. Shellenberger delivered the Decoration day address at Ashland, Tuesday, May 30. He gives an address before the Woodmen at Fremont.

The baccalaureate services were held at the Bethany Christian church Sunday, May 28. Dr. W. P. Aylsworth delivered the graduation sermon. President A. D. Harmon conducted an ordination service at the close of the sermon. Those ordained were: Joseph Moore, Yandell Beans, Errol Parish, Earl Saladen, Charles Stanton and Wayne Sorrel.

Mrs. Faythe Keith Leavitt gave her graduate expression recital May 30, in the Cotner auditorium. Mrs. Leavitt is a student with Grace Edith Brown of Cotner college. She read selections from Edgar Guest, Riley, Wallace and Allen.

The Women's Educational council of Bethany, Neb., gave a farwell reception for Mrs. A. D. Harmon at the college dormitory Wednesday, May 31. Mrs. Harmon has been active in the work of the educational council.

Ray Bradley, '22, left Friday night for Kansas City, where he will join Redpath Horner Chautauqua for the summer season. His itinerary will take him through the middle western states.

The department of fine arts gave its annual commencement program at the Cotner auditorium May 30. Miss Grace Edith Brown is the director of this department. One of the features of the program was a group of songs by a girls' chorus of twenty-five voices. Miss Inez Mead gave a selection of readings. Miss Pauline Wisner gave a series of piano selections.

President Harmon announced the honor students at the commencement program June 1. Mrs. Faythe Leavitt and Dorothy Parks received the honor of Magna Cum Laude. The Cum Laude students were Ferne Davis, Joe Moore, Hazel Parish, Florence Thorpe. Senior Class honors were conferred upon Beryl Olston Jeffrey, Lola Raver, Ella Robb, Alice Gadd Sorrell, Ruby Wilson and Ray Bradley. In forensics Randolph Smith was given honorable mention in oratory, Floyd Leavitt in Extemporaneous Speaking, and Richard McCann, Ray Bradley and Floyd Leavitt in debating.

Dr. George Hamilton Coombs of Kansas City, gave the commencement address. President A. D. Harmon conferred the degree of Bachelor of Arts upon twenty-seven students. Certificates were issued to forty-three students. Miss Geralyn Walrath assisted in the program with a violin solo. Miss Grace Edith Brown sang a vocal solo.

The alumni association of Cotner college held its annual business meeting Thursday afternoon, at which time the Senior class was admitted into the association. Rev. A. J Hollingsworth gave the alumni address Thursday night in the Cotner auditorium. This was followed by an informal reception.

Pres. A. D. Harmon will deliver the commencement address at Transylvania University, Lexington, Kentucky, June 10.

The Pi Kappa Delta held initiatory services Wednesday. Randolph Smith, Lawrence Berry and Wayne Sorrell were given the initiatory rites.

Sanitary Sewage Disposal Plant Will Be Built This Summer, Clearing Salt Creek of Pollution

Improvement, Long Needed, Will Cost Nearly $350,000 But Will Modernize Lincoln's Sewer System.

SANITARY DISTRICT READY TO ACT JUNE 17

Engineers Complete Plans for Plant to Be Placed on Sixty Acre Tract North of Fair Grounds After Figuring Two Years.

A sewage disposal plant that will relieve Salt Creek of its overload of refuse and provide for sanitary handling of the city's waste, now and in the future, is to be built this summer. It is to be located on the tract north of the city recently purchased and will cost about $350,000. It will handle the sewage of Lincoln, all of its state institutions and all of its suburbs except University Place and Havelock.

The announcement of these plans ends several years of arguments and uncertainty as to the method Lincoln would eventually use to dispose of its sewage. The site has been changed in the last few years from the Stewart tract northwest of Lincoln which the city once purchased for a disposal plant to the new tract bought by the sanitary district. Several times the plans for the plant itself have been altered as various methods being tried out proved more or less successful than anticipated.

The plans for this plant have been two years in the making. The best in modern disposal methods has been incorporated. The city of Lincoln has been constructing the necessary interceping sewers, at an initial cost of more than $100,000, which will carry the city's waste material to the plant which will be built by the sanitary district. This great intercepting sewer has already taken the load of pollution from upper Salt creek as it winds around north Lincoln, but now it dumps it again into the creek not far from the state fair grounds, on North Fifteenth street.

Bids Received June 17.

Bids for the construction of the plant, which now is completely planned, will be received by the sanitary board on June 17. The buildings themselves are to be a sightly addition to the tract and so little odor will be noticeable that the plant will not be objectionable to any of the nearest neighbors. There are to be two buildings, one of two floors of brick construction housing the pumps and offices and the other a large building, 169 feet long and 57 feet wide, covering the tanks.

Only a small portion of the 62 acres available on the tract will be used but the plans are so made that the plant can be enlarged to almost any proportions as the city grows.

A firm of engineers from Chicago, Alvord, Burdick and Howson, had the contract with the sanitary board to plan the disposal plant and Grant, Fulton and Letton of Lincoln will supervise the construction. The latter firm furnishes the following minute description of the proposed plant and its workings.

Lincoln Must Extend Sewer.

The city of Lincoln will extend its 4½ foot intercepting sewer from Fifteenth street, north of the fair grounds, to the site of the plant. The sewage, before entering the plant proper, may if necessary, be bypassed directly into Salt creek. However, this would only be done in case that all the pumps were out of commission at the same time, which is very improbable. The sewage first passes through two bar screens which are for the purpose of removing large particles of matter which might obstruct the pumps, such as pieces of wood, large rags or any other like matter which might get into the sewers. From the screens the sewage passes into a suction chamber from which it will be lifted by electric driven centrifugal pumps.

Three pumps are provided, one each of 4,000,000, 6,000,000, and 8,000,000 gallons per twenty-four hours capacity. In connection with the pumping station will be provided an office and laboratory a wash room, shop, storage room, boiler room, etc. The pumps will discharge through a 24 inch line, and through a meter to register the amount of sewage pumped, into six sedimentation tanks—each of these tanks are twenty-seven square and twenty-six feet in depth, the bottoms being hopper shaped. The sewage will pass through these settling tanks at a very slow velocity and about 70 per cent of the solids carried in suspension will settle out. These solids, in the form of sludge, will be forced into six similar tanks, known as sludge digestion tanks.

In these tanks the sludge will undergo intensive decomposition and will ultimately be broken down into an almost inert mass which when drawn off onto the sludge beds will have a black, tarry appearance and but a slight odor. The settling and sludge tanks are also so designed that in case scum forms on the surface of the settling tanks it can be drawn off from the top into the sludge tanks. The tanks will be covered with a brick building of attractive design for the purpose of the prevention of odors, and in order to facilitate the operation of the tanks during the winter months

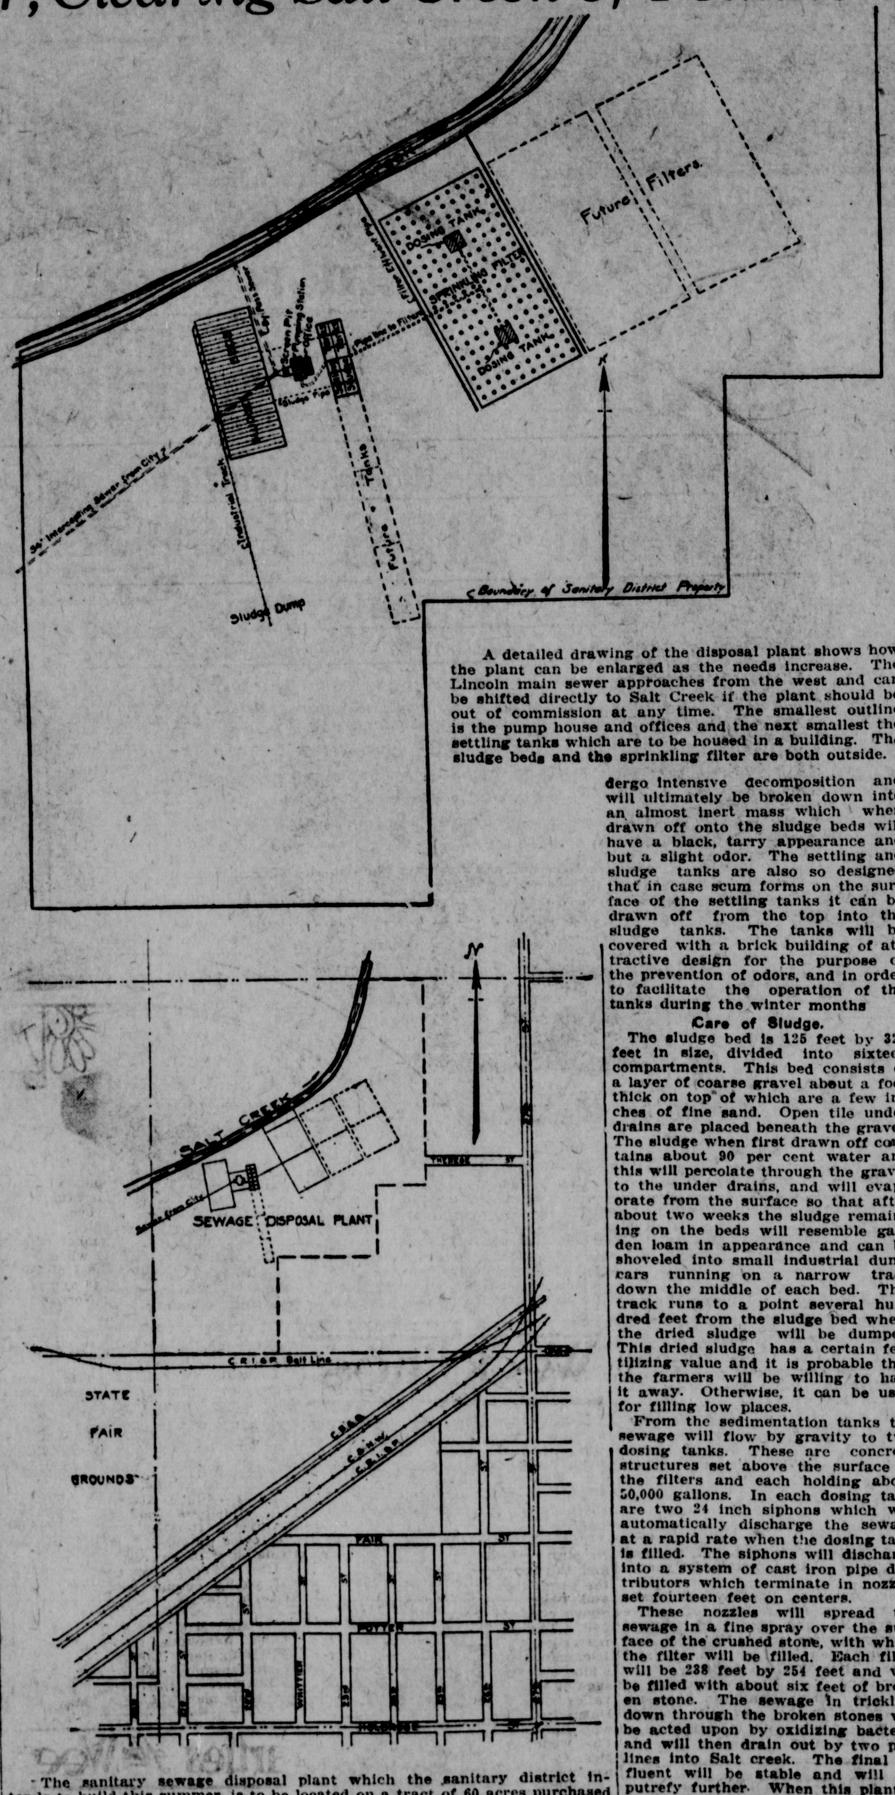
Care of Sludge.

The sludge bed is 125 feet by 320 feet in size, divided into sixteen compartments. This bed consists of a layer of coarse gravel about a foot thick on top of which are a few inches of fine sand. Open tile under drains are placed beneath the gravel. The sludge when first drawn off contains about 90 per cent water and this will percolate through the gravel to the under drains, and will evaporate from the surface so that after about two weeks the sludge remaining on the beds will resemble garden loam in appearance and can be shoveled into small industrial dump cars running on a narrow track down the middle of each bed. This track runs to a point several hundred feet from the sludge bed where the dried sludge will be dumped. This dried sludge has a certain fertilizing value and it is probable that the farmers will be willing to haul it away. Otherwise, it can be used for filling low places.

From the sedimentation tanks the sewage will flow by gravity to two dosing tanks. These are concrete structures set above the surface of the filters and each holding about 50,000 gallons. In each dosing tank are two 24 inch siphons which will automatically discharge the sewage at a rapid rate when the dosing tank is filled. The siphons will discharge into a system of cast iron pipe distributors which terminate in nozzles set fourteen feet on centers.

These nozzles will spread the sewage in a fine spray over the surface of the crushed stone, with which the filter will be filled. Each filter will be 238 feet by 254 feet and will be filled with about six feet of broken stone. The sewage in trickling down through the broken stones will be acted upon by oxidizing bacteria and will then drain out by two pipe lines into Salt creek. The final effluent will be stable and will not putrefy further. When this plant is constructed and in operation the condition of Salt creek should be materially improved.

There is sufficient room on the tract purchased by the district for a considerable expansion of the plant.



A detailed drawing of the disposal plant shows how the plant can be enlarged as the needs increase. The Lincoln main sewer approaches from the west and can be shifted directly to Salt Creek if the plant should be out of commission at any time. The smallest outline is the pump house and offices and the next smallest the settling tanks which are to be housed in a building. The sludge beds and the sprinkling filter are both outside.

The sanitary sewage disposal plant which the sanitary district intends to build this summer, is to be located on a tract of 60 acres purchased recently northeast of the State Fair grounds and between what would be a continuation of North Twenty-first street and North Twenty-fifth street. It is an irregular tract along Salt Creek as shown by the dotted line.

You might try it in both places and use the one which gives the best results.

A. 3—The ground switch can be mounted 5 inches from the wall by the use of a string of insulators and a long screw about 6 inches long or so. The screw may be placed through the base of the switch and the required number of white porcelain insulators, then screwed into the wall.

Q. 1—Which of the enclosed circuits will give the best results? Is circuit No 1 of the Armstrong hook-up?

Q. 2—How far can I receive with hook-up No. 3? When using just one variometer like in the third circuit, will it give better service in the plate as I have it or in the bird? —R. E.

A. 1—Circuit No. 1 will give you the best results. However, circuit No. 2 is used a great deal. In circuit No. 1, you should have a condenser across your phones. The same in circuit No. 3. In circuit No. 2, the loose coupler should connect to the negative side of the B battery instead of the posntive side. Circuit No. 1 and 2 are Armstrong hook-ups ,providing the variometers reacts back on the grid circuits. Any hook-up in which there is a reaction of the plate circuit back on the grid curcui is an Armstrong hook-up.

A. 2—A range of 100 to 150 miles should be obtained under all conditions with hook-up No. 3. Under favorable conditions and with a good antenna, speech or music may be heard from a greater distance. When using only one variometer, which is seldom done, the variometer is usually placed in the grid circuit. It will be well for you to try it in both places and use the one which gives you the best results.

Address your questions to the Radio Editor in care of the Lincoln Daily Star. Enclose sketches or diagrams as are needed for making the questions clear. Also enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply by mail. No questions will be answered which lead to litigation.

University Notes

Miss Grace McArthur, who will take her bachelor of fine arts degree at the commencement time, played a very interesting recital Wednesday evening, May 31, in the fine arts gallery. Miss McArthur played a heavy program and gave evidence of a wide range of ability and excellent technique.

J. Higgins, '08, who is chief supervisor of the Nebraska National forest at Halsey, Neb., was in Lincoln during the week and Mr. Higgins brought some specimens of parasitic fungi which are attacking the trees at Halsey for examination at the department of botany.

Miss Effie Switzer, who will take her bachelor of fine arts degree in painting, has been appointed to teach art in the public schools of Princeton, Ill., for the coming year.

Rev. Huntington, Methodist student pastor, has made the following commencement talks: The baccalaureate address at Kenesaw; at Arnold, at Callaway; at Howells; at Cowles, and at Utica. Rev. Thomas, Congregational student pastor, delivered addresses at Huntley, Stamford, Hinton, Ia., and Merrill, Ia. He also delivered an address at West Union college, LeMars, Ia.

Dr. Thomas, Congregational student pastor, has been asked by Professor Kent of Yale university to become a member of the committee on education policy of the newly organized national council of schools of religion. Among the members of the committee as outlined are five presidents of state universities.

The university extension division is receiving favorable response and many registrations for the Emerson Insitute clinics, to be held June 19 to August 17. The course is offered to teachers, principals, supervisors physicians, medical child specialists, public health and tuberculosis nurses, social and child welfare workers and dietitians. The course includes the organization of four model Emerson nutrition clinics for underweight children.

A. A. Reed, director of summer school, reports that the advance registrations and the inquiries show that the registration for the summer school sessions this year will be the largest in the history of Nebraska university. Those who have not registered in advance will register personally Saturday, June 3, or Monday from 2 to 5 in order that they may begin classes on Tuesday. Registration will be held in the armory instead of the social science building as heretofore.

The university extension division is receiving a heavy registration for correspondence study in summer work. Many students and residents who have attended school during the past year will carry work in the summer and thereby gain additional university credit. Many teachers are providing for this type of summer study.

Dr. Lida Earhart, teacher of elementary education and who has been unable to teach for the past semester because of illness, will give instruction during the first term of the summer session.

Dr. Louis Gray will give a course in oriental civilization this summer.

F. W. Norris, instructor in electrical engineering, left Thursday night for Pittsfield, Mass., where he will spend the summer. He plans to engage in construction work.

Fred L. Hunt, B. S. E. E., '02, has returned to the university for commencement from Greenfield, Miss. Mr. Hunt is chief engineer for a group of electrical transmission power companies in central Massachusetts. The system is right on the edge of the big power front that is talked about so much and constitutes one element in that system.

Professor and Mrs. Clark E. Mickey left Friday evening for Colorado for an extended trip to the west coast. They will first visit Denver and then journey to Colorado Springs, Pueblo and Salt Lake City. At the latter place Professor Mickey will attend the annual convention of the American Association of Engineers in session June 5, 6, 7 and 8. He will be the delegatee for the Lincoln chapter. From Salt Lake City they will go to Los Angeles and San Francisco for the Shrine conclave June 13, 14 and 15. They will visit the University of California at Berkeley. The next stop will be Corvallis, where they will inspect the Oregon Agricultural college. Professor Mickey then intends to go to Portland to spend a few days with C.H.Purcell,C.E.,'06, and also to Seattle to visit C. B. Hall, '08. They will return by way of Canada, stopping off at Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg. The last place to be visited will be Minneapolis, from which place they will leave expecting to return to Lincoln the Fourth of July.

Professor E. H. Spencer and his wife have gone to Mr. Spencer's home in Lansing, Mich., to spend the summer. He has accepted a position there with a contracting firm on building construction for the summer vacation.

This Week's Beauty Help

It is not necessary to shampoo your hair so frequently if it is entirely and properly cleansed each time by the use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers is one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair and may be enjoyed at very little expense, by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox, which can be obtained from any druggist's in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just to the top of the head. This when rubbed into the scalp and onto every strand of hair, chemically dissolves all impurities. It is very soothing and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to both scalp and hair. After rinsing out the lather so created, you will find the scalp is fresh, clean and free from dandruff, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft fluffiness that makes it seem very heavy.—Advertisement.

Answers to Questions

Q. I live about twenty-five miles from Lincoln. Could a crystal detector be used to get messages broadcasted from Lincoln?—R. C.

A. Yes.—You will be able to get both phone and telegraph messages from Lincoln.

Q. 1—Please send me a hook-up using a toy transformer of a vacuum tube. This circuit must also contain a vario coupler and two variometers.

Q. 2—Which is the best position in a circuit, to have the gird variometer in between the vario coupler and grid lead and condenser or between the vario coupler and the B battery?

Q. 3—Also please give directions how to mount the ground switch 5 inches from the wall.—H. M.

A. 1—A transformer may be used to step a 110 volts down to 6 volts for heating the fliment of the vacuum tubes used for transmitting purposes as the 60 cycle frequency cannot be heard at the receiving station. However, in the case of receiving sets, alternating current is very seldom used to heat the filament of the vacuum tube because the 60 cycle frequency can be distinctly heard in the receiver which interferes with clear reception of voices or signals. Am sending you the hook-up you request but do not recommend using alternating current for the heating of the filaments of the vacuum tubes in a receiving set.

A. 2—One place is as good as the other and both hook-ups are used.

How Many Pounds Would You Like to Gain in a Week?

If you are thin and want to gain weight, I will send you a sample of the famous Alexander Vitamines absolutely Free. Do not send any money—just your name and address to Alexander Laboratories, 3026 Gateway Station, Kansas City, Mo.—Advertisement.

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women,—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people, it puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms neck, limbs, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes, and it fools Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tetter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

HAUCK & SKOGLUND

The marriage of Miss Madge Boyce to Harold B. Muffly will be solemnized at a simple home ceremony Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ada Boyce of University Place. Miss Boyce is a former student of Nebraska Wesleyan and a member of the Oro society of Wesleyan. Mr. Muffly is a graduate of the state university and a member of Acacia fraternity. He is formerly of University Place but is now located in Pierce, Neb.

Miss Grace Stuff was crowned Queen of the May Thursday morning at beautiful and elaborate ceremonies which were held on the university campus as a part of the university Ivy day program. To be chosen Queen of May is one of the greatest honors which the university can bestow upon a girl for only a girl who is a representative girl and has taken an active part in university activities is chosen. The identity of the queen is kept a secret until she makes her public appearance on Ivy day. Miss Stuff is the daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Frederick A. Stuff.

Miss Catherine Wills was chosen Miss Stuff's maid of honor and in that position took a very prominent part in the Ivy day festivities. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

The marriage of Miss Pierce to Harold L. Schwenker takes place tomorrow at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Leora Pierce, 3217 Vine street. Only relatives will be present for the ceremony which will be followed by a luncheon. Miss Pierce is a former student of the university and during the past year has been employed in the state library. Mr. Schwenker is a graduate o fthe Peru normal and served overseas during the world war as a member of the Rainbow division.

One of the first of the June brides will be Miss Grace Troup whose marriage to Lammert Herman Redelfs, of Omaha, takes places at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Melvin Troup, 2333 Calumet court. Miss Troup is a graduate of the University of Nebraska of the class of 1920 and is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. She taught one year in the Nebraska City high school and the past year has been a teacher in the commercial department of the Fremont high school.

Mr. Redelfs is a member of Bushnell Guild of the university and also of Alpha Kappa Psi, and when in the university belonged to the University Commercial club and the University band. He served overseas with the base hospital corps No. 49 and is now commercial manager of the Webster Kenwood district of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company with headquarters in Omaha.

June Still Favorite Month for Brides; Lincoln Will be Scene of Many Weddings

Among the interesting June weddigs will be that of Miss Margaret Winn to Frank Proudfit which will take place on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 14, at 4:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Winn of Lexington, Mo. The wedding will be a large affair as the list of wedding guests numbers about 150. Mr. Proudfit's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Proudfit, and his brother, George Proudfit, Mrs. Proudfit and the children and Mr. and Mrs. Archer M. Bunting and family and possible other Lincoln friends will go to Lexington for the wedding.

Another out-of-town wedding which will bring a bride to Lincoln will be that of Miss Millicent Stern of Logan, Ia., to Hugh F. Atkinson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ira Atkinson of Lincoln. The marriage will take place at a simple home wedding Monday, June 12, at 11 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis L. Stern of Logan. A wedding breakfast will be served following the ceremony after which Mr. Atkinson and his bride will leave for a motor trip to Chicago, Racine, Wis., St. Paul, Minneapolis and other points of interest in Minnesota.

Dr. and Mrs. Atkinson and their daughter, Miss Ruth, and a few friends from Lincoln are planning to attend the wedding.

Miss Joy Schreckengast with her parents, Chancellor and Mrs. I. B. Schreckengast of University Place, and her sister, Mrs. J. D. Taylor and Dr. Taylor, also of University Place, leaves next Tuesday by motor for Chicago where her marriage to Lorene E. Jones will take place there on Saturday. The wedding will be a simply arranged affair and their wedding trip will include visits to Buffalo, New York and various points of interest in the east.

The marriage of Miss Faith Allen Murfin, a former university girl, to Seward P. Day will take place Wednesday of this week at the home of Miss Murfin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S Murfin of Weeping Water.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Underwood will issue invitations tomorrow to the marriage of their daughter, Ruth, to Donald H. Tippett of Boulder, Colo., which will take place Wednesday afternoon, June 14 at 4 o'clock at the Trinity Methodist church. About 100 guests will attend the wedding and following there will be a small reception at the home, 2001 South Eighteenth street. Mr. and Mrs. Underwood will entertain at dinner for the members of the bridal party the evening preceding the wedding.

Miss Dorothy Pierce, a former student of the university and the daughter of Mrs. Charles A. Pierce of Lincoln, will be married in Tecumseh on Wednesday of Wayne Townsend of Minatare. The wedding which will be a large evening affair will take place at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Clarence E. Smith and Mr. Smith. Miss Pierce was graduated from the university in 1919 and is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Mr. Townsend is also a graduate of the university and a member of Alpha Theta Chi fraternity.

Mrs. Pierce, her son, Roger and Mrs. C. B. Scott, grafndmother of the bride, will go to Tecumseh for the wedding and Lincoln friends who have been invited to the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ryons, Dr. and Mrs. E M. Cramb, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hinds and sorority and fraternity friends of the couple.

Miss Grace Troup has chosen next Thursday afternoon for her wedding to Lammert Herman Redelfs of Omaha. The hour is 2:30 o'clock and the ceremony will be at the home of Miss Troup's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Melvin Troup, 2333 Calumet court. Both Miss Troup and Mr. Redelfs are graduates of the university but as Mr. Redelfs is located in Omaha they will make that city their home following their marriage. They will live at 3175 Curtis avenue.

Miss Alma Yoho of University Place will be married Wednesday evening to Clyde Anderson of Lincoln who receives his degree tomorrow from the law college of the university. The wedding will be a simple home affair and will take place at 8 o'clock at the Yoho home in University Place. Both young people have attended Nebraska Wesleyan and the state university. Mr. Anderson is affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and has been prominent in university athletics. They have not decided just where they will locate but will leave here for one of the smaller towns in Nebraska.

Another University Place bride of this week will be Miss Eleanor Graff, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Graff, who will marry Harold F. Carr of Broken Bow on Thursday. The ceremony will be performed at high noon by the father of the groom Rev. R. H. Carr of Adams and there will be a wedding breakfast immediately following.

TO BE A JUNE BRIDE

The marriage of Miss Edna Jones and H. W. Bradley will take place late in June. Miss Jones is a graduate of the Nebraska School of Business and since completing her work has been employed in Lincoln. Mr. Bradley is connected with the University Publishing company.

League to Discuss Business Matters

The members of the Junior league will meet at the Brown Betty for luncheon at 1 o'clock Tuesday. An important business meeting will follow starting at 1:45 and those who will not be able to attend the luncheon are urged to be present for the business meeting at this time. Those who do not plan to attend the luncheon are requested to notify Mrs. I. M. Raymond, jr.

Many Country Club Parties

The Country club was decidedly as gay last evening as it was on the opening night and fully as many people dined there and enjoyed the dancing until a late hour. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Folsom entertained over 100 guests. Peonies decorated the four large tables and several small ones where covers were arranged for this number.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Richardson had a party of twenty dining with them. The dinner was a little farewell for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eager who will leave this week for their summer home in Colorado and the guests were the members of a small club and a few additional friends among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wilson of Nebraska City.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Reichenbach were host and hostess to a party of thirty-four. Pink roses were used in the decorations of the tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Marshall entertained a crowd of the young people in honor of their nephew, James White of Estherville, Ia. Covers were placed for twelve.

Mrs. D. M. Butler and Miss May Pershing were hostesss at a party of fourteen guests.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Burr presided at a dinner of twenty and Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Lau entertained twenty-five.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Waugh made reservations for a table of twelve covers. Mr. and Mrs. Don Stewart entertained for eight, Mr. and Mrs. Barton Green for four and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whitten for four.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Rathbone of Fremont who came to Lincoln Thursday for the university round-up, were the guests of honor at a Dutch treat party.

VISITING AT MOTHER'S HOME

Portrait by Hauck.

Mrs. Fulton Jack and daughter, John, of Los Angeles, who are guests at the home of Mrs. Jack's mother, Mrs. Helen Andrews, University Place. Mrs. Jack was formerly Miss Marguerite Andrews, and is well-known in social circles in Lincoln. Little Miss Jean is just three years old, but is enjoying her trip east immensely.

Weddings

Miss Ruth Ellen Hickman and Floyd O. Range were married Thursday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sarah Hickman, 701 South Twenty-seventh street. Prof. F. A. Stuff performed the ceremony in the presence of seventy-five guests.

The various rooms were decorated in pink peonies, roses and smilax and the bride and groom stood for the ceremony before a bank of ferns and palms while suspended from above was a large white wedding bell. The bride who was given in marriage by her brother, Joe L. Hickman, wore a summer frock of white organdie and lace and a corsage of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Her only attendant was Helen Brownell, niece of the groom, who carried the ring in a calla lily. The wedding march was played by Mrs. C. G. Ault with violin accompaniment by Miss Beatrice Teeple.

Mr. and Mrs. Range left after the wedding for a short wedding trip and after their return will be at home in Lincoln.

Among the guests were the following from out-of-town: Mrs. Grover Brownell and children of Claremont, Wyo.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heller and daughters of Princeton; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ingersoll and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ingersoll and family of Raymond; Charles Range, Gus Range and Miss Gertrude Range of Friend.

The marriage of Miss Frances Gable to William Simmons, took place Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's grandmother Mrs. J. H. Gable, 2336 South Seventeenth street. Rev. F. W. Ainslie performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and very close friends.

The bridal gown was of white net over pale pink silk. The veil was round length and was held in place by a wreath of mock orange blossoms.

The bride's father, Francis Gable of Kansas City and Charles Sigling of Shrewsburg, Pa., were out of town guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held, and a large wedding cake and ices were served.

Mrs. Simmons will spend five weeks at Camp Kiwanis this summer, and Mr. Simmons will be in charge of the Boy's scout camp at Lexington.

A pretty home wedding of the past week was that of Miss Laura Cecil and L. A. Whipple which took place Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Nellie Thomas, 1308 Washington street. Rev. E. N. Tompkins read the marriage lines in the presence of very close relatives and friends.

Preceding the ceremony, Earl Watson sang "At Dawning," by Cadman, and "I Love You Truly." Miss Viola Kuper played the wedding march as the bridal party entered the room.

The bride wore a going away frock of navy blue tricotine and carried an arm bouquet of ophelia roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Rose Cecil, who wore a frock of navy blue taffeta and a corsage of sweet peas. Rollie Cecil, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held, the appointments for which were arranged in pink and white.

Mrs. Mary Wagner of Portland Ore., and Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Beresford of Beatrice, were among the out of town guests.

Mrs. Whipple attended the Lincoln Business college, and Mr. Whipple attended the Nebraska Wesleyan university where he was affiliated with Everett fraternity.

After a honeymoon trip to Denver, the young couple will make their home in Gering.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Ridgway of Omaha, announce the marriage of their daughter, Lucille, to Francis Elmer Dinsmore, son of Mrs. Emma A. Dinsmore of this city. The wedding took place Tuesday, May 30.

The first ladies' golf day at the Country club which was last Wednesday, proved most interesting and a large number of players particularly for so early in the season entertained the flag tournament which was won by Mrs. Ross P. Curtice with Latta Watson as runner up. The following women played in the match: Mesdames Ross P. Curtice, J. M. Stewart, Dee Eiche, W. J. Assenmacher, Charles Schwarz, George Proudfit, Herbert E. Gooch, James E. M. Thomson, Lynn Lloyd, Al DuTeau, Don Stewart, R. W. Victor, C. A. Hermann, Guy Reed, Sam Waugh, Fred Walt, Ray Elliott and the Misses Latta Watson, Lois Melton and Marian Hall.

Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock to twenty including a large number of the players and a few additional guests.

The ladies will play again this week, playing starting as usual at 9:30 on Wednesday morning followed by luncheon at 1 o'clock.

PROMINENT CO-ED WEDS

Miss Frances Gable, a prominent university girl, was married Thursday afternoon to William Simmons. Though the engagement of the two young people was known to their friends it was thought that the wedding would not take place until fall so that the announcement of the wedding comes as quite a surprise.

Miss Gable has been very active in university girls' athletics and last year broke the state record in the hop, skip, jump and will receive a medal. As a reward of her athletic achievement she was one of the girls to receive an N sweater at the annual luncheon of the Woman's Athletic association held Friday at the Lincolnshire. She has received a number of honors in swimming contests.

Mr. Simmons will have charge of the summer camp of the Lincoln boy scouts.

Following congratulations, the time was spent with music and cards. At cards, high scores were made by Mrs. Carl Lundahl, Mrs. Maud Davault, Fred Miller and George Burt. Mrs. George Burt and Albert Jorgenson won the consolation favors.

Late in the evening the guests were taken down town where a luncheon of ice cream and cake and strawberries was served.

Mrs. Dick Woods, 1631 Q street, entertained a number of little guests the early part of the week in honor of the seventh birthday anniversary of her little grandson, John Woodrow Littleton. A pink color motif was carried out in the decoration, and a feature of the luncheon was a large birthday cake frosted in white bearing seven pink candles.

Mrs. R. H. Sawyer, 1929 South Twenty-third street, retiring matron of Temple chapter O. E. S., gave a beautifully appointed bridge luncheon in the garden room of the Lincoln hotel at 1 o'clock Friday, with the retiring officers of the chapter as guests. Covers were arranged at one large oval table made attractive with baskets and vases filled with roses, peonies and syringa. The center piece for the table was an immense crystal dish and vase combined, filled with roses and peonies. Tapers in crystal holders were at either end of the table. At each place were clever little hand made rose baskets in all of the spring shades filled with roses, with nut cups to correspond.

The afternoon was spent with bridge and high score was made by Mrs. E. L. Redfern, Mrs. Carl Epplen made second highest score, and Mrs. H. B. Marshall made third.

The members of the La Joie le Vie club were hostesses at a delightfully appointed miscellaneous shower Friday evening at the home of Miss Myra McGraw, 1023 Washington street, in honor of Miss Gladys Redmond, whose marriage to Dr. Harold Miller will be an event of the middle of June.

An attractive color motif of pink and white was used throughout the house for decorations, and carried out in all of the appointments of the table.

The time was spent with games and music, and during the evening the guests were bidden to the dining room, where a large parasol was suspended from the ceiling, containing the gifts for the bride-to-be.

Late in the evening the guests were invited into the garden where a long table had been arranged with places for twenty. The garden was unusually attractive, lighted with delicately shaded pedestal lamps. Over the table was a canopy of pink and white crepe paper festoons interwoven. The honor guest presided at the head of the table. The centerpiece was a Pandora box of pink crepe paper in which were concealed the favors. Tiny pink ribbons led from the box to each place. The place cards and menus were also in pink. During the luncheon the girls sang club songs.

Special guests were the bride's mother, Mrs. J. L. Redmond of Crab Orchard, and Mrs. Mabel Thompson, a sister, of Lincoln.

The annual alumnae luncheon of Zeta Phi sorority, Nebraska Wesleyan university was held at 1 o'clock last Monday in the English room of the Lincoln hotel. Twenty-seven alumnae were present. Roses formed the centerpiece for the daintily appointed table.

Following the four course luncheon, the annual business meeting and election of officers was held. The officers for the coming year are: Miss Margaret Lind, president; Miss Elsie O'Neal, vice president; Miss Clara Johnson, secretary; Miss Glyde Allen, treasurer.

The out-of-town guests were the Misses Agnes and Clara Johnson, Arlington; Miss Elsie O'Neal, Bayard; Miss Grace Mead, Blair; Miss Dorthea Bignell, Cedar Bluffs; Miss Fern Wells, Colon; Miss Pansy Sterns, Davil City; Miss Violet McPherson, Craig; Miss Linnea Wennell, Genoa; the Misses Frances Field, Hazel Fullreide, and Glyde Allen, Nebraska City; Miss Margaret Lind, Stromsburg; Miss Lila Travatt, Talmage, and Miss Mildred Ormsby, Trumbell.

The Zeta Phi sorority held its annual banquet Monday evening in the Chinese room of the Lincoln hotel. Rose shaded tapers and Ophelia roses formed the decorations for the attractive tables. The candle was used as a motif for the place cards and menus, and was also the subject for the toasts which were given by the following members with Miss Lois Gillett acting as toastmistress:

Base, Miss Clara Johnson.
Wick, Miss Irene Shreve.
Tallow, Miss Elizabeth Gibb.
Flame, Miss Glyde Allen.
Smoke, Mrs. Guy Spencer.

Forty-four active and alumni members of the sorority were present at the banquet. Other guests were Mrs. F. A. Alabaster, and the Misses Fay Bonnell and Lillian Jeter.

Twelve little folks gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sims Haile, 1308 Adams street, Lincoln Heights, Wednesday night, where they gave a farewell surprise party for little Cecile Haile, who left Thursday for Hastings, where she will spend a part of the summer with her aunt. The little guests played games on the lawn, after which a lunch was served them.

Misses Barbara and Greta Southworth entertained at a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening at their home at 3227 Vine street in honor of Miss Elsa Pierce whose marriage to Harold L. Schwenker will take place June 5. Sixteen guests were present. The evening was spent in appropriate games. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations and refreshments. Pink roses in white wicker baskets were attractively arranged about the house. The bride-to-be found her gifts, disguised as bouquets, presented to her in a large basket.

On Memorial day, a group of friends assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Burlew, 540 North Fifteenth street, to celebrate the birthday of Wilbur Stichler, whom they presented with a very handsome gift. The evening was spent in games. A delightful hot lunch was served cafeteria fashion when the cool of the evening came on.

The same group of friends met for a surprise party in honor of Mrs. J. M. Chowins at her home, 2028 T street, Thursday evening.

Mrs. William F. Fling entertained at a most attractive bridge luncheon Friday afternoon at her home in honor of Mrs. Will Jacobs of Hutchinson, Kas. Both refreshments and decorations fitted into a color scheme of pink. The centerpiece of the table was a picturesque basket of pink peonies tied with tulle of the same color. Pink tapers and nut baskets alternated in a series effective in its daintiness. High honors at cards were won by Mrs. W. T. Staver, Mrs. D. E. Page, Mrs. S. T. Riordan.

Mrs. D. E. Page entertained at an afternoon of bridge Wednesday at her home in the Orlo in honor of Mrs. Will Jacobs of Hutchinson, Kas. The apartment was decorated throughout with bowls of pale pink peonies. A three-course luncheon was served after the card playing. High honors were won by Mrs. Martin DoRan.

The executive board of the student division of the Matinee Musicale gave a one o'clock luncheon Saturday at the home of its newly elected president, Miss Alice Hussong, 1549 South Twenty-third street, in honor of Mrs. L. H. Watson, who has been a patroness of this organization for five years. Ten places were arranged at one large table. All the appointments were in pink, with pink moss roses as a centerpiece, and ice cream served in the form of pink roses.

At the close of the luncheon, Miss Helen Posner, the retiring president, presented Mrs. Watson with a beautiful pair of candle-sticks as a token of the high esteem in which they hold her.

Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity entertained for its returning alumni last evening at the chapter house at 162[illegible] R street in the form of a regular alumni banquet. About twenty-five alumni were present besides most of the active chapter.

The alumni who were present were: Gerald Leuck, Oscar Smalley, Louis Herman, Chas. T. Stretton, Irwin Clark Thompson D. Berry, of Lincoln; Flavel Funk of Hiawatha, Kas.; Byron Hunter, Warren K. Fitch, Wilson D. Bryan, Dr. Wallace Gerrie, Stanley R. Hall, H. A. Langdon, Archie Hickman, Gwen Fowler, of Omaha. Paul Langdon, Cretna; Jack Mattlen, Wynside; George A. Farman, 2nd, Ainsworth; Nel Allison, Gehring; Charles Angell, Ulysses; John O. Neff, Chicago; Fred Perrigo, Fremont; George Rohwer, Fort Calhoun; James Lucas, Bedford, Iowa.

The following out-of-town alumni were present; Carl D. Ganz, Alvo; Robert Ganz, Dunbar; Duane Walrath, Albion; J. A. Elwell, Springfield; Ira G Von Forell, Chester; W. A. Robertson, Plattsmouth; W. G. Keick, Plattsmouth; Verro Tyler, Nebraska City; Harry Villars; Tecumseh; Charles Spracht, Alliance; James Harvey, Omaha; O. Hanson, Omaha; Fred Sisbee, Omaha; Hubert Ward, Sioux City, Paul Anderson, Belwod. The Lincoln alumni present were E. H. Barbour, M. J. Garey, J. W. Kinsinger, Roye Kinsinger; Glen Foe; H. J. Gramlich; A. A. Luebs, G. R. Chatburn, Sr., A. A. Bunting, L. F. Meier, C. A. Sjogren, N. T. Chadderdon, L. G. Andrews, H. F. Holtz, O. A. Powell, Dr. David Hilton, Sam Whiting; H. H. Wilson; George N. Foster, Jack Mathews; C. W. Taylor, Seth Taylor, M. H. Power, Geo. Vlasnick; V. Y. Coulter, Homer B. Thomson and George Dally; G. E. DeWolf from the Harvard chapter and E. H. Housman from the Chicago university chapter were also present.

W. A. Robertson acted as toastmaster and the following responded to toasts:

Ira Von Von Forrell—The New First Years.

Geo. N. Foster—How the Fraternity Grew.

Varro Tyler—Over the Formative Period.

H. F. Holtz—Making Up for the War.

Glen H. Foe—Entering a New Era.

Mrs. Arthur Raymond entertained the Strollers at luncheon and bridge on Thursday. Mrs. Lew Marshall was the most successful player receiving the prize for high score in bridge.

Mrs. William Cook Wilson was the hostess at an informal luncheon Friday. The guests numbered twelve who were entertained at an informal gathering before they scattered for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burnham entertained informally at dinner Monday evening at the Country club. Covers were laid for twelve. Following the dinner the guests were taken to see Disraeli at the Rialto.

An attractive affair of commencement week was the breakfast at 10 o'clock Friday for which Mrs. Clarence Davis, 2648 Washington street, was the hostess. The guest of honor was Mrs. Katherine Bevington, the house guest of Mrs. Davis. The guests were received on the porch. White daisies, pink roses, pink and white peonies were used in the decorations. A color scheme of pink and white was followed in the appointments of the four course breakfast. The guests numbered thirty. Miss Marjorie Shanafelt, harpist, played during the breakfast and the guests enjoyed several vocal selections by Mrs. Jackson D. Chase. Among the guests were Mrs. George Pratt of Omaha and Mrs. Merle Howard of Kansas City.

Miss Ruth Siefken of Harvard, Nebraska, whose engagement to Dr. Leo Shreve of Peru is announced today, was surprised with a shower given by the members of Delta Zeta at the close of dinner Wednesday evening. A large basket decorated in rose and green, the sorority colors, was placed on the table in front of Miss Siefken and she took out the gifts. The wedding is to take place within a couple of weeks.

About thirty little friends of Strawn and Harold Morgan gave them a very pleasant surprise party Wednesday evening at their home, 3816 Normal boulevard. The boys have a double birthday, the fourteen birthday for the one and the twelfth for the other. Games were played and ice cream and cake served as refreshments.

Mrs. Carl Erb, Mrs. Sam Beeson, Mrs. Roy Cochran, Mrs. Congdon and Mrs. J. M. Roberts were hostesses at an unusually attractive three-course luncheon in honor of the pricipl and teachers of Hartley school on last Monday. The luncheon was given in the practical arts room of the school. The school colors, rose and green, were used in the decoration and place cards. The favors were miniature certificates.

Miss Ruth Kirschstein and Miss Jocelyn Stone were hostesses at an afternoon bridge and miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Kirschstein, 2451 Park avenue, honoring Miss Grace Troup, whose marriage to Lammert H. Redelfs will take place Thursday, June 8.

The house was attractively decorated with baskets of pink roses. There were five tables of bridge players, and following the cards, a special messcenger brought Miss Troup's gifts to the door. Late in the afternoon a dainty luncheon was served by the hostesses. Out of town guests were Mrs. Ernest Harrison, Washington, D. C., Mrs. Elmer Hansen, sisters of the bride to be, Shickley; and Miss Rachel Whitmore, Fremont.

Last Tuesday evening the Misses Whitfield, Reed, Knowles, Bennett and Fowler, all teachers in the Fremont high school gave a dinner for Miss Troup at the Pathfinder hotel in Fremont.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Welch gave a family dinner at their home, 3435 Sheridan boulevard, in honor of Miss Troup and Mr. Redelfs.

Miss Joy Schreckengast, a bride of the week, was the honor guest at a handkerchief shower given Friday afternoon by her sister, Mrs. J. D.

Woman's Club Calendar

Tuesday.

Mrs. B. O. Cosner will entertain 1922 graduating class of Chautauqua circles, in the afternoon at her home.

Axis club picnic, Antelope park at 6:15 o'clock in the evening.

Friday.

CHAUTAUQUA CIRCLES' OUTLINE FOR NEW YEAR.

The sixteenth biennial convention of woman's clubs is held this year at Chautauqua, N. Y., which is also the home of the Chautauqua home reading course, which was brought into being by the late Bishop John H. Vincent, fifty years ago.

And just a few days after the club women have departed, men and women from every civilized nation in the world will take their places in the long line of graduates on Recognition day, and will receive diplomas from the chancellor for four years work along literary and scientific lines.

Lincoln has two C. L. S. C. circles: the Hellenic, organized in 1913, and the Vincent, organized in 1920; Havelock has one organized in 1921.

Eight graduated from Hellenic circle this spring, and while none of them may attend commencement exercises at Chautauqua, N. Y., they will all receive their diplomas.

Several members of the Hall in The Grove (the alumni association) received their diplomas from the hands of Bishop Vincent himself.

Mrs. B. A. Cosner, local organizer has just received the list of books for the coming year's work. It is the English year and the books have been selected with a view to dealing with one of the most vital and absorbing themes before the world today, the far-flung British empire.

OAKWOOD LODGE IS OPENED FOR SUMMER SEASON.

About twenty girls of the members council of the Lincoln Y. W. C. A., are spending this week end at Oakwood lodge on the Blue. This is the first group to be at camp during the regular summer season, as the membership committee picnic and slumber party for the first and second of June had to be cancelled for the present. Next week-end, the Lincoln Axis club will fill the camp to capacity.

NEW P. E. O. CHAPTER TO BE ORGANIZED

Chapter CS, P. E. O., will be organized Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Curry W. Watson, 3204 Starr street. The organizing will be preceded by a tea at the Lincolnshire given by the P. E. O. round table for the members of the new chapter, the state president Mrs. Ona Baird, of Plattsmouth; the first vice president, Miss Lulu Wolford, Lincoln; the state organizer, Mrs. Nelle Grantham, Kearney, and also the afternoon. Each member will assist in the organizing.

WHITTIER MOTHRERS' CLUB HOLDS LAST MEETING OF YEAR

The members of the Whittier Mothers' club held their last meeting of the season Wednesday afternoon. The following program was given:

Reading, Miss Luten.
Vocal solo, Miss Vera Ferris.
Piano solo, Miss Lola Smith.
Talk, Mrs. F. G. Coover.

The officers of the club are as follows: Mrs. Fred Easterday, president; Mrs. Carl Wiebusch, vice president; Mrs. C. A. DeKlotz, secretary and treasurer.

After the program a reception was given for all of the teachers at Whittier school.

BELMONT MOTHERS' CLUB WILL GWE TOWEL SHOWER.

The Belmont Mothers' club will meet with Mrs. Estes Friday afternoon, June 9. A tea towel shower to be given for the new Belmont community house will be the feature of the afternoon. East member will be given one towel to be hemmed during the afternoon. A talk on a gymnasium for mothers will be given by Miss Mary Keech.

BRUNER BIRD CLUB HAS CLOSED MEETINGS FOR YEAR.

The Bruner Bird club held its last meeting for the season Thursday evening at the McKinley Center.

A resume of the season's activities was given. These consisted of four meetings with programs, four scheduled field excursions and a picnic, and also the publication of a bulletin giving a list of the birds to be seen in Lincoln and vicinity and the approximate date of their arrival.

Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle was present with the lantern slides she had made to illustrate her talk on "Bird Neighbors" but owing to a severe cold, was unable to speak, Frank Shoemaker, however, showed her slides and a nuber of his own, at the same time giving a most delightful account of his experiences with the birds and nests photographed, and entertaining comments upon bird character in general. Before the talk those interested were shown the martins on the porches of their building, and the robin's nest on a projection high up on the wall on the other side; slides were also shown of a cat bird's nest in a bush right up against the school building.

Five hundred children knew about this nest and played near it day after day without disturbing it. It seems quite remarkable that birds will build so confidently on the grounds of a big school down near the business center of the city, but doubtless they know that members of the McKinley Bird Lovers' club are their friends.

The club discussed plans for next spring and then adjourned.

OFFICERS OF PARENT TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Left to right—Mrs. J. E. Van Scoy, secretary of Lincoln council of mothers' clubs and parent-teacher associations; Mrs. Mark Pierce, president of Everett school parent-teacher association; Mrs. Henry Cole, treasurer of Lincoln council of mothers' clubs and varent-teacher associations.

These women were active in the organization of a state parent-teacher association, affiliated with the national organization, which was achieved at the state conference in Lincoln Thursday.

CHAPTER K, TO HAVE INTERESTING MEETING.

Chapter K, P. E. O., will meet Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. R. R. Gray, 2644 A street. Assisting hostess will be Mrs. D. C. Hilton, Mrs. O. J. Allison, Miss Charlotte Roberts, and Miss Margaret Roberts. Prof J. E. Kirshman will talk on "International Finance and the League of Nations."

BUSINESS WOMENS CLUB TAKES IN NEW MEMBERS.

At a joint meeting of the old and new cabinets held Wednesday evening in the club rooms, the Business Women's League took in the following members: Mrs. Stella Kiechel, cashier of Speier and Simon; Mrs. Cary A. Seidel of the Franco-American Beauty Parlors and Mrs. Calvers, assistant to Dr. F. M. Andrus.

Monday, gymnasium class.
Tuesday, Miss Bertha Hugg, hostess.
Wednesday, Washington club.
Thursday, the regular meeting.
Friday Miss H. Fern Peck, hostess.
Saturday, Miss Mabel Hogue hostess.

Camp Fire Notes

The Baltimore Oriole Nest of May 27, to study trees. Monday, the Bluebirds hiked to the double trestle nest held an outdoor meeting at Antelope park and continued the study of trees.

Kiwanis Camp will open, Sunday, June 11. All girls who have registered for the first week may present themselves at camp at noon of the eleventh. Registrations are coming in rapidly and all girls who wish to spend a week or more at Kiwanis this summer are urged to register as soon as possible.

Beginning Monday, June 11, the Camp Fire office will be open only in the afternoon from one until five o'clock. This is made necessary by the fact that Lola Duncan, Camp Fire executive, will be busy at Kiwanis Camp. Miss Helen Wells, assistant, will be in charge.

About two hundred girls went to the cemetery, to assist with the Memorial Day exercises.

Aqkiya camp will hold a ceremonial Thursday, evening.

The Goldfinch Nest of Bluebirds held their May exercises Wednesday, at 4:30 at the home of Margaret Straub. Refreshments were served.

COTNER NOTES.

The closing chapel of the present school year was held Tuesday. President Harmon presented E. F. Snavely who has been elected acting-president until the office has been permanently filled. Mr. Snavely announced that he would continue the program set in motion by the retiring president and predicted a successful year for the school.

Prof. J. F. Duncan announces that prospects for a large student body for next year are very promising. Advance information leads him to believe that Cotner will have the largest enrollment in her history next year. Already a large number of students have written that they would enroll for the coming term.

The alumni association, at their annual business meeting, elected officers for the coming year. They are: President, Ralph Walker; vice-president, Mrs. Faythe Leavitt; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary McRae; secretary-treasurer, Earl Parminter.

Appetizing Biscuits

When you put them into the oven you have a feeling of assurance—you are positive that they will "turn out" all right—and they always do—because Calumet never fails.

You are assured of the same success, no matter what you bake—doughnuts, muffins, cakes, everything in which you use Calumet.

The dependable, uniform quality of Calumet is one reason that it received highest awards at the World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago; Paris Exposition, Paris, France.

Calumet is not only the most dependable of all leaveners—it is the most economical, because it is moderate in price—has more than the ordinary leavening strength, therefore you use less.

Don't tolerate the disappointments and failures that come from unreliable baking powders any longer—forget baking powder worries—buy and use Calumet.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

DON'T REGRET—USE CALUMET

OAKWOOD LODGE, Y. W. C. A. CAMP, OPENS THIS WEEK

Oakwood Lodge, on the Blue is the summer haven for all Y. W. C. A. girls and any other business girl who wishes to spend any of her week-ends or vacation period there during the summer months. The Lodge was opened for the first time this week-end, when the members' council went down for a camping party, and some Doane commencement visitors were also guests.

The camp is just two miles from Crete, and is ideally located for a good camp. This year the Lodge has been enlarged, and several improvements have been made, walks have been put around the buildings and various other things have been done. There is great opportunity for summer recreation, and the time is never dull for there is a wonderful place to swim, a good place to fish, plenty of space for hikes, and good boating. The members' council group made some nice cushions for use at the camp during the past month.

Next week the Lincoln Axis club will spend the week-end at camp. The week following that, the Lincoln Girls' Reserves, and after that the federated clubs. The 1923 Girls' Reserve have been doing Y. W. C. A. work among the school children.

Miss Ruth Peterson and Miss Mildred Bryan are directors of the camp

During the month of June, the camp will be devoted to various Y. W. clubs, after that it is open to visitors.

Red Cross Worker Finds That Children in Europe are Both Helped and Handicapped as Result of War

BY ELEANOR HINMAN

What is it like to be a child in Europe at the present time, in some of those unpronounceable countries newly carved out of the wreck of the old ones, which for most of us Americans are not even a spot on the map, not even a name, but only a jumble of consonants on a printed page?

If an American can say, it is probably Lyman Bryson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryson of 1453 G street, who has recently returned home on a six months vacation from his work with the League of Nations. For the past three years he has been in Europe organizing Junior Red Cross work throughout the schools in its many countries. To him such names as Czecho-Slovakia and Esthonia bring up visions of polyglot morsels sitting upon benches where their feet scarcely touch, or chattering to one another after class in several different languages. They bring pictures of threadbare enthusiastic scholmasters who live upon a pinched diet and are deeply immersed in politics, literature, and art as well as the stream of talk which through the channels of many languages continually laves the plains of eastern Europe. He has had such opportunities as few Americans enjoy to see things from the point of view of the children in these countries.

It is the children who will have to bear the greatest part of the financial burden of the late war, and it is a crushing burden. It is they who have suffered most from the starvation that still continues in many districts. But says Mr. Bryson, they have some compensations.

Europe is an old continent, and until recent years it has been managed chiefly for the benefit of grown-ups and old people. Children existed to be seen and not heard, and to do what was convenient for their elders. Now, all that is changed. Everything is the children, the children, how can we save the children.

"This generation is done for. So use trying to do anything for us or with us. But if we can only get hold of the children and put some sense into their heads before it is too late, perhaps the world can be saved another such war. This was the burden of the chorus that Mr. Bryson heard in all the countries of Europe except Russia, where he was not allowed to enter.

A great wave of idealism is sweeping through Europe, declares Mr. Bryson. In the old countries, it does not appear in the actions of the government, because that is still in the control of groups of politicians of the old school; but it comes out in a new attitude towards the unfortunate, towards children, war orphans, the maimed, the sick; and in the determination of a large portion of the people that a war shall not happen again. This humanitarian impluse always existed in Europe, but it was only the example of America that taught them to organize it and accomplish something with it. The great wave of idealism wich arose in America, upon the crest of which America entered the war, has moved away leaving us indifferent; but it has moved on into Europe and is seething and boiling among the age-old rocks of European customs; dashing against the time-honored cliffs of her "hard-boiled" politics. Will it succeed in overthrowing them?

In the new countries, like Czecho-Slovakia and Poland, it has already done so, and the government is in the hands of the reformers.

Czecho-Slovakia, or "Czechy" as its own inhabitants call it more briefly, proved to be one of the most interesting places that Mr. Bryson had to visit. He lectured through it from one end to the other with Miss Masaryk, daughter of the president, and came to see the life of the villages, that the average tourist knows little about. And the villages are the great strength of Czecho-Slovakia.

In practically every village, the schoolmaster is the leading man. Wretchedly underpaid and threadbare though he may be, he is the center of the politics with which the place is certain to be seething; he reads the metropolitan and foreign papers and keeps the town posted on world affairs; he is the village oracle. School takes up only a part of his time. Besides being deep in politics he is probably also either an author, a poet or an artist, and often a man of national prominence in some line. He would be busied with cultivating such cottage industries as the village might possess—the weaving of cloth by hand, the making of beautiful embroidery after patterns handed down for generations, the woodcarving, and so forth. Very often he would be the only educated man in the village, sometimes the only literate man.

But the boys and girls who grew up under his instruction and direction are growing into a world of interests. Since the village usually looks up to him, they take over his enthusiasms whole.

Some curious things result. Although this young Czecho-Slovakia is now one of the most prosperous countries in Europe, having enormous iron, coal and cement industries as well as very rich agricultural districts, it is only very slightly interested in this material prosperity. It has just gained its freedom and is chiefly interested in self-expression—in saying all the things that have been in its heart to say during the long years of Austrian domination. And it is over literature, handcraft, and so on that its children wax enthusiastic; not over business and trade. Mr. Bryson is a little dubious as to the final consequences of such a scale of values, but finds it very interesting.

Another astonishing thing to the traveller from America is number of languages spoken by the eastern Europeans in all these small countries. "I knew a girl in Prague who spoke eleven languages fluently; and one of them was Arabic, one of the hardest tongues in the world to master. She had a degree as doctor of medicine, and was only twenty-one years old.

"It was very striking to hear little youngsters not yet in their teens chatter back and forth in several languages. In Esthonia, for example the children speak Esthonian at home. That is a minor language spoken by only about two million people in the whole world, so it doesn't do them much good. Esthonia used to be under Russia and Germany, so in grade school they learn Russian and German. But Esthonia wants to get out from under the influence of Russia and Germany by cultivating a trade with other countries, so in high school they learn English and French. If they plan to go on to university they usually cap the climax by taking Latin and Greek. In that case they have seven languages by the time they graduate from high school.

"The system has its advantages. The school authorities admit that their graduates know only one idea in five different languages. But they are powerless to change it, partly because the government is too poor to put in scientific equipment that is so important in our American schools; partly because conditions in eastern Europe are such that one really needs a number of languages. The children speak fluently, although their vocabulary is small in any one language; they understond with ease; they read with some diffuculty in all but one or two languages; and it is very rarely that they master writing in a foreign tongue."

Another country over which Mr. Bryson waxed enthusiastic was Italy, which he considers the most idealistic of all the European countries which retains it old government. The reactionaries still have charge of the politics of the country, but the real leaders of the people are very advanced.

"Italy is a country of enormous contrasts," he says. "Part of it is still back in almost the same condition that it was in the middle ages. In the south are the great slum districts that supply most of the present immigration to this country. Yet Italy has some of the most advanced ideas about education in the world. The Montessori system is only one that we happen to have heard about. The whole country is in a ferment of educational experiment. Individuals build up wonderful schools.

"The striking thing about the Italian efforts is that there is so little which is stereotyped and machine-made about them. They come from the heart. For example, most of the war orphans in Italy are taken care of, not by the government, but by a great organization of common soldiers who, instead of working for special privileges voluntarily contribute out of their very small wages to support the children of their dead comrades. There are half a million such war orphans and no Americans or English are adopting them as they have with the French orpans.

"There are schools in Italy where a boy or of the streets may go and with no questions asked about his home or family be fed and clothed and given the best education that the world affords for so long as he cares to stay. In Venice and other seaport towns the wild little "wharf rats," the boys who swarm over the docks and belong to nobody in particular, are taken to unique schools on great ships anchored in the harbor, where besides a good elementary education they are taught to be sailors.'"

A school-boy in Italy does not lack for excitement, because the struggle between the idealists and the reactionists has reached the pitch of frequent riots in the streets. Even pacificism has become a fighting matter. Mr. Bryson's speeches to the school-children were frequently interrupted, both in Italy and in eastern Europe, sometimes by rioting reactionaries and sometimes by rioting radicals.

In many European countries feeling runs too high for the children to be taught anything in schools about the war. It is well known that such is the case in Germany, where, says Mr. Bryson, the "revenge" party that wants another war and the liberal party that says Germany must work earnestly and honestly for world peace, are quietly engaged in a tussle of which nobody can say just what the outcome will be.

But if the school children are being left in considerable ignorance about the war, they are getting thoroughly acquainted with the movement for peace. Frequent exchanges of letters and of gifts, between children in all sections of Europe, and a great deal of reading and talk against war, are teaching them to look at things from the point of view of the fellow as well as their own. They are being taught to do things unselfishly for the community. Meanwhile, never before was so much done for them.

DELICIOUS APPETIZERS

A fruit appetizer precedes lamb or beef very well. A fruit appetizer is also good before veal or pork or sausage.

Before fish some sort of vegetable appetizer, or one containing bacon, may be served.

A mould of well-made, highly seasoned tomato jelly: a small mould, neatly in the centre of a small plate, with a little minced parsley or a spoonful of Russian dressing, quite as good to the eye as to the palate.

VASSAR GIRLS OF TODAY TALLER

WILMINGTON, Del. — Physical education at Vassar college in the last ten years has increased the height of the average student 1½ inches, President Henry Noble MacCracken told the parents of the students at Tower Hill school in an address. It also has added two inches to girth measurements and an extra size to the hands and feet, President MacCracken said.

LARGEST CLASS GRADUATED FROM THE UNIVERSITY

499 Will Receive Degrees at Exercises Monday Morning.

Commencement Address to Be Delivered By John H. Finley.

The largest class in the history of the University of Nebraska, 449 graduates, will receive their degrees at the commencement exercises Sunday and Monday. Added to this number are sixty who completed their work last February but who will join the class to receive their "sheep skins," making a grand total of 509 graduates. This number will be still further augmented by about seventy who will receive degrees at the close of summer school, according to the registrar.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached at 10:30 a. m. Sunday at the St. Paul Methodist church by Dr. J. G. W. Fast of Omaha. A sacred concert is to be given as a part of the exercises at the church at 8:15 p. m. by the university chorus under the direction of Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond.

Commencement exercises will be held at St. Paul's Monday morning. The graduating class, led by the university band, Chancellor Samuel Avery and professors will march to the church, where John H. Finley will deliver the commencement address. Mr. Finley is associate editor of the New Yorfk Times.

Throughout the day open house will be held at Ellen Smith hall, where a reception for the parents of seniors will be held during the afternoon, closing the school days of the class of 1922.

Kazebeer Out of Jail Short Time

(Special to The Star.)

CLAY CENTER, Neb., June 3.—The county attorney has dismissed the information which has been pending in district court against Russell Kazebeer, who was charged with attempting to extort money from Ed Clark of Edgar by means of threatening letters. Kazebeer was held on the confession of another man and being unable to furnish the required bond has been held in jail for several weeks. On the same day that the blackmail charge was dismissed Kazebeer was again arrested and placed in jail, this charge being that of hog stealing.

'PERFECT LOVER' IS SHOT DOWN BY GRADUATE NURSE

Woman Kills Man She Loves and Sends Bullet Into Own Body.

Fails to End Life and Tells Story of Romance In Hospital.

(United Press.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 3.—Miss Marie L. Beal, 26, pretty graduate nurse who emulated "Thuvia, Maid of mars" and slew her "perfect lover" lay on a hospital cot here tonight and told how forty-nine "other women" broke up her romance.

Frank Warren Anderson, 29, scion of a prominent Collingwood N. J. family, after promising to get a divorce and marry her refused to do so and showed her the list of forty-nine women and declared "they all love me and I love them" she said.

Then with Anderson's favorite novel open at a page picturing the beautiful Thuvia as having slain her lover in a great maritan palace she shot Anderson dead and sent a bullet, intended as fatal, through her own body.

"I found a passage in his diary that read:

"'Was ever a man in such a swirling vortex of hearts as I?'

"Then he said he was a 'devil' with the women and couldn't help it. He showed me the list of girls he said he loved, and who loved him.

"My name was last on the list—it was just down as 'Peg.'

"I shot him to keep him from breaking other women's hearts."

Miss Beal, her face pale with pain, barely whispered her story of passionate love for Anderson, overseas war veteran and official of a department store here.

"We met. We loved.

Was the Perfect Lover."

"He was the perect lover—the most wonderful of men. I came with him to Kansas City. He asked me to be his wife.

"I believed him when he said his divorce was pending and promised to wait. I left Kansas City and returned to my work at Springfield, Ill., hospital.

"I told the girls there of my great lover—I was true to him. His letters were tender, telling of our future together.

"My heart sang and two weeks ago I returned to Kansas City. He met me at the train but I saw something was wrong. He had turned cold, indifferent.

"I demanded an answer and he told me he had decided not to divorce his wife.

"'You have deceived me, Wtrren,' I told him. I wanted to be fair. but I thought of what I had told the girls that I knew.

"I tried to get work here but failed.

"I came to our little room in the hotel where I had seen love die and he was writing—he refused to show me what.

"The next day I went through his trunk and found his diary and read:

"'Was ever a man in such a swirling vortex of hearts as I?'"

"I demanded its meaning.

"'Peggy,' he said, 'I am a devil. You are the best pal I ever had, but I can't help it because I am a devil.

"Then he showed me a list of girls' names he had prepared—there were fifty, and mine was the last—just 'Peg.'

"'Yes, you are the last one,' he said.

"Oh God, I want to die. Then he told me of these other women of whom I was the last. One by one, he described them, their hair, their eyes, their whims.

Had Girls In Twelve Cities.

"I took the list and kept it—I couldn't stand it. There were girls in twelve cities.

"Then I decided. My heart is the last he will break.

"I would sacrifice my life on the altar of womanhood to save other women what I have gone through.

"Perhaps I have. Why should my body live? My heart is dead.

"His wife?

"You know the eternal triangle. I do not know where she is but she is probably praying for him—the wife always turns on the other woman.

"That is all my story. I have but one regret—that the aim at my own heart failed its mark.

"I remember little of that 'frightful hour,'" she said of the actual shooting. She completed her story, crying softly.

Physicians held hope for the girl's recovery tonight, they said. Authorities were getting in touch with Anderson's relatives at Collingwood, relative to disposition of the body after the inquest.

Anderson lived beneath the shadow of another woman's wrath, police declared tonight.

They found a letter to Anderson signed Frank Anderson, the father of the slain man, wherein the father said:

"When B. left here she swore she would find you if it took years and that she would do you all the harm she could.

"She acted like a wild woman then, and had a most peculiar look in her eyes. You know I heard her threaten to kill you on two occasions when you were on your good behavior for things she could not prove afterwards."

The letter pleaded that Andersen be warned, "for we all love you."

Local Radio Set May Get Messages From Across Sea

What is said to be the most elaborate antenna system in the city is now being installed by the Lincoln Business college on its building at Fourteenth and P streets. Steel masts 40 feet in height are being erected on opposite ends of the roof. Every possible means is being used to make this antenna scientifically perfect. It is of the L type and will be 80 feet high and 130 feet long. With the powerful receiving apparatus purchased by the college it will be possible to copy European stations under favorable weather conditions.

ACQUIRES BUSINESS.

The business of the Mendenhall Optical company at 1306 O street has been acquired by I. H. Phillips, who for the past sixteen years has been manager of the optical department of the Brandeis stores in Omaha. Mr. Phillips will give his personal attention to the business. Perfectly fitted lenses and carefully adjusted frames will give customers perfect satisfaction.

Unknown Gunman Murders Tong Man And Makes Escape

PORTLAND, Ore., June 3.—An unidentified gunman dashed into the cellar of the Lee Wing butcher shop here tonight, fired four shots into the body of Toy Tong, 60, Bing Kung Bowlong tongman, and escaped.

The man is thought to be a member of the op Sing tong whose fight with the Bing Wong Bowlong fraternity is of long standing. Even with Toy's death the Hip Song tong is still four slayings behind their enemies. Until this score is evened the police hold small hope for peace in Pacific coast Chinatowns.

M'CORMICK BOWS BENEATH FROWNS OF ROCKEFELLER

Bends to Will of Oil Master and Withdraws Consent To Marriage.

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, June 3.—Allah has spoken—John D. Rockefeller tonight put the marriage of his granddaughter, Mathilde McCormick, under the ban.

Harold F. McCormick bowed to the edict of the oil master when he withdrew, temporarily, consent of the marriage of his daughter Mathilde to Max Oser., Swiss stableman.

Edith Rockefeller McCormick, divorced wife of the former head of the International Harvester company and daughter of the world's richest man, won a victory when McCormick said "I'll investigate the charges that Oser is a fortune hunter. And in the meantime I withdraw consent to the marriage."

Upon the declaration of McCormick, the case of McCormick vs. McCormick was jerked from probate court to the "Gold coast" home of the former harvester head.

And, there, according to friends of the family, McCormick promised his former wife that the seventeen year old Mathilde would not marry Oser, 27 years her senior, for three years.

Abrupt End of Action

Court action was abruptly ended just before McCormick and his former wife were to appear Mrs. McCormick had asked the probate court which had appointed her recent husband guardian of Mathilde, to restrain the marriage of the girl to Oser.

Dismissal of the case from court made at the instance of Mrs. McCormick, carried with it the admonition of Probate Judge Henry Horner, who said:

"I expect Mr. McCormick, both as guardian and parent, to faithfully execute his trust. Mr. McCormick should take into consideration all the points raised by Mrs. McCormick."

Edwin Cossells, attorney for McCormick, concurred with the judge and said he would so advise his client.

In the fight between the members of the divided house of McCormick many believe that Mrs. McCormick has played the cards given her by John D. Rockefeller, her father.

Rockefeller, in public utterances has said "no foreigner will marry into my family."

Thus Max Oser, temporarily at least takes the "count."

Attorney General and R. B. Howell Refuse to Be Drawn Into Discussion.

Frank John, recent state president of the United Comerical Travellers' and republican candidate for United States senator has sent a letter ot Attorney General Davis, one of his primary opponents, asking the latter to tell where he stands on the question of a high protective tariff to increase the cost of things which the people of Nebraska have to buy.

Mr. John sent a letter several days ago to R. B. Howell, republican national committeeman, requesting him to inform the people what his attitude is with regard to protecting wealthy manufacturers of the east at the expense of consumers in the west. Up to this time Howell has not seen fit to make a statement of his views on the question.

The Star, which received a copy of the same letter addressed to Attorney General Davis, inquired of the latter whether he desired to make a statement. Mr. Davis replied that he had nothing to say. The letter sent by John to each of his opponents reads:

"Since entering the campaign as a republican candidaate for United States senator I discover after coming into contact with many people in various parts of the state that the protective tariff question seems to be one of the foremost issues of the day.

"In many public addresses throughout the state I have expressed my views very frankly in opposition to a protective tariff on any commodity which did not involve elements of public health or national defense.

"In view of the fact that you are also a candidate you will no doubt feel it your duty to give the people of Nebraska a very frank expression of your views on this subject."

WOOLWINE SAYS IS PLOT VICTIM

Every Public Man Ultimately Attacked By Some Woman, He Asserts.

(United Press.)

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—"Every public man is ultimately attacked by some woman."

With that philosophy Thomas Lee Woolwine, noted prosecutor whose records includes handling of the many sensational criminal cases which have centered in Los Angeles during recent years, summed up his attitude towards the charges made against him by Ida Wright Jones.

The prosecutor was considered as in the tightest political corner of his stormy career. With characteristic vigor he was preparing to strike back—his fiery southern temper aroused.

"This attack on me is an attempt by two individuals who for years have used every foul means that their mendacity could conceive to blacken my name and who have now restorted to the age-old political trick," declared Woolwine.

"These men have induced this woman to file with the civil service commission an unbelievable, vicious and unfounded attack upon me."

Ready to Make Fight.

While Woolwine was ready to fight if the charges, now in the hands of the grand jury, were pressed, Los Angeles was quivering with interest in the case.

The people saw the picture of Woolwine—the man who sent to jail Harry S. New, jr., who claimed his father was a United States senator, for murder; who solved the murder of Jacob Denton and placed Louise Peet in prison for life; who prosecuted Madalynne Obenchain and Arthur Burch; who has not yet quit his efforts to find the slayer of William Desmond Taylor; and who now has the Ku Klux Klan fighting a decisive attle for its name and very existence in California—perhaps defending himself on the charges of a woman.

Ida Wright Jones, who accused Woolwine of improper relations with her, for seven years worked faithfully in his office as juvenile investigator. Dark haired, slowly passing into middle axe, she was hardly a conspicuous figure until suddenly Woolwine sent a letter to the ce commission announcing her dismissal and charging she attempted to "sell" him to his political enemies.

"He has ruined me and he'll be ruined too," was the way Miss Jones threw down the gage of battle.

WARD CASE GOES TO JURY MONDAY

(United Press.)

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 3.—Mrs. Walter S. Ward, wife of the confessed slayer of Clarence Peters, ex-sailor, whose body was found on a lonely road near Kensico reservoir, May 16, will break her silence Monday.

Mrs. Ward, it was learned t day, will be the first witness to be placed on the stand when the case is presented to the grand jury in June. Among others who have been subpoenaed are George S. Ward, father of the millionaire slayer, Miss Lulu Barrows, a nurse in the home of Walter Ward in New Rochelle and Amy Mild, a maid to Mrs. Ward.

Following the report that District Attorney Weeks intended to present the case to the grand jury Monday, it was learned in the sheriff's office that a man by the name of John Guizo found in a Philadelphia hospital recovering from two bullet wounds, is suspected of being the "Joe Jackson" wanted as Peter's partner on the night of the shooting.

Reports reaching the sheriff's office stated that Guizo put up a fight with police officers who went to interview him. He denied any connection with the case and claimed he suffered his wounds during a riot in the coal region. Finger prints and photographs of Guizo are being rushed to the authorities here.

Underdwriters Hold The Closing Meeting of Year

The last meeting for the summer of the Lincoln Underwriters' association, which will be ladies' night, will be held next Saturday evening, June 10, at the Chamber of Commerce, at 6:30 o'clock. An exceptionally fine program is being prepared, among which will be the first appearance of the male quartet which has recently been organized. Following the program there will be dancing, and an earnest effort will be made to provide an evening of entertainment which will enable every one to derive pleasure from some of the many features. A prominent and able speaker from out of the city is being arranged for, and the pep which is characteristic of the present administration will be evident in the entire evening.

Canadian Vessel Lodger On Rocks In St. Lawrence

QUEBEC, June 3.—The Canadian Pacific steamship Montcalm, which went ashore in the St. Lawrence river yesterday off Beaconcourt was still stuck on a rock bottom tonight and the steamer Saguenay of the Canadian steamship company was ordered to take off passengers from the Montcalm.

While the Montcalm is resting in an easy position, on account of rock ledges it is not thought advisable to begin the attempt to haul her off with the passengers on board.

The ship had 836 passengers on board when she left here yesterday bound for Liverpool.

BRITISH TROOPS POUR INTO ERIN READY FOR WAR

Will Sweep Down On Free State If London Conferences Fall Down.

De Valera's Friends Say He Will Welcome Test With Crown Force.

(United Press.)

BELFAST, June 3.British infantry, artillery and airplanes, backed by destroyers in Belfast Lough, will go into action tomorrow night

Two battalions of British infantry, a squadron of the royal air force and a battery of artillery started for the frontier war zone today. Authorities here said they hoped the threat of British participation in the defense against republican extremists forces would be sufficient to make the latter withdraw without further fighting.

Pour Troops Into Erin.

(International News Service.)

LONDON, June 3.—British troops are pouring into Ulster tonight and the stage is all set for the military occupation of the Irish Free State if the Anglo-Irish negotiations completely break down next week.

The seventeenth battalion of the royal fussiliers, recruited to full war strength and armed for active service in the field, left Aldershot for Belfast this afternoon.

A great British war fleet is being assembled in Ulster waters. The troops that have been concentrated in Belfast are moving to the Ulster-Free State frontier, where they are occupying strategic towns. They are supported with heavy siege guns, light artillery, tanks, armored cars and machine guns.

An airplane squadron has reached Belfast and a dozen battle planes and scout planes will arrive within twenty-four hours.

Officials of the Ulster government believe that the massing of British troops is the first move in an offensive campaign against the republicans in the Free State. Advices from Belfast say that leaders of the Orange faction are confident that the Sinn Feiners will not back down and that the forthcoming week will again see the British in South Ireland with the nation embroiled in warfare.

Lord Cavan, chief of the imperial general staff and the war office have approved plans for a campaign in South Ireland if the Sinn Feiners cause the "peace negotiations" to fail next week.

Conference Deadlocked.

At present there is a lull in the Anglo-Irish negotiations with the discussions at a deadlock. Downing street officials have slight hope of an agreement being reached next week.

The chief disturbing elements in the situation are the coalition agreement, negotiated by Michael Collins and Eamonn De Valera and the proposed Irish constitution.

The Irish negotiators have sent a communication to Premier Lloyd-George replying to the British demands which is described as "unsatisfactory, but sufficient to warrant a continuation of the negotiations on Tuesday."

The positive statement was made by officials close to Premier Lloyd-George that "Great Britain will never give up Ireland." It is claimed that the proposed Irish constitution virtually creates an Irish republic.

It is described as "going beyond anything Premier Lloyd-George ever dreamed of when he proposed an Irish Free State."

The constitution fails to mention any measure of allegiance by the Irish to King George. Nor does it contain any oath by which members of the Free State parliament shall pay their allegiance to the British empire.

The British cabinet after reading the constitution demanded that it be revised. This demand was conveyed to the Irish by Premier Lloyd-George and Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill.

Meanwhile the leaders of the Irish provisional government at Dublin are not excited. The Dublin cabinet met during the day, but so far as learned they took no action towards rewriting the constitution.

Eamonn De Valera is standing pat and his colleagues declare that he will welcome a test of armed strength with the English.

LAST GAS BAG MAKES REPORT

Reed Lands In Missouri—Major Westover Has a Thrilling Journey.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 3.—Navy balloon Number 6, piloted by (x-Lieutenant W. F. Reed, landed 18 miles north of Eminence Shannon county Missouri, according to a message received here today. Reed estimated the distance as 555 miles from Milwaukee, which gives him second prize.

Have Thrilling Experience.

((International News Service.)

MONTREAL, Que., June 3.—Major Oscar Westover, U. S. army pilot of one of the bags in the American balloon race which left Milwaukee on Wednesday and landed in the woods in the Lake St. John country on Thursday, today for the first time gave an account of his flying experience.

Major Westover had been in the air for sixteen hours and had covered 842 miles when he descended, an average speed of about 53 miles an hour. The American army officer declared his craft was driven in the wake of a sixty mile gale and the terrific speed at which he was traveling made it impossible to observe the nature of the country he was passing over. In his attempt to make a record flight, Major Westover declared he had thrown overboard all the camping outfit, radio set and emergency paraphernalia. They had nothing else to throw overboard, the major said, and were sagging badly when he decided to come down. The balloon landed in the tree tops, he said, but none of the occupants of the craft was injured.

News Notes.

During the past week the boys' division has had charge of the entertainment hour with the agricultural college farm club program from nine to ten each evening. On Monday evening the tumbling team of the Y. M. C. A. furnished a half hour program. On Tuesday evening Mr. Faubell of the conservatory of music entertained the boys for a half hour with humorous readings. On Wednesday evening E. B. Robinson, the Indian story-teller, amused the boys with Indian stories. On Thursday evening, Rev. Jack Leonard of the East Lincoln Christian church entertained the boys with readings. All of the numbers were very much appreciated by the boys and made this hour just before taps, which is often a lonesome one, one of real enjoyment.

The outlook for attendance at Camp Strader is very promising. The capacity this year has been increased to 56 by adding another tent house to the equipment. The first camp from June 12 to 21 is already filled to the capacity and reservations for the second camp are coming in fast. Quite a number of business men have been interested in paying a boy's way to camp. Anyone knowing of deserving boys who should be sent to camp are asked to notify camp manager, Vessey at the Y. M. C. A.

WESLEYAN NOTES.

William Parkinson, the newly elected editor of the student newspaper at Nebraska Wesleyan, is arranging to issue a mid August number with cuts of the Wesleyan campus. Mr. Parkinson announces that a six page paper is planned for next year. He has many original ideas about departments and special articles, to be tested out through the scholastic year. One suggestion that has been made to him is that a page of University Place news be incorporated as a feature of the publication.

Mrs. Gertrude Gardner Dafoe, of Tecumseh, Neb., attended the alumni reunion at Nebraska Wesleyan and took the part of alma mater in the tableau at the close of the "Sunflower Pageant," which was given under the auspices of the Woman's Wesleyan educational council.

Miss Alma Ash, who was a former student at Nebraska Wesleyan, visited the campus this week. She taught last year at Gresham.

Best efforts

The average man wants to come into business contact with those who will at all times serve him with their best efforts. This is our maxim of service.

MINERVA'S MAIL
Take Your Troubles to Minerva

A Mother to Her Son.

Dear Minerva: The enclosed clipping is an extract of a letter taken from a farm paper from a mother to her 19-year old son, whom together with a daughter, she is working to support and educate. At this time when so many of our young people are graduating it would be well if many of them would take home to themselves what it says.

When the university seniores receive their degrees next Monday my home will be represented and although unable to be present my thoughts will be with them and the sacrifice and stinting we have endured to produce results will then be rewarded.—MOTHER.

The clipping enclosed is as follows:

"I suppose you cannot realize that no matter what other folks do or do not do to make me happy it does not affect me, because I am not responsible for them. I have not tended them from babyhood, guided their steps when they were unable to go alne, moulded their character along the lines I felt were right, only to find myself absolutely out of the running—opinions flouted and wishes disregarded. Some day you will know, my son—perhaps after 20 years or more of toil, sleepless nights self-denial at a time when good clothes and a good time meant more than they ever will at any other time, pain, and suffering, and many other things—that there are some things in this world that money cannot repay—obligations that love and consideration alone can ever discharge. Then I will expect you to remember this.

"I am sure that the day will come, for I can hardly believe that your self-sufficiency is anything more than a passing phase. You've made up your mind that every word I say, if of advise, is fault-finding; my friendly words of warning as to danger, ahead are an interference with your right to do as you please. Would it not be a strange railroad company that, knowing the danger ahead, would feel that folks ought to be able to take care of themselves and listen, and therefore neglected to put up signs before railroad crossings? Until you get this thought through the outer crust of your self-complacency you'll never have a channel through which an understanding of the depths of my love and devotion can flow. I don't intend to tell you that I expect to love you less—because you're part of me—but as far as outward signs are concerned it may be hard for you to realize this.

"I wish you might know how gladly I have worked that you and F— might be educated. And remember, Bill, there seems to be something well planned out in the scheme of things, whereby, when you were a baby and unable to conduct your life as you feel you are able now, I was the one big, outstanding feature of your existence. Then there comes a time when all the strength lies in you and my turn is over—I must necessarily look to you—to your love and affection, or else I am frank to confess that my life is a failure. Instead of investing in houses and other provisions for my old age I have put all my eggs into one basket—my investment has been in futures. Not only money, but youth and strength are invested, and you can give me back nothing of the last two. Think it over, but don't talk with me about it."

Old Age

Dear Minerva: Growing old gracefully, is perhaps not an altogether easy thing to do, but to struggle against the march it will steal upon each one, is worse than useless. It robs one of all the joys, the years might otherwise bring. There used to be a chimney-corner experience for Grand-mother, ere she passed on; A cap, and breakfast shawl, a rocker, and knittingwork experience, in the cosy-corner of the big old-fashioned livingroom. The three-score years and ten, allotted to man and woman alike, is now reached and passed, without any marked let-up of activities, by the women of today, who may escape downright invalidism.

True, we let go some of our lines of service, and if we are wise, we let our desires to do them, die with them, but other things there are, that fill our lives, and keep us busy, mind and body, as long as it is possible. At the tender age of sixty-six, I am busy with my house work, garden, posey-beds, and chickens. I have let go many outside interests I used to have, and held on to as long as I could, but there are some things I still do. I am a club woman, a live, federated, working club. I read, write, and think long thoughts I curl my grey hair, powder my nose, when I doll up, and while I keep in touch with the women who are much younger than I, and count them as close friends, I do not ape their youonger ways in rder to mix, but my interests are with them in their purposes and aims. The stiffitism which troubles my muscles and joints, has not yet reached my heart, and the ego of me is very much alive. Let me quote Longfellow in closing:

Till this tired heart shall cease to palpitate."

Then follows a long list of things accomplished by men of four-score years, or more, and closes with,—

"What then. Shall we sit down and idly say,
The night hath come: It is no longer day?
The night hath not yet come: We are not quite
Cut off from labor by the failing light.
For age is opportunity no less,
For youth itself, tho in another dress,
And as the evening twilight fades away

OLD LADY BOB.

Appeal to Her Pride

Dear Minerva: I am a discouraged mother. I very often see the "flapper" and "cake-eater" discussion in your Mail, but never from the viewpoint of a mother. Now I have just one daughter, a lovely girl of seventeen. Just seventeen and yet she is as experienced and more blase than I ever was at any age. She is extremely popular, too much so in fact for she is on the go all the time. And she is the typical modern flapper that is discussed so much. But it isn't with my consent but she doesn't mind that. She says mothers just have to learn to keep up with the times if they want to be happy. She doesn't mean to be unkind for she is generous and unselfish. But she will not be swerved from having her own ways. She thinks she knows a lot more about life than I do.

But what worries me most is that she smokes cigarettes and every now and then I smell drink on her breath. She admits that she smokes and says she tastes home brew now and then at the homes of her girl friends. I am just desperate. I feel I must stop this before it becomes too late. But what arguments can I reach such a cock-sure young woman. Have any other mothers been successful in influencing their daughters against such dangerous practice. Also she is ruining her face with rouge and powder. Why can't girls believe they are so much prettier without all that artificial stuff?—DISCOURAGED MOTHER.

A. You cannot accomplish anything with the modern young woman by condemning her pet vices as immoral or even as dangerous. She is too confident of her own wisdom, rights and ability to take care of herself. But you can very often appeal to her pride and her thrifty consideration of the future. Cigarettes and drink, rouge and makeup of all sorts are surely ruinous to a girl's beauty. As surely as she squanders her youth indulging in such so will she live to repret the despoilation of her fresh beauty and youth. She will be old, haggard, sallow and wrinkled before the time. And no amount of make-up will conceal the wrinkles and the flabby skin, and no amount of simulated pep and stimulated energy will cover up the tired, burnt-out eyes and manner.

To tell a girl it is unladylike to smoke is but to cause her to laugh. She will respond readily enough with proofs that the best women of the land are doing it. But if you appeal to her instincts for self preservation she will listen. No girl cares to risk being an invalid and nervous wreck and to sacrifice a happy future with home husband and children for a hectic future. Base your arguments on that point and drive them home forcefully. It should not be hard to find illustrations in life about you. All of us know women who have squandered their youth and beauty in just that way.

Tell your daughter too that the artificial, gay girl is going out of style, that she has become too common and that it is the natural beauty with womanly ways who is now winning the right sort of man friends. The so-called "cake-eaters" don't count. Try to get her to try a rougeless, smokeless period say of three weeks in which time she is to follow a regime outlined by you. Her vacation period would be an excellent time to try the plan. Arrange for her to spend some time outdoors each day, playing tennis, swimming, rowing, riding or even walking for her to sleep outdoors if possible, and for her to eat regularly and properly nourishing foods. Then at the end of the period let her see how much better looking se actually is, how her eyes sparkle and her cheeks glow from natural color, how buoyant and naturally full of piquancy and pep she is. Such an experiment is worth more than a lecture.

No Interest in Life

Dear Minerva: Now I know you are not a doctor but thought you might know what ails me. I wish someone would tell me. I don't believe in running to a doctor for every little pain and ache but I certainly would like to know what I could do. I am a girl (or a woman) of twenty years, have a good home and go with a fine young man. But my trouble is this. I am absolutely lifeless, have no ambition to do a thing. I don't even care whether I dress up or not. Even if I'm going anywhere I can't have life enough to spruce up. I don't care to speak to anyone or have anyone speak to me. Everything worries me. Some trifling will worry me until I get sick. I can't stand the least disappointment. I am a regular pessimist. And I used to be a regular optimist. Just the past year I have been this way. I am disgusted with myself.—A FRIEND.

A. There is no doubt a physical cause for your mental apathy. I do not share in your prejudice against having a diagnosis by a doctor. On the contrary I think a thorough medical examination made annually even without apparent disorder, is an excellent plan, and when there is outer evidence of inner upheaval, as in your case I think an examination quite imperative.

Speaking from the unsure position of judging from the evidence of your letter I would suggest that you consider your daily life and eating habits well. It would appear that your sluggish condition was a sign of poor circulation and that regular and strenuous outdoor exercise would help you a great deal. The morning bath, cold if you can stand it, otherwise tepid, followed by a brisk rub, is excellent as a giver of pep and to arouse a torpid constitution. The diet should be watched and more vitamines and less starches eaten.

Questions Answered Briefly

Young Housewife: The cloudy, blue-gray look which has appeared on your mahogany piano and furniture may be removed by washing with clear water in which a tablespoon of vinegar has been placed. This is applied with a cheesecloth rag, first saturated then wrung as dry as possible. The furniture is rubbed lightly with this then polished just as lightly with a piece of dry cheesecloth.

Lincolnite: You want relief from a bad bunion. Low heels are absolutely essential and a shoe broad enough to prevent all pressure. Paint the inflamed joint several times daily with a lotion made of equal parts of glycerine, carbolic acid, and tincture of iodine. Sometimes a poultice of slippery elm and flaxseed will afford relief. Protecting the bunion with a large ring of piano felt or felt and chamois combined gives ease while a cure is being effected.

"Wayfarer's Lodge":

Oone would be led to believe by the sound of it that it nestled on a mountainside in the heart of tall pines and rustling grass, that it was surrounded by flowers and sunshine and all that was pretty and sweet in the world, that it knew nothing of anything but cleanliness, wholesomeness and happiness.

But instead, it is situated on a little side street in the main part of the city, a little two story affair, where a ring of the bell or a knock at the door will bring friends, food, and rest to the footweary and careworn.

This little Wayfarer's Lodge sees nothing of the pretty side of life, unless it gets a glimpse of it through the screen of brotherly love. Only the sordidness of threadbare existences is seen here, only the hard luck stories are told; just the filth of rags, the horrors of hunger and thirst; the pangs of loneliness, and need—those are the things that are brought to view at Wayfarer's Lodge.

The building itself, which is known throughout the city as the "Social Welfare" society, is scrupulously clean. The walls are free from even a finger mark, the windows would be ashamed of a speck of dust or dirt, and the floors are polished and shine as floors never have shone before.

Clean Beds

Upstairs on the second floor, is Wayfarer's Lodge. The front part of the second floor is made into one large room containing twelve or fourteen beds, clean and neat, with white spreads and white pillows, everything for comfort. Besides this one large room, which has a myriad of windows that makes the room bright and cheerful even on the darkest day, there are three other single rooms, fitted up with beds, dressers and everything for convenience. At the end of the hall is the shower bath that is for the use of the traveler. Off of the shower bath room on the south is a bright sunny room, whose wall are windows. This room is for the benefit of the traveler who is afflicted with the white plague. In the little room to the north of the showers, is a huge chest where the traveler's worn clothing is placed for fumigation, and he is given fresh, clean clothing until his comes out of the fumigating room, and has been washed and ironed.

But the wayfarer who comes to this little haven, is allowed to keep his self respect. He is not treated as if he were an outcast from society, or as if he were dependent entirely upon charity. He is given food and lodging and all that, but he pays for it himself by working.

If the traveler has supper, lodging and breakfast at Wayfarer's Lodge, he works two hours around the building the next morning to pay for it. If he has just lodging and breakfast, he works one hour and twenty minutes, and if he just has lodging he works forty minutes. So when he sits down to his meal, and goes to his sleep at night he has the satisfied feeling that it is not being donated by charity. He knows that he has earned it, and it is all the better because of that knowledge.

"During the past year there have been more guests at Wayfarer's Lodge than there had een since 1916. The total non-resident peopel who were aided by Wayfarer's Lodge in 1916 totaled a little more than one thousand. The close of April for this year, shows six hundred and fifty-three persons who have stopped for meals and lodging.

C. E. Pigvey who has charge of Wayfarer's Lodge, says that although the first half of this year has shown a great many people helped through this lodge, that the number will not come up to the total of 1916. He said that October was the end of the fiscal year for the Social Welfare society, and that during the summer months the guests were few because the men could sleep out of doors, and live on fruits and vegetables that they find along the way. Then, too, according to Mr. Prevey, the spring is the time for travelers of that sort. They are always making a change in the spring and comes into the Lodge by the dozens at times.

Not Crooks or Hoboes

The average wayfarer is not a crook or a regular hobo. Perhaps he has had reverses, perhaps it is a runway from home, or it might be domestic trouble, but the majority of them have come from some place, and they are bound for another. They are not just rambling over the country with no definite aim in mind.

However, Mr. Prevey says that every once in a while a real hobo hoves into port. He is generally dirty and hungry, but he just will not have a bath. He will leave the place before he will take a bath and put on clean clothing. He always has some sort of an excuse such as he just had a bath, or it isn't Saturday night, anything to get out of the sight of water. And neither will he work, unless he is just on the edge of starvation. He world rather go out and beg his bread than to work for it. To such a man as that, self respect means nothing. He is lazy and shiftless. If he once had any pride it has entirely gone, and he is quite content to let other people feed him.

Sometimes cases like these can be taken hold of, and, the better side of the man brought to the surface. That is what happened in one case where a man had been a tramp for twenty years. He was old when he reached Lincoln, and the Wayfarer's Lodge, he was in his late sixties, and was not well and strong as he once was. He had been married at one time and had children, but he had left his wife because of some domestic troubles and had never heard from her since. He had a brother and sister somewhere in Canada, and had not been in connection with them for years.

Mr. Prevey talked to the man and discovered that he was above the average wayfarer in education and intellect, and on close examination found that the man was a college graduate from one of the best colleges in Canada, that he had a brother who was a very prominent physician in one of the largest cities in Canada, and that his sister was a kindergarten supervisor in the same city. After a long talk, Mr. Prevey finally was able to get the names of his sister and brother and their address. He wrote to them, telling the condition of their brother, and of his circumstances, and he had immediate replies from both of them. The doctor was somewhat sharp in his criticism of his brother, but the sister was thankful to think he had been found again, and was anxious to do what she could towards his support. A good boarding place was found for him, and he lived in Lincoln for some time, until it was discovered that he had tuberculosis and should go to the sanatarium in Kearney. He is there at the present time and every now and then he writes to Mr. Prevey and thanks him for what the Wayfarer's Lodge did for him.

Most Young Men

This man was above the average age for awayfarer. The majority of them are between the ages of sixteen and thirty years, of course there are some cases under sixteen and some cases over thirty, but they are the exception.

A few days ago a lad of seventeen and a man of just a few more years, came to the Wayfarer's Lodge for food and rest. They were completely worn out and were dirty and ragged. The man said that he was a coal miner from Kentucky, but that he was out of work, and was looking for something to do. He said that he had found the boy along the road.

The boy's story was that he had run away from home to look for work. He had had some sort of a job in his home town in Minnesota; but business was bad and he was laid off. His family, while not rich, nor anywhere near it, had enough to eat and would have been glad to keep the boy with them.

The youngster wanted a pair of pants, but asked for nothing else. He sat humped down in his chair, and would not look at anyone, and wouldn't even smile. After he had talked with them a little while, Mr. Prevey told the lad that he should look at people when he was talking to them, hold his head erect, straighten out his shoulders and look and act as if he really amounted to something.

They Were Hungry

He suspected that both of them were hungry, and on inquiry, found that they had not eaten for two days. In most cases the men are required to do their allotted work before they eat, but Mr. Prevey felt so sorry for these men that he took their promise to come back and work, if he would give them an order to go to the restaurant and eat first. They both promised, and to prove that he would keep his word he insisted upon Mr. Prevey taking his watch.

They came back, and Mr. Prevey helped them pick out whole, clean clothing, shoes and everything that they needed from the rummage department. The men took their baths, went to bed and were feeling fine and fit.

"I'm going to take care of this boy", the man said. "I'm going to see that he gets along alright."

Mr. Prevey talked to the boy, and tried to get him to see that his place was home. The lad was tired of roaming and seemed very glad to go home. He said that was were he would go, but nothing has been heard from him since, so no one knows what happened to him.

But men are not the only persons seeking the solace of the Wayfarer's Lodge. There have been several women, some of them just honest-to-goodness hoboes, and some of them just getting help from one place to another. Some of them seeking strayed husbands, and others of them are straying from their husbands, but they come, one and all, to the Wayfarer's Lodge.

Last December shortly before Christmas, a pretty vivacious little creature of just ninteen years came rushing into the Wayfarer's Lodge searching for her husband. He had been gone for sometime, she hadn't the slightest idea where he was nor what he was doing, but she intended to find him if it were possible. She told Mr. Prevey that she had been married two years, and that there wasn't any trouble. Her husband just left, but she loved him, and she knew if she could see him she could get him back again.

Wanted Her Husband

When she paid her visit to the Wayfarer's Lodge, she had been in town exactly two hours. In that time she had visited all of the babrber shops, her husband was a barber, and had been to see the county attorney. Her home was in Marysville, Kans., but she came to Lincoln from Falls City where she had been to seek her husband. She knew the county attorney there and he gave her a letter to County Attorney Matson.

Some of the barbers had told her that a man answering the description of her husband had been in and inquired for work, but on failing to get any, had said that he was going on to Grand Island.

Mr. Prevey tried toi get her to remain in Lincoln and let them try to find her husband through officials, and told her that when he had been located, then she could go. But she would do nothing but look herself. Mr. Prevey took her out to his home where Mrs. Prevey also tried to talk her into staying in Lincoln for a while. She was very sweet and appreciated all of their advice, but she would not stay.

Mr. Prevey gave her the money to get to Grand Island, after seeing that she was determined to go, and asked her to let them kno wif she found him. A few days later a letter came telling him she had not found him in Grand Island, but that she had some trace of him in Hastinga, and that she was going on there.

Running Away

Then came the young wife from Colorado who was running away from her husband. She had her thirteen months old baby with her and hadn't the slightest idea where she was going, and didn't seem to care as long as she escaped her husband. She told Mr. Prevey that her husband didn't support her, that she was starving, and many other uncomplimentary things about him. She told where she had lived, but didn't want Mr. Prevey to write either to her husband or her mother. He did however, and a direct answer by wire came back from the mother, who said that the husband was frontically searching for her, and that she had no reason to leave home at all. She said that the husband would be in Lincoln that day, and would be waiting for some word of her at the Post Office. Mr. Prevey went right to the post office after receiving the wire, and found the husband.

The husband said that at one time he had a little cleaning and dyeing establishment in Denver. The wife's mother lived in a very small town not very far from there, and had persuaded him to bring the wife and baby to her home, and start a similar establishment there. He did, but found that the town was too small to support such a thing. However, they were living comfortably, and there was nothing at all to worry about. He said that the wife seemed mentally deranged at times, and probobly during one of these spells she came to Lincoln. He was sure that if he found her he could take her back home again. In the meantime, the wife had disappeared from Lincoln, and no trace was found of her. The husband seemed to think that she would go towards Grand Island, and so left for there in search of her.

There are many more cases of this kind, that drop in now and then with a request for some kind of help, and they always get it. Nothing is ever too much trouble, day or night, for Mr. Prevey or any of his staff to do to ease the mind and body of a wayfarer.

COTNER NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gadd have been visiting at the home of Pres. and Mrs. A. D. Harmon.

Doane College News

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sweney, '93, of St. Paul, Minn., Rev. F. W. Leavitt, '95, of Jennings, La., and Mrs. Susan Root Rhoades of Washington, D. C., are among the prominent alumni who have come from quite a distance to attend the anniversary celebration. Mrs. Rhoades is supervisor of public school play grounds in Washington, D. C., and will give an address on the play ground work in Lincoln during university commencement week.

Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Hosford, former faculty of Doane college, and Mrs. D. B. Perry, wife of former President Perry, are expected for commencement.

Miss Lou Vera McReynolds, '15, on furlough from her mission station in Ingtal, China, stopped off at Crete long enough to attend the chapel exercises Wednesday morning. She returned Friday to meet a group of girl friends with whom she is camping during commencement week. Miss Trilla Gardner of the Nebraska School of Business and Miss Ruth Taylor of Glendo, Wyo., are of this party.

The Delta Kappa Pi and I. D. C. fraternities held their spring picnics up the river Friday and Saturday of last week respectively. Misses Anna Dick of Fairmont, and Helen Scofield of Neligh, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Zimmerman of Glendo, Wyo., were out of town guests at these festivities.

Mrs. J. G. Hartwell, (Hazel Buck, '12) of Lusk, Wyo., is visiting her mother in Crete and will be her for the jubilee commencement.

Director George H. Aller accompanied by his assistant, Miss Young of the conservatory, and the men's quartet an tdhe ladies' double octet, made a trip to Beatrice last Sunday. In the evening they gave a program at the Methodist church of that city.

D. O. Aller, '20, who has been studying at the graduate school of Harvard university the past year, has returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Aller of Beatrice, Neb., where he will spend the summer.

Dean A. G. Heyhoe made the address at the Memorial Day services held in Sokol theatre, Crete, Tuesday afternoon. President John N Bennett presided and introduced the various speakers and the male quartet furnished music.

DID YOU EVER
—put a penny in a chewing-gum machine and then not get any gum because the machine didn't work?
GOT CHEATED AND FELT PROVOKED, DIDN'T YOU?
Beware that the same cheating doesn't occur to you when buying pipe for a plumbing job. Exceptional cheapness in price means some sort of "a nigger in the wood pile." Unless you put your money in good, genuine pipe, you're liable to get nothing in return in the way of satisfying service. You lose, not just one cent, but many dollars—for pipe failures are costly.
Good pipe is cheapest in the long run and makes satisfied customers. That's why we sell it.

Buick Reigns Supreme With Motorists.

Now that you have gone around and around and looked at all of the cars, what do you think of them, my friend? Haven't you about decided just as we told you that you would, that the Buick is the very best car on the market for the money? Haven't you discovered that you can get more wear and tear out of a Buick than any other car for the same price and in some cases a higher price? Of course you have, and that is just the reason you are going to shag down and tell them at the Buick company that you have decided to take that good looking coupe or sedan, or touring car, that every one in the family likes the best. And, O, but you will have good times with it this summer. It will always be a Buick for you in the future, wait and see.

For Young Girls.

Bohemian garnets in medium sized, graduated beads, are being worn by young girls as well as long twisted strands of dyed ivory beads in pink coral type, turquoise and other lovely colors. For $15, one may purchase a long, two strand string of small coral colored beads which in genuine pink coral, would be priced at fully $300. Also attractive are the strings of white coral—or so they seem, with their delicate pink shadings, in reality dyed ivory, so cunningly done as to be hardly distinguishable from the real except by an expert.

One more expensive necklace is of palest rose quartz in graduated beads beautifully faceted. Of necklaces of precious stones, one of the most beautiful is of aquamarines.

Jewelled belt buckles for wear on white leather sports belts are new, and a striking number was of oval shape, the ends of polished black onyx and the center of tiny diamonds set in platinum.

In some of the recent brooches from Paris, ivory is used with diamonds, emeralds or sapphires a large oblong brooch having ivory as a base, edged with emeralds and diamonds.

Big Sale of Hosiery At Gold's, Beginning Monday Morning.

In planning your summer wardrobe you have thought about sports clothes, evening and street frocks, and shoes and all that, but how about the hose? Well, its time to think, for at Gold's, begining Monday there is to be a wonderful sale on full fashion, all silk hose, and the price per pair is to be just $1.95. What do you think of that. The sale will last just as long as the hose, which won't be very long at that price, for you will be getting three and three and a half dollar values for $1.95. All shades and sizes, too, taupe, brown, black, white, cordovan, and just everything one could want.

Something New About Bags.

Silk bags are usually of moire or striped silk, although some women are having bags made up to match a costume. Mountings are of oxidized metal, tortoise shell or self.

Several stores have been featuring silk and leather vanities for graduation gifts. They are showing these in sports shades to match the sweaters or suits, fitted with purses and mirrors and mounted on cord handles.

oPuch bags with pannier handles modeled in soft calf leather and the morocco are novelties which have been selling largely.

Jet Beads on Evening Slippers For Smart Wear.

For evening slippers, black satin trimmed with jet beads is one of the principal mediums, while various suede and leather combinatons are used for the street. Heels are fairly high as 1 1-2 in. for semi-dress and 1 3-4 to 2 inch for dress. Sports models have the flat heels necessary to the fulfilment of their purpose. In higher heels the style is usually Spanish, partly because this heel supports the foot and affords comfort when walking, even in the 2 inch height.

Queen Mary Decrees Long Skirts

Queen Mary has recently decreed that long skirts would be the official dress to be worn during the Ascot season. The Northcliffe papers immediately came out with large headline "Skirts," and now it is said that the question of how long the skirts shall be is creating almost as much interest in England as the Genoa conference. Picture hats are also included in the decree as to what should be worn.

Full short skirts, lending a bouffant silhouette, short sleeves and round or bateau necklines, are the characteristic features of a collection of graduation frocks.

Imported dotted Swiss is attractively developed along simple lines with white ric-rac as the main trimming. It is said that this line of Swiss models has gone big, particularly in the dark colorings, as there is practically no demand for paste shades in dotted Swiss.

Keep That Good Skin In Spite of the Sun and Wind.

Well, well, now that the weather is getting sort of summery again, and the warm wind doth blow, it is time for Milady to think of her complexion. Needless to say she will be motoring quite a bit this summer, and she must still keep herself young and pretty. The way to do this is to buy some of those good complexion retainers that they sell at Pillers. Good cold creams, lotions and anything and everything that the skin needs to keep fit. Don't start your summer-vacation without stocking up.

In spite of the partial financial depression of the past two years which might have worked a hardship upon companies less conservative and substantial, the Victor Talking Machine company has just published its balance sheet for 1921 showing that its financial condition is better now than ever and demonstrating how staple its product has become.

This report contains some interesting figures. The total assets and liabilities amount to $43,426,755 each, the latter item containing $31,351,024.88 surplus and $5,000,000 capital stock. The surplus increased more than two million dollars in the year and the current liabilities decreased more than two million.

Production in the summer months of 1921 was somewhat curtailed, it is stated, but during the fall and winter the company had difficulty supplying the demand. The volume of output for 1921 was almost exactly the same as for 1920.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

The fifth term begins tomorrow. Special classes will be offered in voice pedagogy under Lillian Polley, violin under Carl Steckelberg and dramatic art under Ada C. Malcolm. The feature of the term will be the presence of William Shakespeare II as a guest teacher in the voice department. Mr. Shakespeare will arrive today.

Ada C. Malcolm of the dramatic department, coached the senior play at Cotner college, "A Silver Lining," presented last Wednesday evening. This is the third performance coached by Mrs. Malcolm this season.

Don Berry was called to Seattle, Washington Sunday by the death of his father.

The Lincoln Musicians' association meets this morning for its regular monthly meeting at its headquarters, 127 South Twelfth street, to help arrange a 1922 picnic. The question of trying to secure the national convention of American musicians for Lincoln will be one topic for discussion and the donation of music another important question for consideration.

The Nebraska State band will play at the Beach next Sunday, June 11. Today is an open date.

This Sunday afternoon, the Lincoln high school band will furnish music at Antelope park.

A charming little operetta, "Princess Chrysanthemum," was produced by the Tri Sigma club of Park community center Thursday May 28, at the high school auditorium. The operetta is supposed to take place in a Japanese garden, and centers about the abduction of the emperor's daughter, Princess Chrysanthemum, by the Prince So-sli, aided by Saucer-eyes, the wizard cat; and of her rescue from the Cave of Night, where she is imprisoned by them, by her preferred lover, Prince So-tru, aided by the Fairy Moonbeam.

The cast was as follows:

Princess Chrysanthemum, Esther Dreith.
The Emperor—Jacob Lebsack.
Prince So-tru, Carl Fritzler.
Prince So-Sli, Adolph Lebsack.
Top-Not—Jacob Rohrig.
Saucer-Eyes—Oscar Bennett.
Tulip—Emma Huff.
Fairy Moonbeam—Leah Rohrig.
Yum-Yum—Helen Dreith.
To-To—Rose Hafferber.
Du-Du—Pauline Blum.

The chorus of spirits and fairies included Susie Martin, Rose Stroh, Leah Stroh, Emma Lebsack, Lydia Huff, Mollie Kissler, Marie Lenhardt, Esther Strasheim, Katherine Lebsack, Marie Helzer, Lydia Bernhardt, Sarah Dreith, Jennie Bauer, Anna Egner, Charles Lebsack Reinhodt Anun, John Lebsack, Henry Lebsack, Manual Steinbrecker, Gene Strasheim.

A new scheme has been devised for affording at least a glimpse of grand opera to people in any locality, however small, who are not permitted to hear that form of music first hand. Certain public schools have introduced a plan for giving opera with the aid of the talking machine. In its most simple form the plan calls for the narration of the story of an opera and the playing of the records in their proper order. In addition, special choral numbers may be sung by a small chorus or by the assembly. The dramatic action may be portrayed by tableaux, pantomime and the reading or acting of excerpts from the text.

The national civic organization Community Service, is making the suggestion to its local groups that such groups lay this plan before the public school heads in their communities. To facilitate the matter a bulletin on the subject has been issued by the Community Service. It contains full data for the presentation of three operas, "Martha," "Carmen" and "Aida," including a summary of the story, lists of the available talking machine records for the various arias as issued by the leading companies, directions for the arranging of dances, preparing of scenery and costuming.

The suggestion is also being made to music clubs that they not only bring the matter to the attention of the school music supervisors, but consider the plan for performance within the clubs themselves or possibly by the junior music clubs.

The United States Shipping Board steamer "Vinita" has received a phonograph as a gift from the town of Vinita, Okla. The machine bears an engraved silver plate stating the fact.

Last October the officers of the ship wrote to the mayor and citizens of the Oklahoma town asking for the phonograph as a symbol of the sentimental attachment between the ship and the town. The Oklahoma town responded warmly and the sum needed was soon raised. The phonograph was installed on the ship recently at Portland, Ore.

The Forward Education Movement, launched recently in Arkansas, is having a beneficial effect in spreading the gospel of good music. An attempt is being made to elevate the scale of education throughout the State and for this purpose "opportunity schools" are now being established in various parts of the State.

Work in behalf of education which includes courses of music appreciation is being carried on energetically with the result that the old-time "breakdown" fiddler and the humorous darky with his battered banjo are giving way to music from the big musical centers of the United States, brought to the State through the medium of the phonograph, player and other musical instruments by radio.

The degree of bachelor of music, the first musical degree ever offered in the State, will be granted by the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, in the near future. A four-year course leads to the degree. The major and minor subjects will be chosen from violin, piano, pipe organ and voice.

Upward of 1,500 men and women representing all branches of the music industries in every State in the country will gather in New York City June 5th for a week of conferences looking toward the further beneficial spread of music in the home and in industry.

Among the speakers, as announced by the Music Industries Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the conference will be held, are James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor; Harry L. Davis, Governor of Ohio; Edgar A. Guest, the Poet of Michigan; Major General George O. Squier, Chief of the Signal Corps of the United States Army; Marshall Bartholomew, direvtor of undergraduate music at Yale University; Robert Lawrence, director of Washington's Music Week and a member of the advisory staff of the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music; Harry D. Nims, author of "Printers' Ink Model Statute" and "The Law of Unfair Competition"; Robert E. Ramsey, chairman, Division of House Organ Editors, Associated Advertising Clubs of the World; J. A. Hall, educational director, Associated Advertising Clubs of the World; Madame Edna Marione, president, New York State Federation of Music Clubs; J. H. Case, Deputy Governor, Federal Reserve Bank of New York; William A. Durgin, chief, Division of Simplified Practice, representing Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce; Dr. Walter Traprock, discoverer of the Filbert Islands.

Mme. Marione, the purpose of whose organization is "to foster and promote music and music interests" in cooperation with National Federation of Music Clubs, will speak on "Music Promotion by Music Clubs." Secretary Davis will talk on the subject of music in industry, and General Squier on "The Future of the Radiophone." Mr. Ramsey will speak on "Planning the Retail Advertising" and Mr. Hall on "For a Better Understanding of Better Advertising."

Interspersed with the conferences will be many diversions arranged for the entertainment of the visiting music makers, including a boat trip to West Point, to witness a special parade of the cadets of the Military Academy; a concertt at Carnegie Hall by the Victor Symphony Orchestra of 90 pieces with Mmes. Louis Homer, Olgo Samaroff, Ernestine Schumann-Heink and Reinald Werrenrath as soloists; banquets, balls, concerts and luncheons.

Besides those already mentioned the following men prominent in the music industries of the country will participate in the conferences: R. B. Aldcroitt, New York, president, Music Industries Chamber of Commerce; M. V. De Forest, Sharon, Pa., president, National Association of Music Merchants; C. C. Conway, New York, president, National Piano Manufacturers' Association; John C. Wickham, Springfield, O., president, Musical Supply Association of America; M. P. Moeller Hagerstown, Md., president, Organ Builders' Association of America; Fred Gretsch, Brooklyn, president, National Musical Merchandise Association; Thomas M. Pletcher, Chicago, president, National Association of Music Roll Manufacturers; C. D. Greenleaf, Elkhart, Ind., president Band Instrument Manufacturers' Association; Alex. Schoninger New Haven, Conn., president, National Piano Travelers' Association; Charles Deutschmann, Chicago, president, National Association of Piano Tuners; George Fischer, New York, president, Music Publishers Association of the United States; Louis Buehn, Philadelphia, president, National Association of Talking Machine Jobbers.

To brighten the lives of their crews the members of the New York Towboat Exchange have decided to install radio telephones on their crafts. Two tugboats already have been equipped with the new invention for relieving monotony at sea. The remainder will be furnished with the telephones by summer. Instead of having to listen to the cook singing "Sweet Lucy Long" or the chug-chug of the engines all day long the crews will be entertained by the ting-a-ling-a ling of a cabaret orchestra.

The Tice Towing Line first tried the radio telephone on its tug Nautic While cruising around the harbor the skipper and his crew listened to a concert in Newark. Amplifiers are located in the wheelhouse and in the engine room, so that both the deckhands and the black gang can enjoy music, stories or sermons at the same time without leaving their jobs.

An unprecandented privilege was granted Lawrence Kubal a few hours before he was electrocuted at Sing Sing recently for the muder of a woman on Long Island. After his request of an accordian had been refused on the same grounds that his request for a harmonica two days before had been denied, a phonograph was placed just outside of his cell and for two hours he listened to the music.

Refusal to let Kubal have either a harmonica or an accordian was dictated by fear lest he strip off a piece of metal and slash his wrists or throat.

Mrs. Kubal, whose story led to her husband's arrest and conviction, collected the $1,000 reward offered by the State for his arrest. She became reconciled to her husband a few weeks before his execution and made every effort to get Gov. Miller to change his sentence to life imprisonment.

A program of American compositions, performed by American musicians and sung in the American language, is scheduled for the thirteenth bi-ennial Festival of the National Federation of Music club to be held at Rsheville, N. C., in June of next year.

This important recommendation to the program committee was made by the goard of directors in semi-annual session at Nashville, Tenn., last week. Mrs. John F. Lyons, president presiding, at which time Miss Nan Stephens, district president for the South Atlantic district, was appointed chairman of the bi-ennial program.

Of unique interest also at this festival will be the large chorus culled from the music clubs of the country and the symphony orchestra, under an American conductor, which is being organized by Miss Stephens from her own district.

The signal success of the four young winners of the last national contests, now on tour under supervision of the Federation, in such cities as Washington, D. C., and Pittsburg and Philadelphia, Pa., where their reception was nothing less than an ovation, is a matter of satisfaction to the board. These young musicians, Devorah Nadworney, contralto, Herman Rosen, violinest, George Smith, baritone, and Enrique Ros, pianist, are fast proving the worth of American talent and American training.

Among the new rulings governing the next contest in voice, violin and piano are: no screens to be used; each performer in the same class will play or sing the same numbers, and all the standard of merits are raised. For information and circular address Mrs. Charles A. McDonald, 205 Shorb Ave., N. W., Canton, O.

A new feature in this department, Mrs. Frances E. Clark, director, is the campaign for betterment of church music being put on by chairman, Mrs. Grace W. Mabee, of Los Angeles, Cal., who is sending letters out to ministers asking their support in establishing a music class in Theological Seminaries, that music may be better understood from the pulpit. She also urges clubs to have at least one sacred music program each season.

Clubs are also being interested in music settlement schools, through efforts of the chairman, Mrs. W. B. Nickols, who foresees tremendous possibilities in this particular field which appeals to many of the club members from the standpoint of Americanization as well as musical uplift.

Interest in better music in the public schools and rural districts is steadily increasing and Junior and Juvenile club work continues to be the means of teaching music appreciation to the children in a delightful way.

A cause of much favorable comment and general rejoicing was the New Official Bulletin, Mrs. Helen Harrison Mills, Peoria, Ill., editor, which since January is being published monthly by the Federation, free to clubs and members. Already in its three issues it has proved to be the needed medium of information between members of this great organization and has served to spread the gospel of Federation activities most adequately in all quarters of the country.

Four new board members were elected as follows: Mrs. O. C. Hamilton, Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. Henry Schurman, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. Crosby Adams, Montreat, N. C., and Mrs. W. P. Bailey, Savannah, Ga.

Altogether the work of the National Federation of Music clubs is steadily gaining in recognition and power, and is certain, in the next year preceding the bi-ennial festival at Ashville, to reach a higher standard of achievement than ever before.

Recent advices received by Harold Hurlbut from Villa Vergemere, Jean de Reszke's home on the Riviera, enclose newspaper accounts of the great success in opera of Juan Lorenzo, the Spanish baritone. A hero of the great war, Lorenzo was discovered gassed lying in a hospital ward. On his recovery he was received with great cordiality by M. de Reszke, to whom is to be credited the young artist's abilities as vocalist and actor, the great tenor being his only master. Lorenzo has a high baritone which has been trained to perform the feats usually associated with coloratura soprano voice. Scale, of astonishing fluency, a facile thrill, a delicate pianissimo and effortless high G's and A's were revealed in his debut in the "Barber of Seville" at the Cannes Opera House.

So great was his success that he was immediately engaged by Director Reynaldo Hahn for the coming season to sing the leading baritone roles. —Musical Courier.

One of the secrets behind the phenomenal success of David Lloyd George is music. He is devoted to it. When harassed by perplexing problems he flees to it and is relieved. He confesses it is the one thing which makes him forget politics.

During the short vacation he passed at his home in Wales before going to the Genoa conference Lloyd George is said to have given a large part of his time to hymn singing. He often played his own accompaniment on the organ. Sunday evenings were devoted to songfest of old Welsh hymns.

Lord Riddell is reported as saying that there was too much hymn singing and not enough golf at Lloyd George's country place.

The Bayreuth Opera has just been closed as a result of a big scandal. A conflict between the chorus and the municipal authorities reached its climax the other day when the chorus members presented their new demands, which were flatly refused at a special meeting of the municipal authorities. The chorus was disbanded for "breach of contract" and the opera ceased its activities.

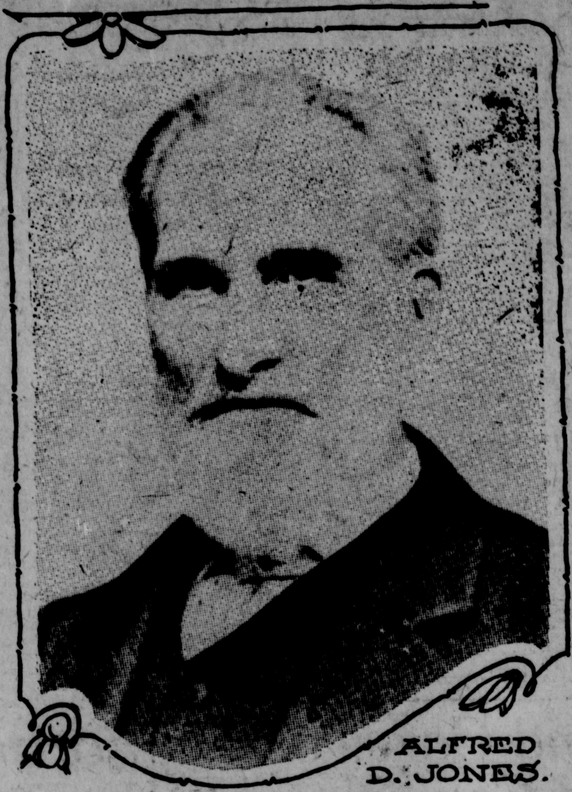
BUILDERS of NEBRASKA

NO. 9.. ALFRED D. JONES, THE SURVEYOR



ALFRED D. JONES.

Of no man can it be more literally said that he has left his mark upon the state of Nebraska than of Alfred D. Jones, first and best known of the surveyors who traced the county lines and laid out the many townships and blazed the early claims in the state.

Yet it would be a mistake to consider him merely a a surveyor. The typical pioneer was a Jack of all trades. An adventurous spirit always, he could transform himself at need into a farmer, lawyer, carpenter, banker or merchant by turns or all at once. A. D. Jones was all of these, besides being surveyor, post master and judge of the first claim club. Not only in his versatility but also in his independence, shrewdness, and that queer vein of sentimentality which seems to have run through nearly all of these hard-headed, hard-fisted early adventurers, he was a typical pioneer, and it is quite fitting that he was the man to blaze the first claim in Nebraska territory.

After this sketch, it almost goes without saying that he came from an old Yankee family. He was born, however, in Philadelphia in 1814. As a boy he learned the trade of bricklayer and plasterer, by which he earned enough money to give himself an education and turn himself into a surveyor. He had use for all these accomplishments later on. Seeking new pastures over which to drag his chain and balance his level, he drifted westward. In 1847, he married Miss Sophronia Reeves of Jackson county, Missouri, and soon brought her north to Iowa where he helped to lay out the sites of Council Bluffs, Des Moines and a number of other towns in western Iowa.

Had Eye on Nebraska

But while he was busy about this work, his eye kept wandering to the rich land on the other side of the river, then all Indian territory and not yet open to settlement by the whites. That green and smiling but forbidden shore appealed to the romantic strain in his nature, and he determined to make himself a footing there, the more willingly as it became clearer every day that congress would soon open the territory.

One chilly November day in 1853, A. D. Jones, accompanied by two contractors from Council Bluffs, William and Thomas Allen, into whom he had infused the same restlessness, pushed off into the brown swirling current of the Missouri. Their craft was a leaky little scow which required one man to bail out the water and one man to hold her steady while the third rowed. Barely escaping being beached on a sand bar, the little craft slewed crazily on its way across the treacherous river, and landed on a flat bottomland covered with grass that grew higher than the explorers' heads. Pushing their way through this, the trio came to a deep muddy slough, over which they crawled on fallen logs that kept slipping under them and sending them up to their knees in mud. Wet and weary, they finally clambered out onto firm ground and made their camp. Indian fires to the northward warned them that they had neighbors who were likely to resent their presence, especially if they learned the object of it.

Reaches Promised Land

However, the next morning the adventurers pushed on to their promised land. They found it on the wooded hills that gave on the river and were divide by a small creek. Here Jones staked out three claims, the first to be made in Nebraska, and the three men built claim huts to hold them.

By the time this labor was finished, the provisions that the trio had brought with them were used up. Returning to the river they found it full of great joggling lumps of ice floating down from the north, that would make the return doubly dangerous. However there was not a soul for miles on the west bank of the river, except Indians who refused to answer the explorers' hail. There was nothing to do but go back.

They made the return in safety, and the following spring, when the territory was legally opened to settlement, Jones took possession of his claim. He named it "Park Wild," a title which at that time it well reserved. Now, the Burlington and Union Pacific stations are situated in the northern part of it; the southern part is Forest Hill. This homestead, with its tall woods, its clear creek, and its sweep of meadow, was his chief delight.

Yet it by no means absorbed all his energies. He was speedily appointed judge of the first Claim club, a curious instution which the Nebraskans adopted from their Iowa neighbors.

No Law in Territory

At this time there was no law in the territory, and no legal government. However, that did not greatly trouble the settlers. They were Americans, and as one Nebraska historian remarks, where two or three Americans are gathered together, politics will be there in the midst of them—and government as well. On July 22, 1854, the settlers of Omaha met under the "Lone Tree" to organize the first Claim club. This organization pledged itself to support the claims of those of its members who obeyed its rules, up to the limit of three hundred and twenty acres. Its members all had to be bona fide residents of Nebraska.

Woe to the luckless squatter who tried to take possession of a part of the land of one of these early comers! His case would be judged in the claim court, and he would be waited upon by a committee who would politely warn him to get out. If he did not take the hint, other warnings less polite would follow, and if these too went disregarded he would be assisted in his housemoving by a posse of excited and none too gentle Claim club members. Since there was considerable discontent at letting the first arrivals hold as much as 320 acres, both judge and posse had plenty of business, and the spectators had plenty of amusement. Life was not altogether dull in early Omaha, in spite of the absence of moving pictures.

Appointed Postmaster

But these were not the only public duties of A. D. Jones. He had long brought over the mail from Council Bluffs in his hat when he was appointed postmaster. His first post office was an ax box, divided into four pigeon-holes. Presently, however, he put his boyhood knowledge of the building trade to good effect in building a small office near Park Wild, labelled "A. D. Jones, P. M." Meanwhile, he had laid out the town site of Omaha, with the aid of C. H. Downs, who carried the chain and drove the stakes; and he assisted in drawing the county lines.

He was a member of the first and second territorial legislature, and here he parted company with the typical pioneer; for the typical early settler, wanting money badly and wanting it in a hurry, reckoned that the quickest way to get it was to set up a quantity of banks and let them print bank notes as fast as the presses would work. Jones was not quite so naive, and held out against the chartering of these wild cats with passion and eloquence. He was a little, excitable, nervous man with a big voice, never at a loss for words, but he was the only one in the upper house who opposed the bill. In his final speech he was carried away by his emotions and reached his climax in the words: "When I am gathered to my forefathers, I shall be remembered, I hope, as having acted wisely and well in the matter, and I aspire to no higher eulogium or epitaph than to have written upon my tombstone, 'Here lies the remains of an honest man'".

A Big Man with a Little Voice

No sooner had silence fallen upon the little man's oration than Allen A. Bradford rose to answer it. He was a big, loosely built, fat man with cheeks that shook when he laughed and a tiny squeaky voice issuing curiously from his bulk; a judge of considerable ability but of doubtful reputation, and the licensed jester of the council.

"Mr. President," he squeaked in his falsetto, "the honorable gentleman from Park Wild has declared himself an honest man. Perhaps he is. I don't suppose a man would lie about a matter which is of so little consequence in this distinguished body. But, Mr. President, the gentleman from Park Wild talks of his death, his grave, his epitaph thereupon. But if he is as good and honest as he pretends to be, he'll never die. He'll be translated, like Elijah, and go up in a chariot; he whirled right into the golden streets of the New Jerusalem and made a member of the everlasting choir to sing glory hallelujah forever and ever among the angels; and Mr. President, heis so good, so pjious, so honest I wish he were there now."

Thus among roars of laughter perished the only opposition in the council to the wild-cat banks. But in 1857, when a panic came along and the banks unanimously failed, dragging the country into the deepest poverty, the laugh was upon the other side. A. D. Jones did not seek the golden streets for a long time. He helped to organize the first sound bank in the state. In 1861 he was speaker of a legislature where honesty was slightly more popular. He was an important figure in the city's early business deals, and also became very prominent in fraternal circles, including the Masons, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias. He spent his old age in leisure on what he retained of his early claim, and died in 1902.

A letter recently written by Mrs. Julius Bauer of Chicago to Mr. E. J. Walt of this city contains the following:

"I have learned with keen interest that the famous vocal teacher (and my teacher) William Shakespeare II of Chicago and formerly of London, is to give a summer course at the University School of Music, Lincoln, Nebraska. It is indeed a feather in the cap of that institute to be able to secure the services of so great an authority on voice and no earnest student can afford to miss the opportunity to study with him. I have studied with the best here and in New York but Shakespeare has no peer!"

The THEATERS

(Advertisement.)

THE RIALTO THEATRE WILL BE CLOSED FOR TWO WEEKS.

The Rialto closed Saturday night, and will remain closed for two weeks. During this period the house will be thoroughly renovated and re-decorated, opening Monday, June 19, more beautiful than ever.

WILLIAM de MILLE'S BIG PRODUCTION "BOUGHT AND PAID FOR" AT THE LYRIC.

There is hardly a theatre in this country that has not at some time or other held audiences that were thrilled by George Broadhurst's stage drama, "Bought and Paid For." This epic of the stage has been translated to the screen in the colorful manner characteristic of William de Mille. The cast is headed by Agnes Ayres and Jack Hot and includes Walter Hiers also other screen favorites. We feel safe in guaranteeing this picture as the finest and most forceful drama we have presented in many months. The program of short subjects includes, Pathe News, Topics of the Day, Fables and Comedies. Added attraction, Joe Zimmerman and Ethel Upton, singing "The Swing Son," by "Veronique." Music by Lyric Concert Orchestra, U. G. McVay, director.

A GREAT BIG SHOW AT THE COLONIAL THIS WEEK.

The big program which will be presented at the Colonial all this week, includes the feature picture, "The Crimson Challenge," a sweeping romantic, melodrama of the west starring Dorothy Dalton; "Off his Beat," a new and rollicking comedy. The sixth and last round of "The Leather Pushers;" International News Weekly and extra, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only, the eighteenth and last chapter of "With Stanley in Africa."

Here is another program that is sure to be enjoyed by the entire family.

Virginia Blaine—Agnes Ayres.
Robert Stafford—Jack Holt.
James Gilley—Walter Hiers.
Fanny Blaine—Leah Wyant.
Oku—George Kuwa.
Maid—Bernice Frank.
Telegraph girl—Ethel Wales.

Robert Stafford, a self-made millionaire, falls in love with Virginia Blaine, the switchboard operator in a large hotel, and asks her to dine with him repeatedly. Virginia refuses, despite the protests of her sister, Fanny, and Fanny's fiance, Jimmy. One evening when Stafford includes the latter two in his invitation, Virginia accepts. In his luxurious apartment, he asks Virginia to marry him. She hesitates as she does not love him, but he tells her that he will win her love. Finally his gentleness and patience did win her and she was supremely happy as Mrs. Robert Stafford.

This also means a great deal to Jimmy and Fanny, for it meant a good position at a big salary for Jimmy, and a good home and plenty of clothes for Fanny. Only one thing mars Virginia's happiness and that is, as time goes, Stafford drinks heavily and often comes home drunk. After each carouse, however, he apologizes and gives her an extravagant gift.

One night, Jimmy and Fanny, now married are at the house for dinner, and Stafford does not come home at the appointed time. Virginia fears that he has been drinking again. Later he arrives quite drunk and he cannot understand Virginia's loathing and horror. She shrinks from him, he is furious and tells her that she did not love him when she married him, that he bought and paid for her, and that she was his.

Staggered by the insult, Virginia flees to her room, but he follows her and although she locks the door, he breaks it down with a poker. The next morning, Virginia tells him that he must promise to stop drinking, or she will leave him. He is stubborn, and will not promise, so she piles up all of the jewels and everything he has given her and leaves, telling him that she is not taking a thing with her.

Stafford is confident that poverty will bring her back, so he allows her to go.

Does she come back?

You'll have to find out for yourself.

What would you do?

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—I am one of Harrison Ford's many admirers. I think he is one of our best leading men. What I can't understand is why he doesn't have better parts. We all know he makes a dandy leadying man for Norma Talmadge, but even so I would like to see him get up where some of the other stars that are not half as good. Of course, I admit he isn't as handsome as our Wallie Reid, but just the same, he is every bit as good and even better in some pictures. As the dope fiend and drunkard in "Love's Redemption," he couldn't be beaten, and also in "Smilin' Through," where he took the part of Kenneth Wayne's uncle. All Wallie Reid does any more is walk around in evening clothes, trying to look as pretty as he can. When we pay our good money to see a good show we want more than the handsome hero making love to the beautiful leading lady.

In "Beyond the Rocks," with Rodolph Valentino and Gloria Swanson, that's just about all there was. I like Rudie just fine, but as for Gloria, ithink she is the most impossible actress I ever saw. I hope Dorlie doesn't play in any more of her pictures. I suppose you think I am quite a grouch, but I am not. I am just a fun loving girl trying to get all the fun out of life that I can. If you don't feel like publishing this letter, you can throw it in the waste paper basket, but I had to get it "off my chest."

First of all, though, I would like to have you tell me all you can about Harrison Ford. If he is married, how old he is, color of eyes and hair, and some of the plays he has been in, also where he was born. All I can say in closing, is, give Harrison Ford a good chance and he will show the world that he can act as well as make love.—BLUE EYES.

Blue Eyes, some of the fans are going to "jump all over" you when they read your letter. Wallace Reid and Gloria Swanson are both pretty popular, so you had better run and hide. Harrison Ford is also very, very good-looking, and I have it from very good authority that he admits it. Just at present it doesn't look as though Rodolph would play as leading man opposite Gloria Swanson any more, since he has become a star. He's getting quite a little free publicity now, too, that may not improve his popularity as a star.

Your favorite, Harrison Ford, was born in Kansas City, Mo., in 1893, with brown hair and eyes. He is single at present, although he has been married. Some of the pictures in which he has played leading roles are "The Passion Flower," "Miss Bobbs," "Food For Scandal," "Oh, Lady, Lady," "The Third Kiss," "Girls," "A Lady in Love," and "The Lottery Man."

Dear Movie Editor—This is the first time I have written to you, and I hope it wont be the last. I have always been interested in dramas and they lead me to be interested in their production and the actors.

This summer I intend to make a note book about dramas, comedies, the actors and the like, so I am asking if you have anw pictures of the following favorite actors and actresses of mine, though they are not all. I am just choosing distinct types for my book: Rodolph alentino, Agnes Ayres, Gloria Swan-Valentino, Agnes Ayers, Gloria Swan-Clark.

Also will you please tell me some of the latest pictures the above will play in and some of the latest news of each.

We do not get The Star regularly, as that is the only paper I know that takes up so much of the cinema world, I am not just up to date in the knowledge of latest pictures.

If you have any information concerning religious pictures I would be very glad for that too. I saw one or two here but I have forgotten the names.

Do they ever take motion pictures of "The Passion Play?"

I know I am asking a great deal so I had better stop till the next time, that is if I haven't asked too much, and you will let me be ANOTHER BOTHERER, Beatrice, Neb.

I am always glad to have another fan enter my department. I have mailed you what pictures I could of your favorites.

Rodolph Valentino has just completed "Blood and Sand", his first picture as a star for Paramount pictures. His next will be "The Young Rajah" and following that "The Spanish Cavalier." If you read the newspapers you have no doubt read all of the latest news concerning Mr. Valentino.

Agnes Ayres has just finished "Borderland" in which she is the star. She will also have one of the leading roles in "Clarence," a William De Mille production in which Wallace Reid and May McAvoy also play. Following "Clarence," Miss Ayres will star in "A Daughter of Luxury" under the direction of Paul Powell.

Gloria Swanson finished "The Gilded Cage' before going to Europe in which David Powell plays opposite her. Upon her return from Europe, Miss Swanson will play in "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew" under Sam Woods' direction.

Eugene O'Brien recently terminated his contract with Selznick, and is planning on returning to the stage in the fall. There have bene rumors, too, that if he wished, he could again play opposite Norma Talmadge in her productions. "Channing of the Northwest" is the last picture that Mr. O'Brien made for Selznick.

Marguerite Clark has made no recent pictures. "Scrambled Wives" was her last.

There have been several religious pictures filmed. The Bible is being filmed now, and if you have read any of William Jennings Bryan's views on Darwinism, you will be interested to know that his lecture on that subject has been filmed and is released under the title "Back to God." Ninety hand colored lantern slides are used to visualize each of Mr. Bryan's thoughts on the subject that is causing so much comment at present. By the way did you know that over 4000 churches in the United States are using motion pictures in the church.

"The Passion Play" was one of the first big pictures ever filmed, and I noticed in a recent issue of Victor Visual News that their representative at the 1910 Passion Play, W. J. Gruenwald, is now on his way to Oberammergau to get pictures of the Passion Play that is to be given this year. Mr. Gruenwald is a personal friend of the Lang family, who are the principals in the Passion Play.

Dear Movie Editor—I am a stranger visiting in your city for a while, and I noticed your interesting department in The Star today so I thought I would take this opportunity of learning about a few of my favorite stars.

Is Jack Pickford married and if so to whom? Has he deserted the movies. It has been quite a while since I have seen him in pictures and I always liked him so well. Does Mary Pickford have any other brothers or sisters? If so, are they too in motion pictures, and if they are, why do we never hear anything about them.

Don't you think that it was a woman who killed William Desmond Taylor? I do wish they would unearth the mystery of his death, so I could see how near right I am in my views of the case.

What is Rodolph Valentino's next picture, and who will play opposite him? I don't see why they are making such a fuss about his marriage. I know lots of states where they can get a divorce, and then go in another state and get married, and as long as Rodolph really didn't know that he was doing wrong, I think they should hush the matter up. It's just because he's a motion picture actor, and Hollywood happens to be the center of attraction just now on account of the recent murders commited there that they are beginning to "step" on any actor who happens to do something a little out of the ordinary. I for one, wish that they would allow Rudie to go his way peacefully.

Where is Pearl White? What will her next picture be? What company is she with now? I think she is one of the best actresses on the screen today. She doesn't wear quite as many Paris gowns as Elsie Ferguson or Gloria Swanson, but she really knows how to act and that is more than I can say for some of our "fashion models" that we have in so many pictures today.

I am going to see Mae Murray at the Lyric this week. I was so glad that I happened to be in Lincoln when one of her pictures was shown, because I just love her. I think she is the most beautiful blond I have ever seen either on the screen, or off. I should love to see her in real life, and I hope that sometime I will be given the opportunity to do so. Is she married and if so, to whom? Does she have any children? What are some of the other pictures in which she has played?

I mustn't take up any more of your space, or you will never want to hear from me again. With many thanks for answering my questions, I remain A STRANGER HERE.

I am very glad that you found my department interesting enough to visit. Jack Pickford was the husband of Olive Thomas, who died in Paris a couple of years ago. Rumor says that he is to marry Marylyn Miller of the Follies and Miss Miller's friends have confirmed the report. He is Mary Pickford's only brother. She has one sister, however, Lottie Pickford Rupp Forest, who has played in pictures some, but is not as well known as the other two Pickfords.

I'll have to confess that when greater minds than mine have failed to unravel the Taylor mystery, I have no theories any longer regarding it.

Mr. Valentino will star in "Blood and Sand" next with Lila Lee as his leading lady. Rodolph was pretty well known before his recent marriage, but he has at least "put himself on the map" to such an extent that people will not forget him now. Whether it will be for better or worse so far as his picture career is concerned, remains to be seen. I don't see why it should do him any harm professionally, because he carried his love-making into real life, and acted a little too hastily in taking unto himself another wife, when he wasn't quite free from the first one.

Pearl White is in Paris at present, but she expects to return to the U. S. about the first of July to commence work on a new serial for Pathe.

Mae Murray is married to Robert Leonard, her director. So far as I know she has no children. Some of her pictures are: "A Mormon Maid," "Twin Pawns," 'A. B. C. of Love," "On With the Dance," "Right to Love," "Idols of Clay," "The Gilded Lily," "To Have and to Hold," "The Dream Girls," and "Delicious Little Devil."

Dear Movie Editor—I would like to ask you about an old favorite of mine, whom I have not seen for two or three years, and that is Peggy Hyland. Why do we never see her any more? Where is she? Is she? Is she married? What color eyes and hair does she have and how tall is she? What is her nationality?

I would also like to have you tell me about Annette Kellerman. What is her nationality, and is she married? Thank you, GEORGE.

Peggy Hyland is in England at present, where she is to appear in a series of two-reel comedies for a new company that has recently been organized there. She is married, and is English by birth, having been born at Worcestershire, England. She has brown hair, gren eyes and is five feet and one inch in height.

Annette Kellerman was born in Sydney, New South Wales. She is Mrs. Sullivan in private life.

CIRCUS PARADE IS ATTRACTIVE

No Limit to Lessons To Be Learned In Comparative Zoology.

Gollmar Bros. Will Show Two Herds of Educated Animals Here June 8.

An hour can always be spent in a circus menagerie with pleasure and incidental advantages of these so inclined. There is no limit to the lessons to be learned there in comparative zoology. If one has eyes and is not afraid to ask questions any amount of odd and interesting information can be picked up.

For example, one learns that the giraffe can utter no sound, that the elephant can feel a fly bite, that camels are bred in Siberia, that the male ostrich sits on the eggs, that the female kangaroo carries its young in a pouch while traveling, that a hippopotamus eats less than a dog, that the most beautiful lace is made from the hair of a yak.

The menagerie of Gollmar Bros. circus, which exhibits here on Thursday, June 8, is a complete zoological garden. There is nothing in the animal kingdom that is missing in this display if it has any value as an exhibit This circus is known to be the pioneer and the leader in all great things. This year's organization is more than ever surprising in size and feature. The equipment is all new and the parade is on a more grandeur scale.

Aside from the menagerie, there are many groups of animals among the ring acts that are of intense interest. Trained monkeys, two herds of educated elephants in new acts, the clown dogs, and companies of trained horses in spectacular performances are among the most important specialites, of this nature.

The "baby zoo" which contains a number of infant wild animals born in captivity this spring, is quite a feature as well as some startling circus acts that are new, sensational and original

The street parade is new and attractive and is an evidence of what is to follow. There is an abundance of clowns and the concert given by the big military band previous to the performance is well worth hearing. The program contains everything from "jazz" to grand opera.

Trained camels with Gollmar Bros. circus which will be seen in Lincoln shortly.

Madge Kennedy, who has been appearing on the stage for sometime is to return to the screen. She will star in a series of six special productions for the Kenma Corporation, a new company of which Harold Bolster, investment banker, and husband of Miss Kennedy, is the president. Miss Kennedy's first picture will be an adaption of Charles Major's celebrated novel "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall." So anxious was Mary Pickford to procure the screen rights to "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" that she offered the Kenma Corporation $50,000 for it. Miss Kennedy will be supported by an all-star cast.

Colleen Moore has been chosen to play the leading role in Goldwyn's production of "Broken Chains", the scenario by Winifred Kimball that won the first prize of $10,000 in the Chicago Daily News—Goldwyn scenario.

Skating Macks at The Beach Tuesday

The Skating Macks, famous specialty act scheduled to begin its engagement at Capital Beach on Sunday, has been forced to stay over a week at the New York Hippodrome where it has been showing and will not arrive at the beach until Tuesday.

As a substitute, W. E. Sharp, president of the amusement company has secured Taylor's band of singers who will appear Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in the regular performances. Then the 'Macks" will appear in the act as advertised, for the remainder of the week.

Capital Beach has enjoyed an unusually popular early season and is making preparations for record crowds during the summer months.

HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN IN BRILLIANT COSTUMES TAKE PART IN MAY FESTIVAL OF CAPITOL SCHOOL

The Capitol school May festival, held May 31, on the school grounds, was largely attended by crowds of school children in their gay summer dresses and costumes, attended by parents and friends.

The program opened with an overture by the Capitol school band and a procession of all the children of the schools through flower-covered arches to the grounds where they formed a semi-circle. The program a series of dances and songs, centered about the story of a garden, working up to a climax in the final May Pole dance.

After the processionl came a "chorus of Springtime," sung by all the pupils. The spring song was sung in chorus by the pupils of the fifth grade, while a "Dance of the Nymphs" was danced by four little girls in green, who were Ruth Smith, Mary Anette Comstock, Ermeline Silber, and Janet Kohn. This was followed by a solo daince by Ermeine Silber.

An interlude followed, filled by a group of songs by pupils of the fourth and fifth grades, and a game with teddy-bears by the kindergarten children carrying teddy-bears and wearing caps in spring colors, pink, blue, and green.

The garden motif was resumed with a sweet pea and daisy song and dance by children of the second grade dressed to represent these flowers. Sarah Kimball in a sweet pea dress and Margaret Martin as a daisy gave solo dances. The sixth grade girls, in white and carrying branches of artificial apple blossoms, performed a flower drill.

The two next numbers showed enemies of the garden. The boys of the sixth grade in grasshopper costumes descended upon the garden and hopped about to music. The children of the first grade, in yellow caps and frills, represented the dandelions in a song and dance.

Peace returned soon with the singing of "An Old-fashioned Garden" by pupils of the sixth grade, with the girls dressed as flowers and the boys as grasses. A solo dance by Charlotte Ann Rain represented the Spirit of springtime in the garden. After this came a butterfly drill, in which the second grade girls as butterflies were chased by the boys as little brown bees.

But a more serious peril then the grasshoppers threatened the garden when the imps, personified by Russel Lieurance and George Koster, dressed all in red, swooped down upon the garden to destroy the flowers. The disaster was averted by the timely arrival of Robin Hood with his band of forty archers, who drove the imps from the garden, rescued the flowers, and carried away the dandelions, who were the little first grade children. Boys of the seventh and eighth grades were the archers, and Gerald Brownfield took the part of Robin Hood. The bold forest outlaws were, of course, appropriately costumed in green.

A second interlude followed this triumph, and consisted of songs by the eighth grade, and groups of songs by the Girls' glee club of Capitol school. This led up to the final number, the May Pole dance by the girls of the eighth grade and of the third and fourth grades. The eighth grade girls wound the large May pole while the little girls danced in a group about the following larger girls: Harriet Newens, Marjorie Trott, Mary Booth, Gertrude Kreuger, Virginia Kimball.

The boys who arranged grounds for the dance were Eugene Kloss, Joe Spangler, Frederick Stumpl, Warward Wheeler, Lyle Pickwell, and Robert Dodd.

The plan of the festival was worked out by the teachers of the school. Songs sung by the imps and by the archers were written by the English aid history classes, flowers and caps were made by the art classes, suggestions for some of the costumes grew out of a study of the Robin Hood story. The teachers of the school who assisted Miss Clara McPhee in presenting the festival were Misses Celle Davis, Julia Watson, Nelle Purdy, Hazel Graff, Alice Burley, Eva Erickson, Clara M. Hohl, Faye Edwards, Florence Butler, Fanchon Hooper, Ruth Barton, Tammie Rymal, and Elizbeth Hamann; Mesdames C. F. Goddard, Nina Mae Dolezal, Alma B. Blythe and Jane Zellars; and J. P. Sothower.

his "Buddy" during the war. While the company was at Oxnard, California, Bert Glennon, the chief camera man, made Nannie-Grace Heron, Mr. Melford's script assistant, a bride.

Ruth Dwyer, whose last screen appearance in this country was with Eugene O'Brien in "Clay Dollars," has gone to Germany to appear in photoplays.

Wesleyan Affairs

Chancellor I. B. Schreckengast has prepared a summary of the special life service groups at Nebraska Wesleyan university. He finds that forty three students have indicated their intention of entering the ministry; thirty-nine are signed up for work in the foreign mission field while three are as yet undecided between the ministry and the foreign field. Eight hope to enter some other line of Christian service. Fifty-three will take up life service but will later decide what form of this appeals to them. This makes a total of 156 specifically alligned for life service in Christian lines.

Among those who are preparing for medical work in foreign lands are Miriam Albertson, Paul Baker, Elizabeth Brown, Frank Furman, E. J. Kirk, and William C. Rollin. Four Wesleyan students are combining their university course with work in theology and are now at Evanston, Ill. They are Will Bernhardt, Mrs. Helen Person Bernhardt, Frank August, and Mrs. Viola Talich August.

A variety of special vocations in life service have been indicated by Wesleyan students. Home mission work is the choice of Vera I. Conner and Myrtle Williams. Teaching has been chosen by Audra Lukheart. Doris Gustafson wishes to prepare to be director of religious education. Vilas W. Dragoo selects social work. Nursing is the preferred line of Genevieve Kennedy and Fae Lukheart. Director of recreational activities has been chosen by Inez Teachman.

Chancellor I. B. Schreckengast's youngest daughter, who was a member of the graduating class at Wesleyan this week, is among the life service pledges. Her sister, Miss Joy, spent three years in such service in the Argentines. Although not a school of theology, Nebraska Wesleyan maintains a large number of department courses for the assistance of those who are preparing for life service work.

Doane College News

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. cabinets had charge of the chapel exercises this week, according to the annual custom for examination week.

At a business meeting of the girls' glee club, the following officers were elected for next year: Alice Anderson, president; Elva Bloodgood, vice president; Ruth Kinney, manager, and Kathleen Shaw, librarian.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

The younger generation of our wealthiest families continue to flock to the screen under the Talmadge banner. First it was Mrs. Lydig Hoyt, who created a flurry in social circles when she accepted a part in the screen version of "The Wonderful Thing" with Norma. More recently the fashionable set of Newport, New York and Palm Beach whispered over the choice morsel that Mrs. Archibald McNeil, jr., was to play second in "East Is West" with Constance Talmadge.

Meanwhile Beatrice Bentley, a pretty college graduate whose family stands high in the social register of Detroit has jojined the Norma Talmadge company. Miss Bentley was graduated from Columbia university last year and has only been in California six months. She was given a chance in Norma Talmadge's latest picture, "The Eternal Flame."

Miss Bentley when asked why she turned to the screen after a brilliant college career replied:

"A college education is never superfluous in any worthwhile career and it seems to me it is especially desirable for a girl ambitious to enter pictures for she must compete with the greatest assemblage of beauty that can be found."

Beatrice Bentley.

Theodora Roberts has said a tearful farewell to his mustache! For a good many months he has been permitted to retain the hirsute adornment and has appeared in Paramount pictures with fringe on his upper lip.

But Uncle Joshua Whitcomb wore no mustache. To present him with one would be to defy tradition. "The Old Homesteader" with Uncle Josh wearing a mustache would be like "Uncle Tom" with the title role played by a German.

In "The Beauty Shop" Miss Fazenda wears a close fitting mask of papier mache plastered over with putty half an inch thick. After the Comedienne had worn the plaster for several days she confessed she knew why house painters got such good wages.

Miss Fazenda was born in Lafayette, Indiana. It was not until her parents brought her to Los Angeles and after Mack Sennett saw possibilities in her that she began a successful screen career.

Tom Moore is to be featured opposite Mary Miles Minter in "The Cowboy and the Lady," Clyde Fitch's play.

"Snitz" Edwards has been added to the Owen Moore cast in Selznick's "A Previous Engagement," which Victor Heerman is directing.

Ben Turpin and Phyllis Haver, who have been playing in vaudeville, have returned to the camera realm at the Sennett studios. F. Richard Jones is to direct the next Turpin special.

Screen Siftings

Three thousand yards of ribbon were used on the costumes of "When Knighthood was in Flower," the Cosmopolitan Production starring Marion Davies which will be released in the fall. Costumes cost between seventy-five and one hundred thousand dollars. A big staff of seamstresses and designers were busy for months on them.

Mae Busch has been chosen by Goldwyn for the leading feminine part in "The Christian," most of which will be filmed abroad. Miss Busch and Richard Dix, who is the star of the picture, are already on their way to England to commence work. Miss Busch recently played in "Foolish Wives" and "Brothers Under Their Skins". Maurice Tourneur is directing "The Christian" for Goldwyn.

Bradley King, Ince staff writer, has spent many weeks haunting newspaper offices for atmospheric touches for an original screen story for early production at the Ince studios. The gathering, publication and the development of "news" will be the supporting theme of interest in this American love drama which has not yet been titled.

Joe Roberts, Tom Wilson, Monte Collins, Kate Price and Harry Madison as well as numerous extras, support Buster Keaton in "My Wife's Relations," which will be released soon through the Associated First National. "My Wife's Relations" is a picture without an ingenue.

George Fawcett, who recently signed a year's contract to appear in Paramout pictures, has been added to the cast of "The Old Homestead." He will be the old skinflint in the picture. The cast so far includes, Edward Brady, who will play the role of the constable, Theodore Roberts, T. Roy Barnes, Fritzie Ridgeway, Harrison Ford and Ethel Wales. James Cruze will direct "The Old Homestead."

Mary Thurman, former bathing beauty, who is now leading lady for Richard Barthelmess in "The Bond Boy," is rehearsing a one act skit, between times, which will be produced by the Keith interests.

Raymond McKKee is so worried for fear audiences may not realize that "Down to the Sea in Ships" is a biblical phrase that he suggests putting "From 107th Psalm" in small letters wherever the title appears. Raymond McKee and Marguerite Courtelot have the leading roles in this Elmer Clifton production, which is at present being filmed in New Bedford.

Marjorie Daw makes her first appearance in a Selznick film when she plays the part of leading lady for Owen Moore in a "A Previous Engagement," which is being filmed in Hollywood.

The Kenma Corporation, which has contracted with Madge Kennedy for her services for three years, has insured her life for $250,000.

Seena Owen and Gladys Leslie, who play the roles of the sisters in "Sisters" the new International Film Production, are said to bear a startling resemblance to each other in real life. Matt Moore plays the part of the husband who falls in love with two sisters. The story is by Kathleen Norris and ran serially in Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Bebe Daniels is going to die for the first time, in or out of pictures, in the Penrhyn Stanlaws Paramount production of "Pink Gods," in which she is featured with James Kirkwood. It is a story of the diamond mines in South Africa, and the cast also includes Anna Q. Nilson, Adolph Manjou, Raymond Hatton and others.

The fans who saw George Arliss here last week in "Disraeli" will be glad to know that they will have an opportunity of seeing him here again soon at the Rialto in "The Ruling Passion". "The Ruling Passion" is an adaption of Earl Derr Biggers' Saturday Evening Post story, "Idle Hands".

Martha Mansfield, who took a fling in vaudeville sometime ago, and is now working in "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge," for Pyramid, expects to return to the stage again as soon as she finishes the picture.

The radio is so popular with the cast in "The Bond Boy" in which Richard Barthelmess is starred, that when the company goes on location in the wilds of the Virginia mountains, radio apparatus will be taken with them. Mr. Barthelmess, himself, has become so interested in the radio, that he has taken a flyer in his first business venture, by becoming interested in a radio manfucturing concern.

Theodore Kosloff, Russian dancer and film actor, is $50,000 better off, as the result of a recent return by the Russian Bolshevik government of jewels and property confiscated five years ago, according to a letter received from his sister in Moscow. The jewels which were returned to him include a gold watch with the Russian eagles which was presented to Mr. Kosloff by the late Czar Nicholas; a pair of moonstone cuff links also a gift from the Czar; silver plate for twenty-four persons, a present of Grand Duke Vladimir; a large ruby stickpin fro the Grand Duke Sergius and emerald cuff-links from Lady Evelyn Guiness. Kosloff's two sisters have been granted permission to come toi America, but it is uncertain whether they will be permitted to bring the jewels with them.

George Chesebro and Sophia Barman are honeymooning in the Yosemite. George's company will join them to make exteriors there for his mounted police serial of the northwest.

Real arctic Husky dogs are shown in "A Virgin's Sacrifice," Corinne Griffith's new production for Vitagraph. Several teams of these sledge dogs were secured to give local color to the piece which deals with life in the land north of 53.

New Ideas in Furniture
for Every Room in Your Home

The Living Room is the center of the life in your home, so give it careful consideration. Possibly an Overstuft Living Room Suite is your choice but choose it with care. Mahogany frames with cane insets or all overstuft are both attractive, and we show them in exquisite color combinations.

Tables for every need; small Davenport Tables to fit against the end of the Davenport or long styles to be placed behind it. Drop Leaf tables in quaint styles; Period Tables ranging from the graceful styles to the massive designs.

DAY BEDS—LAMPS for every corner—DESKS. Let us show you the new arrivals.

—don't forget that extra room. New Porch Swings in padded Canvas or Canvas trimmed with cretonne are unusual. Wicker Furniture for your porch is a necessity; you will like our new furnishings for this purpose.

Period DINING ROOM Suites
Italian Waxed Walnut, Mahogany, Walnut and Oak, all in carefully designed pieces that show in their fiinsh and construction their high quality.

The Buffets show many new features; almost all are very long and rather narrow. Careful housekeepers wil be interested in the new receptacles for silver and fine china.

And your Kitchen
—you will enjoy the bright Gas Stoves in almost any wanted finish. And our AUTOMATIC Refrigerators are the choice of housekeepers the world over. Let us tell you of their special construction for ice and food saving.

Breakfast Sets in cool green or ivory should interest the bride.

Beautiful and Graceful
BED ROOM Furniture
—the light oak or maple sets for the younger girl and darker Suites in fine Walnut or grained Mahogany. Many new ideas are shown in Bed Room Needs which we shall be glad to have you see.
